Industrial and Miscellaneous Securities

Under the heading "Industrial and Miscellaneous Securities" we include all issues which do not appear under the previous two headings, namely "Railroads (Steam)" and "Public Utilities." In the case of stocks, however, we put "Textile Manufacturing," "Insurance," "Mining," "Real Estate and Land," "Title Guarantee and Safe Deposit Companies" under separate heads, then follow with the rest of the "Industrial and Miscellaneous."

United States and Municipal Bonds

In reporting below prices for State and municipal securities, we give bid and asked quotations wherever they can be obtained The custom however, is to quote municipal securities on the basis of the return they yield per annum. Therefore in most cases it will be found that instead of actual prices we have inserted in the column headed "To Net" certain figures to indicate the interest rate at which business in the bonds is being done. Thus 4.35% means that the particular security can be bought or sold at a price that will yield the purchaser or seller 4.35% per annum to the maturity of the issue. Where two figures appear, as for instance "4.25% to 4.35%," the rate of return varies according to the maturity—the shorter maturities yielding the lowest rate, and the longer maturities yielding the highest return.

In State and municipal bonds the custom has always been to quote them "and interest." That is, the accrued interest must in all cases be added on.

Note.—Owing to the present demoralized condition of the municipal bond markets, brokers and dealers find it difficult, and in many cases, almost impossible to make quotations for municipal bonds. Bid prices, especially for the smaller municipalities, are practically out of the question and sales or terms are simply a matter of bargaining between buyer and seller. In fact the absolute lack of demand often causes good bonds to be offered at almost any price.

STATE AND NATIONAL BANK STATEMENTS

Quotations in this department are given per share, not per cent, except for stocks of Canadian Institutions, and are as near as possible for the closing day of the month preceding date of issue, though often are nominal. An asterisk (*) denotes sales.

Figures of deposits, capital and profits for the national banks are from the Comptroller's last call; for all other institutions they are the latest obtainable, direct returns being procured by us where no periodic statements are required. For the Clearing House banks of New York, Philadelphia and Boston, deposits are taken from the latest weekly statement.

REVIEW OF MARCH—COMMERCIAL AND FINANCIAL EVENTS.

Relief measures still occupied a large share of attention during March, but tax legislation for correcting a budget deficit of the Federal Government running in excess of $2,000,000,000 for the current fiscal year ending June 30 1932, with the idea of preventing any repetition of such an outcome in the new fiscal year, and, indeed, with the purpose of ensuring the country against any deficit at all in Government revenues, became the important feature in affairs alongside which everything else paled into relative insignificance. Obviously the budget had to be balanced before the country could count on any change for the better in the trade situation, since otherwise Government debt would continue to pile up, a situation which was to be avoided above everything else. Unfortunately tax legislation took an unfavorable turn, and this gave rise to grave apprehensions regarding the outcome, and thus became a new unsettling influence in the business and financial world, thereby further delaying the revival of trade for which everyone was so earnestly and so fervently praying.

GREAT OPPOSITION DEVELOPS TO THE NEW TAX BILL.

Balancing the budget meant providing some 1¼ billion dollars of revenue from new sources, plainly no easy task. On account of the continued shrinkage in Government revenues, and particularly the income tax receipts, the Treasury Department had found it necessary to revise its estimate, made the previous December, as to the probable extent of the shortage, and this naturally added to the difficulty of the undertaking. In a statement issued in February, Mr. Mills, the present Secretary of the Treasury, indicated that instead of the $786,000,000 of new revenue which the Treasury Department had estimated the previous December it would be necessary to provide, the amount would now have to be increased by $455,000,000, making the actual sum to be raised from new sources $1,241,000,000, and he indicated the sources from which this huge amount could be obtained, this including estimated economies in amount of $118,000,000. The House Committee on Ways and Means, in framing its bill, undertook to provide this additional amount of revenue, and the bill, as introduced in the House, made provision for raising the full amount which it was estimated would be needed, but the Committee on Ways and Means made the mistake of undertaking to raise nearly half the amount, or, to be precise, $595,000,000, by a sales tax of 2.25% on manufactured goods and articles, and that is where the trouble arose. Violent opposition to this sales tax was manifested from the start. The Treasury Department had in its own proposals for new sources of revenue rejected the sales tax, and Secretary Mills had indicated the objections to the same, but he finally acquiesced in the action of the Ways and Means Committee, since he felt it would yield the revenue counted upon, and he was desirous of showing a spirit of co-operation with the Democrats in order to get a bill of a non-partisan character and wholly free from political considerations. The drafting of the new taxation bill was completed on March 5 by the Ways and Means Committee, and on Monday, March 7, the bill was introduced in the House by Representative Crisp, Acting Chairman of the Committee. The bill was immediately referred back to the Committee, which met promptly and agreed to report it to the House with a recommendation for its passage without delay. The Committee's report was formally presented to the House on March 9 and consideration of the bill in the House was brought under way March 10. A balanced budget with a surplus of $5,000,000 in the Treasury by the end of the fiscal year 1933 would be made possible by the enactment of the new bill, Representative Crisp was reported as stating orally, according to the "United States Daily" of March 5, which also furnished the following outline of the main provisions of the bill:

The bill itself will provide for the raising of an additional $1,096,000,000 of revenue during the next fiscal year, and with $125,000,000 which is expected to be saved in Federal expenditures and $25,000,000 to be saved by proposed increases to be made in postal rates, the Treasury's estimated deficit of $1,241,000,000 will be more than covered, he explained.

The $1,096,000,000 additional revenue is expected to be raised by the following new and increased rates of the bill:

(1) A manufacturers' sales tax at a 2.25% rate	$595,000,000
(2) Increased income and surtax rates	112,000,000
(3) Increased corporation tax rate	21,000,000
(4) Doubling of estate tax and imposition of a gift tax	35,000,000
(5) Lowering the price on which an admission tax is to be charged	90,000,000
(6) Increase in stock transfer tax	28,000,000
(7) Excise tax	75,000,000
(8) Telephone, telegraph and radio message tax	35,000,000
(9) Tax on imported oil of 1 cent per gallon	5,000,000
(10) Changes in administrative features to "plug up" loopholes in the present revenue statute	100,000,000

Mr. Crisp asserted that the estimated yield which the Committee has placed on each of these items is "very, very conservative," and that it is probable that in nearly each instance the actual yield will be greater than figures given.

Approved by Treasury.

In a statement issued on March 5, following the Committee's agreement on the bill, the Secretary of the Treasury, Odgen L. Mills, anticipates that "the Committee proposes to cover the deficit by raising approximately $1,120,000,000 of new revenue and by reducing expenditures by $125,000,000." Although the bill differs in many ways from the recommendations submitted by the Department, he stated, it has the approval of the Treasury.

"The budget of the fiscal year 1933 can now be balanced in the sense that there will be no further increases in the public debt after June 30, next," Mr. Mills asserted. Mr. Crisp explained that it would be a few days later before the measure would be reported, as he desires to write a report that will "explain in every detail" each section, and make clear the reason for the action of the Committee regarding each item.

Mr. Crisp said that he thought it "only fair" to state that Representative Cullen (Dem.), of New York City, had offered an amendment to the bill shortly before the Committee agreed upon the measure which would have legalized beer and have placed a tax on the beverage of $5 a barrel, explaining that such a tax would have yielded approximately $300,000,000. The proposal was rejected, however, by a large majority, the Acting Chairman explained.

Although the excise, manufacturers' sales and special excise tax provisions of the new bill will expire on June 30 1934, Mr. Crisp explained that the new income, corporation, estate and gift rates will remain in effect until repealed or otherwise changed. None of the new or additional tax rates of the bill will be retroactive, the Committee agreed.

Sales Tax on Wholesale Price.

The manufacturers' sales tax, under which practically all manufactured articles except the necessities of life would be taxed at a 2.25% rate, would go into effect 30 days after the enactment of the bill. The tax would be collected from the manufacturer at the wholesale price, and under the provisions of the bill the manufacturers would have 30 days after the effective date of the tax to pay their first month's tax.

Where a special excise tax is being paid on any commodity under existing law, it was explained, the manufacturers' sales tax will not apply.

Broad authority is given to the Treasury Department to work out a method of administering this tax, but a licensing system has been provided in the bill under which all manufacturers doing a business of $20,000 or more a year shall be licensed and bonded. Approximately 140,000 manufacturers throughout the country are to be licensed under this provision, it is estimated. The Treasury, in administering the manufacturers' sales tax, must let the manufacturer know in advance what the tax on a specific article is to be, so that the manufacturer will have that information before him. The bill provides that where contracts have been made before March 1 1932, by manufacturers to deliver goods in the future, the purchaser is required to pay the tax.

The manufacturers' sales tax will affect imports to the extent that a duty of 2.25% above the regular tariff is to be required on all finished goods which are imported.

Exemptions from Sales Tax.

Mr. Crisp said that items selected for exemption from the manufacturers' sales tax take up less than two pages of the bill. The exemptions include

Farm products and garden products produced in the United States; fertilizers and ingredients of fertilizers; garden and field seed; meat, fish, shelled fish and poultry (fresh, dried, salted or in brine); bacon and ham, not cooked or sealed in air-tight containers; salt, butter, oleomargarine and other butter substitutes; cheese, milk or cream in any form; eggs in the shell; bread, flour or meal, made of grain or semolina; sugar, tea, coffee; tobacco and tobacco products already taxed; water not conserved in transportable containers; newspapers, magazines and other periodicals; books for the blind; textbooks for public and private schools; bibles, rosaries, chaplets, and practically all other articles of religious devotion or used exclusively in connection with churches.

With the increasing of income and surtax rates, under the new bill, the exemptions are lowered. A single person will be required to pay a tax on all income over $1,000 instead of $1,500 as at present, while the exemption in the new bill for a married person will be $2,500 instead of $3,500 as at present.

New Income Tax Rates.

The rate on the first $4,000 will be increased from 1½ to 2%; from $4,000 to $8,000, increased from 3 to 4%, and from $8,000 to $10,000, increased from 5 to 6%. The surtax rates begin with incomes of $10,000 or over, a 1% surtax applicable to incomes of $10,000 to $12,000; 2% on incomes from $12,000 to $14,000; 3% on incomes from $14,000 to $16,000, graduating up to 40% on incomes of $100,000 or over. The surtax is in addition to the individual income tax. The earned income base would be lowered from $20,000 to $12,000.

The credit for earned income would be deductible from gross income at the rate of 12½% instead of 25% from the net tax as now computed.

The corporation tax rate is increased from 12 to 13%. Under the present law a corporation with a net income up to $25,000 is exempted to the extent of $3,000. Under the new bill no corporation with a net income of over $10,000 will be allowed an exemption, but those with a net income of less than $10,000 will be allowed an exemption of $2,000.

Estate Tax to Be Doubled.

The estate tax is to be doubled under the new bill. Mr. Crisp stated that the increase is to be classified as a "super-tax," and all of the increased revenue derived under this title will go to the Federal Treasury. Under existing law, 80% of the estate tax collected goes to the States. Under the new bill the States will continue to get their proportionate share of this tax as if no change had been made, but the States will receive no benefit from the doubling of this rate.

The bill would make the maximum estate tax 40% on estates in excess of $10,000,000. The new bill, however, allows for shrinkage in the value of estates during periods of depression by allowing them to be valued 18 months after death.

In order to prevent evasion of the estate tax, as is done under the present law, according to Mr. Crisp, a gift tax has been incorporated in the bill so as to provide that all property or money inherited, exceeding $50,000, whether given in contemplation of death or not, is subject to a tax graduated from 1½% on $50,000 to 30% on $10,000,000 or above. The gift tax is described as a "mother tax" to the estate tax by Mr. Crisp.

Admissions Tax Broadened.

An admission tax of 10% on all admission charges of 25 cents and over is to be assessed. The admissions tax under existing law is only applicable to admission charges of $3 or above.

Provision is made for increasing the tax on the transfer of stocks from the present 2 cents a share rate to 4 cents a share. This tax will not apply to bonds, but will be invoked in the case of loans of stock used for short selling, which transaction is not taxable under the existing statutes.

Under the special excise provisions placed in the new bill, a tax of 4 cents a gallon is to be placed on lubricating oil, which is not taxed now. This is estimated to yield a revenue of $25,000,000. Other special excise levies to become effective under the new bill are a tax of 35 cents per gallon on malt syrup, a 40% ad valorem tax on grape concentrates, and a tax of 5 cents a gallon on wort, which is used in the making of "home brew." These latter three items are estimated to yield $50,000,000. Excise taxes will become effective 15 days after enactment of the bill.

Telephone, telegraph and radio messages costing from 31 to 49 cents will be taxed at the rate of 5 cents, while messages costing more than 50 cents will be taxed 10 cents. Wires used by newspapers would be exempted from this title.

A duty of 1 cent is to be placed on all imported gasoline, gasoline oil, fuel oil and crude oil. The Treasury estimates a yield of $5,000,000 from this source, according to Mr. Crisp, who said that during the hearings witnesses representing domestic oil interests claimed that such a tax would provide additional revenue to the extent of $40,000,000.

Consideration of the bill quickly developed into a campaign, or perhaps "stampede" would be the better word, to "soak the rich." On March 18, instead of the schedule of the income taxes and the surtaxes contained in the bill as it came from the Ways and Means Committee, which had proposed raising the surtaxes from a maximum of 20% on incomes in excess of $100,000 to double that amount, or 40% (also on sums in excess of $100,000) the House adopted an amendment raising the maximum from 40% on incomes exceeding $100,000 to a maximum of 65% on incomes in excess of $5,000,000. This amendment was adopted by a vote of 153 to 87. At the same time the maximum of the normal taxes, which the Committee bill had proposed to increase from 5% to 6%, was raised to 7%. The maximum surtax of 65% added to the 7% normal tax would make 72% altogether. But where the income is derived from dividends on the stock of a corporation, the corporation is first obliged to pay the income tax levied on corporations which it was proposed to increase from 11½% to 13%. Adding this to the 65% made 78% which it was proposed should be levied by the Federal Government as the maximum. In addition, however, there are the State income taxes to be paid. In New York these taxes are 4½% in the case of corporations and 6% as a maximum in the case of individuals, this latter having just been doubled with the maximum raised from 3% to 6%, this to apply to amounts above $50,000. Both taxes have to be paid, the State allowing the individual no deduction on incomes derived from corporations as the Federal law now does. In other words, the two State taxes aggregating 10½% would have to be added to the maximum of the Federal taxes of 78%, making altogether 88½% which the two governments would take in the case of large incomes. From a practical standpoint these proposed inordinate tax rates counted for little, inasmuch as incomes have shrunk so frightfully, in fact, having been converted into losses in innumerable cases (the wealthy classes having in hosts of cases suffered even worse that the rest of the community from the general income shrinkage) but the underlying spirit boded ill and indicated that the House, complete control of which had been lost by the leaders in both parties, was on a rampage of destruction instead of being engaged in a legitimate effort to provide new sources of revenue. Conservative people expressed the fear that if this species of legislation should really find its way into the statute books the effect would be to check the flow of capital into industry. On Saturday, March 19, to stave off the onslaught on the bill, the House adjourned early in the day, until noon Tuesday, March 22, as to which we quote the following from the Washington account, March 19, to the "Times":

Unable to check the revolt in both parties against the tax bill, leaders summarily adjourned the House early this afternoon to prevent further emasculation of the measure.

Adjournment was taken until Tuesday noon after Representative Crisp had declared the body was not "in a proper frame of mind to legislate." Leaders said they hoped for a "return of reason" by them.

The closing did not come in time to forestall another vital thrust by the opposition which struck out the "foreign credits" provisions of the bill. This clause provided for crediting domestic corporations with taxes paid at foreign branches. The vote was 139 to 103.

The "regular" leaders could not stop the uprising. As an indirect assault on the manufacturers' sales tax, the opposition sought to amend almost every section of the bill considered to-day.

Leaders now agree that it is hopeless to go ahead until the sales tax provisions have been acted upon, and plan, therefore, to bring this question to a test Tuesday "in behalf of orderly procedure."

Having tasted blood yesterday, when the surtax rates were boosted to wartime levels and the higher brackets of normal income taxes increased, opponents of the sales tax started out thirstily for more to-day.

They openly flaunted their recognized partly leaders and scoffed at comrades in the ranks who tried to exhort them to party loyalty. Time and again debate was marked by personal attacks.

Garner Fails to Check Revolt.

Speaker Garner tried before the House convened to give the divided Democratic ranks a rallying point. He reiterated his stand for the sales tax as the only way out of the financial crisis; he appealed to individuals to abandon personal "economic theories" for the good of the country. Some of his aides thought his statement too mild and too general for effect; at any rate, it did not check the revolt.

The rebellion had, in fact, reached such a point that only a handful of Democrats stood with Mr. Crisp against the "foreign credits" amendments; this group—13 in number—included Representative Boylan, the only Tammany member on the floor. . . .

Mr. Crisp had smooth sailing in his move for adjournment. Representative Doughton, leader of the Democratic revolt, admitted that the House was in no temper to legislate. Representative La Guardia, head of the Republican opposition, likewise made no contrary move.

The sales tax, which precipitated this state of things, and produced legislative chaos, was defeated on Thursday, March 24, by the overwhelming vote of 223 to 153 after Representative Crisp, as head of the Ways and Means Committee, had eliminated a long list of articles from the provisions of the measure in addition to those previously excluded from its operation—all without avail as a means of saving the sales tax clause. On Friday, March 25, the House was allowed to take a vote on an amendment to legalize 2¾ beer, that is, containing not more than 2¾% alcohol, and, therefore, non-intoxicating. The full text of the amendment was as follows:

"There shall be levied and collected on all non-intoxicating beer, lager beer, ale, porter or other similar non-intoxicating fermented lager containing ½ of 1% and not more than 2¾% of alcohol by weight, brewed or manufactured and hereafter sold or removed for consumption or sale, within the United States, by whatever name such liquor may be called, a tax of $5 per barrel, containing not more than 31 gallons, and at a like rate for any other quantity or for the fractional part of a barrel; provided that no such articles shall contain more than 2¾% of alcohol by weight; and provided further that the manufacture of any such article shall be conducted under permits to be issued in accordance with the National Prohibition Act and under such regulations as shall be promulgated by the Secretary of the Treasury and the Attorney-General of the United States; and provided further that this provision shall be effective one month after the enactment of this Act."

Here the question of prohibition came in to play a prominent part in the vote, and the proposition was rejected by 216 to 132. This, it was estimated, would provide in the neighborhood of $300,000,000 of revenue, and the failure to make it a part of the bill left the whole measure in a state of reckless confusion with nothing to offset the $595,000,000 of revenue it was proposed to derive from the sales tax and which had been unceremoniously voted out of the bill.

On Tuesday, March 22, the House adopted the Ramseyer estate tax amendment to the revenue bill (H. R. 10236), imposing a 45% maximum tax on all transfers of net estates above $10,000,000. The "United States Daily" of March 23, from which we quote, added:

This replaces the Ways and Means Committee language of Section 401, which imposes an additional estate tax, and, according to its sponsor, Representative Ramseyer (Rep.), of Bloomfield, Iowa, is expected to increase the estate tax revenue under the bill as it came from Committee.

Increases Proposed.

The Committee bill provided that in addition to the estate tax imposed by Section 301 (a), of the 1926 act, an additional tax equal to such tax is imposed upon transfer of the net estate of every decedent, resident or non-resident, after the enactment of the bill. It proposed to raise $35,000,000 by an additional 20% maximum above $10,000,000.

Representative Lewis (Dem.), of Cumberland, Md., proposed an amendment striking out that section and proposing a graduated scale of taxes up to 40% on net estates in excess of $500,000.

Representative Ramseyer offered his amendment as a substitute for the Lewis proposal. His amendment would apply hereafter, he said, on the transfer of every decedent, resident or non-resident, a graduated scale of taxes ranging from 1% of value of net estates not in excess of $10,000 up to 45% on estates of $10,000,000 or more. It also makes the exemption in existing law $50,000, instead of $100,000 and none of the additional taxes would go back to the States.

Special Rule Abandoned.

The Ramseyer substitute was adopted by a final vote of 190 ayes to 149 nays, eliminating both the Committee provision and the Lewis proposal.

Representative Ramseyer later explained that his amendment would bring in about $500,000,000 of revenue annually but for the rest of the present fiscal year of 1933 revenue between $70,000,000 and $100,000,000. Under the present estate tax, he said, the Federal Government collects approximately $130,000,000, of which about $102,000,000, or 80%, goes back to the States.

The taxes provided in his amendment, he said, are inclusive of the amounts imposed under the present law but the 80% refund to the States applies only to old law extent, the additional revenue not being subject to rebate to the States.

On Saturday, March 26, with the legislative buccaneers in complete control, the movement degenerated into a scheme for gaining tariff favors of one kind or another by raising customs barriers still higher or erecting new barriers. One member after the other proposed tariff amendments until Chairman Crisp, in sheer desperation, got up and said that if this kind of proceeding continued he would have to vote against the bill himself. This appeared to bring the House to its senses, and Mr. Crisp succeeded in obtaining an adjournment until Tuesday, March 28. What happened at this Saturday session is best described in the account of it given by the Washington correspondent of the New York "Times." It deserves to be put in record here as evidence of the spirit of recklessness with which the whole movement was carried on.

The new rebels against the Ways and Means Committee's program started out to turn it into a tariff measure. Encouraged by success with the coal and oil duties, they turned next to a tax of $3 a ton on imported fluorspar, but were checked when Representative Crisp, Acting Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, forced the Democrats back into line with a moving appeal in which he declared that they were destroying their own party and making themselves ridiculous before the country.

He told the House that if it proposed to turn the tax bill into general tariff legislation, then he was through, and would even vote against the whole measure. Later he added that if Mr. Snell and the Republican protectionists were going to pursue their course of to-day, "then they can balance their own budget."

The Georgian had uttered little or no complaint earlier in the week when the sales tax opponents tore his bill to pieces; he was obviously disappointed, but expressed no grievance.

But to-day Mr. Crisp declared that "patience has ceased to be a virtue." He could not stand by and see his party "wreck itself" by voting tariff rates that the most orthodox Republicans had turned down, he said.

Other Duties Are Rejected.

To his support came Representative Hawley, co-author of the Hawley-Smoot tariff Act, and Representative La Guardia of New York, who stirred up the revolt against the sales tax. They pleaded with the House not to jeopardize the budget-balancing revenue bill with tariff provisions.

From that point the House turned down in quick succession the proposed duty on fluorspar, an import tax on jute and jute products offered by Representative Fulmer, Democrat of South Carolina; a duty of a cent a pound on manganese, proposed by Representative Knutson, Republican of Minnesota; an import excise levy of 22 cents a pound on butter, offered by Representative Christopherson, Republican of South Dakota, and an embargo duty of 100% on imports produced by convict or indentured labor, proposed by Mr. Johnson, Republican of Washington.

The move toward tariffs began when Representative Seiberling, Republican of Ohio, proposed, under the guise of an import tax, to place a virtual embargo on Russian matches.

"I am going to find out whether this House is for Russia or America," he declared. Later he withdrew the amendment.

Mr. Crisp used a firm hand in conducting the proceedings on the tariff proposals. During consideration of the tax provisions he had let the discussion run much as it would. To-day he resorted time and again to the rules of the House to shut off debate and force the issues.

After the tariff advocates had spent themselves, the House passed the special excise tax sections of the bill. These carried a 4-cent excise tax on lubricating oils, a tax of 35 cents a gallon on malt syrup and wort used for "home brew" manufacture and a 40% tax on grape concentrates.

All these were expected by their sponsors to raise $71,000,000 in new revenue for the fiscal year 1933. The oil and coal tariffs were amendments to this section; together they were designed to yield $8,000,000.

Crisp Is Told of a Vote Trade.

Success of the coal tariff was said to have been assured before it was brought to the floor. Representative Crisp was told that it was a "trade" between the coal and oil interests and could not be stopped. [The House had incorporated a provision for a duty of 10 cents a hundred pounds on coal and coke imports before the movement could be stopped.]

The latter, at least, proved to be true. When voting time came Mr. Crisp saw many of his colleagues on the Democratic side pass between the tellers to vote for the coal duty.

On the other hand, he had the satisfaction of seeing a number who had deserted him earlier in the week stand with him on this issue. An overwhelming majority on the Republican side stood for the duty.

Once that vote was over, members from every section of the country who had failed to have their products included in the Smoot-Hawley Act took amendments to the desk.

Representative Parsons was recognized for his proposal of a duty on fluorspar, a mineral used in fluxing steel and aluminum. The House went into an uproar. Members sought to cut off debate so they could put their own amendments up for consideration. Conferences were going on all over the House. Small groups were framing other amendments.

It was in such a situation that Mr. Crisp took the reins and sought to stop the House from turning his tax bill into a "log-rolling tariff measure."

Mr. Hawley, in coming to his assistance, said:

"We are engaged in writing a revenue bill for the purpose of balancing the budget of the United States Government; my belief is that the writing of a proper revenue bill raising sufficient money to meet Government expenditures will restore public credit and bring back economic recovery which is the thing extremely desired by the people.

"I trust that so far as I have any influence with the gentlemen of the House there will be no more amendments offered that savor of tariff. Amendments that are for the raising of revenue that are germane are proper, but they ought not to endanger by any means or in any way the passage of this bill by changing it from its original purpose—that of bringing back prosperity to the country."

La Guardia Backs Up Crisp.

Mr. La Guardia told the sales tax foes not to detract from the victory of eliminating the 2.25% levy by loading the bill with tariff provisions.

"Our battle is over," he said. "In spite of the abuse being heaped upon us we have got to go straight down the line. We've got to ignore that abuse and stick by the Ways and Means Committee in its efforts to bring out a bill that will balance the budget. I regret to see some of my colleagues in the sales tax fight now trying to stifle this bill with tariff provisions."

Representative Rainey, the Democratic leader, appealed to his followers to proceed in order and "consider calmly this revenue bill."

Representative Michener of Michigan, a member of the Rules Committee, pleaded with Mr. Crisp to invoke a special rule and "bring order out of this chaos."

Speeches were cut to five minutes for and against any specific amendment and voting was rapid. First the Parsons amendment for a duty on fluorspar went down, 92 to 42. Next the Fulmer proposal for a graduated tax on jute and jute products was defeated by a viva voce vote.

Representative Schafer, Republican, of Wisconsin, broke the succession of tariff amendments with a proposal to throw out the tax on malt syrups and wort. He was voted down, 74 to 20.

Representative Knutson's amendment for a cent-a-pound tax on manganese was rejected, 85 to 56. The Christopherson amendment for a tariff on butter went next, viva voce, and the Johnson "embargo" on convict-made goods was overwhelmed, 91 to 27.

It was apparent to Mr. Crisp and his lieutenants at once, when the House opened, what they had to deal with. Mr. Seiberling, having gained the floor first, proposed his levy on matches, a graduated stamp tax, which in effect, would require that every package of matches be broken open and stamped by customs inspectors at the port of entry.

He admitted that it was intended as an embargo against Russian matches, and reiterated that he intended to see whether the House was for Russia or America.

Representative Rankin of Mississippi shouted:

"You can't get away with that kind of stuff in this House. You can't browbeat members of Congress by any such language."

Crisp's Appeal Against Tariff Move.

Sensing the impending tariff fight Mr. Crisp arose, saying:

"Mr. Chairman, I think you will all agree that I have shown no partisanship in the consideration of this revenue bill. I have tried to serve my country in a non-partisan way to raise revenue to balance the budget which the President of the United States, which the Secretary of the Treasury and which ex-President Coolidge say is essential for economic recovery and to make your temporary relief measures effective.

"Now, gentlemen, are you going to convert this bill into a tariff bill? I grant you there is one item in the bill which is tariff—oil. I did not want it in there, but it is in there and, therefore, I cannot consistently get up here and make points of order against these tariff amendments because I believe they are germane to the bill.

"But, gentlemen, are you going to write a tariff bill here on this floor under the guise that it is revenue?

"Here is the difference between this amendment and the oil amendment. The oil amendment was one cent, which will not be an embargo. Some oil will come in. This is an embargo and is intended as nothing else but an embargo.

"The people representing this match industry came to me and stated that it was an embargo. They said they were willing to pay eight or ten million dollars for the purpose of having a monopoly of the American market for matches. Of course they will raise the price to consumers. These representatives said the way to have it effective would be to have an embargo.

"The matches have to be opened when they come into the Custom House, each package of matches stamped. They said they didn't want it unless it was an embargo. They have it in Canada, and it is an embargo there.

"Now, you Democrats all over the country who have been criticizing the present tariff law, are you going to come in here now and write an embargo tariff against the products of Russia, which the Republicans, when they wrote the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill, would not do?

"What position are you going to leave yourselves in? What position will the Republicans leave themselves in who are opposed to an embargo?

"We may just as well face the issue. I am going to appeal to this House to try and help expedite the passage of this bill. We have brought it in here with no rule, for a liberal consideration, and that system is on trial.

"The minority leader said—or it was so stated in the papers—that we made a mistake in bringing the bill before you for you to consider it in this way instead of bringing it in under a rule. Now, do you like this way of considering a bill? If so, show your appreciation by trying to expedite it.

"Never has there been a bill of this character considered in Congress where there has been so much debate, and this debate is not going to change any votes. Any one can present his views on an amendment in five minutes. I give notice now that I am going to invoke the rule that there shall be but five minutes speech for and against an amendment, and I myself will not again ask to be allowed more than five minutes.

"I took it this time in order to make a general statement on the bill, and to ask you to help co-operate in expediting the passage of the bill."

From the "Times" also we take the final speech of Representative Crisp in the House on March 26 pleading with the coalition majority not to let the revenue bill be converted into a tariff bill was as follows:

This is a sad day for me. I love my country and I have endeavored to serve her. I have bared my breast to every shaft of criticism, and I have done so because I believed I was right.

I also love my party, and to-day I am seeing my party destroy itself. I am witnessing my party put on higher tariff rates than even the Republican put on, putting on embargoes, and then going out and criticizing the bill.

Consistency, thou art a jewel. I have tried to stem the tide. I realize that I am impotent; I realize that I have not had the majority of this House back of me. I have been long-suffering and patient and have not sought to close debate, but patience ceases to be a virtue.

I am going to express myself when I say to you that, so far as I am concerned, if these amendments and other things continue to be added to the bill, I shall myself vote against it.

Oh, gentlemen, what are you trying to do? Are you trying to balance a budget deficiency caused by a Republican Administration? I have no proof of it. But as I watched the vote yesterday afternoon by tellers on the oil proposition I suspected what was going to happen to-day, and it has been happening—a log-rolling tariff is making with embargo rates.

You may adopt all of these high-tariff amendments that you desire to, but I want the country to know it, and I want your people to know it, I hope the amendment will be rejected.

Appeals by Representative Crisp (on March 26) and Speaker of the House Garner, on March 29, for support of the tax bill by members of the House to effect the balancing of the budget were followed by the abandonment of the revolt which had previously marked the course of the bill. In addition to the action of the House in adopting increased letter postage (raising the rate from 2c. to 3c.) and making changes in corporation and surtax rates, taxes on stock transactions were voted by the House on March 31, and on the following day (April 1) a tax on dividends paid on stocks was adopted. As to the action of the House on March 31, the "United States Daily" of April 1 said:

Estimated to increase the yield from taxation by slightly less than $1,000,000,000 annually, the revenue bill (H. R. 10236) is scheduled by the majority leaders for passage by the House on April 1. Representative Crisp (Dem.) announced to the House March 31 that he proposed that the House remain in session continuously that night until the reading of the bill is practically completed with a view to its passage the following day.

The day's work consisted, among other things, of adoption by the House of amendments providing the following additional taxes, with the amount that each is estimated to yield.

Tax on Market Sales.

A tax of ¼ of 1% on the sale price of stocks, with a minimum of 4 cents per share, to yield $75,000,000, an increase of the tax on futures sales on the grain, cotton, and other produce exchanges from 1 cent to 5 cents per $100, to yield $6,000,000, a tax of 50 cents on each $500 on real estate conveyances, with an exemption of $100, estimated to yield $10,000,000, a tax of ⅛ of 1% on the sale price of bonds, with a minimum of 2 cents a share, to yield $13,000,000, 8% tax on the service charge for the transportation of oil through pipe lines, to yield $15,000,000, 10% tax on fire-arms and shells, to yield $4,000,000; rearrangement of the mining depletion allowance, to yield $12,000,000.

The House also adopted an amendment to prevent stock exchanges from moving abroad to evade the stock transfer tax.

Gift Tax Rates Voted.

The House approved the gift tax rates as proposed by Representative Ramseyer (Rep.), of Bloomfield, Iowa, in place of the Committee rates. The rates proposed by Mr. Ramseyer were acceptable to the Committee. They provided a tax of ¾ of 1% on the first $10,000 over $50,000 and were graduated upward to a 33⅓% tax on estates in excess of $10,000,000. These rates conform to those adopted by the House.

The gift tax rates as adopted by the House are estimated to provide additional revenue of $20,000,000.

Separate Votes Sought.

Separate votes on several amendments already adopted and a motion to recommit the bill with a view to amending it when the bill comes out of the Committee of the Whole House will be called for, House members have announced.

Mr. Crisp has stated that he will demand a separate vote on the Swing Amendment increasing the maximum surtax rate from 40% on incomes of $5,000,000, as provided in the original bill, to 65% maximum on incomes in the surtaxes.

Opposes Import Taxes.

He also has stated that he intends to offer a motion to recommit the bill with instructions to strike out the provisions agreed to by the Committee of the Whole to impose import taxes on oil, gasoline and coal. Committee members are given preference, under House rules, in offering a motion to recommit the bill and only one motion for that purpose can be voted upon.

Representative Johnson (Rep.), of Aberdeen, S. Dak., announced he will demand a separate vote on the Doughton Amendment which struck out the manufacturers' sales tax.

Under the Committee plans the bill now would provide additional revenue of nearly $1,000,000,000. Approximately $243,000,000 is expected to be saved by reductions in Federal expenditures, and about $30,000,000 is planned by the leaders to be derived from administrative changes in respect to postal matters. Under this plan the Treasury would have approximately $31,000,000 above the estimated deficit for the present fiscal year, it was estimated by members.

On April 1 a move was defeated to again incorporate in the bill the sales tax provision stricken out a week ago. The House, however, adopted on that day an amendment to subject dividends paid on stocks to the normal income tax rates. Associated Press accounts had the following to say regarding that day's action:

At present the dividends of stocks are taxable under the surtax. The maximum normal income tax is 7%.

The new levy would expire on July 1 1934.

On the basis of revised Ways and Means Committee estimates the $88,000,000 item brought the total thus far placed in the revenue bill to $1,049,000,000.

Under the revision the Committee reduced its estimates $37,600,000 from the $999,000,000 total announced last night.

The amendment was adopted by a standing vote of 133 to 90, but a teller vote was demanded upon which the count was 180 to 105.

An amendment to exempt the first $10,000 of income from dividends was rejected.

The Associated Press (April 1) likewise said:

The House to-day reconsidered its previous action and struck from the revenue bill the Swing Amendment imposing the war-time surtaxes on incomes.

The vote came after the House had refused again to incorporate a general sales tax in the bill by a vote of 235 to 160.

Without a record vote, it retained the Ramseyer Amendment calling for a 45% levy on estates.

The action on the surtax amendment returned to the bill a Ways and Means Committee proposal for a 40% maximum tax on incomes over $100,000.

The Swing Amendment, adopted last week by an overwhelming vote, would have placed a maximum surtax rate of 65% on incomes in excess of $5,000,000. It was effective on incomes over $100,000 on a graduated scale.

By reversing itself the House struck $17,000,000 off the total of its bill. In so reversing itself the House again sustained the Ways and Means Committee.

After this action the House began a roll call vote on the Crisp Amendment to the revenue bill, carrying levies on imported oil and coal.

The House neared the end of its tax writing job to-day when it incorporated in the new revenue bill an amendment to subject to the normal income tax rates dividends paid on stocks.

PRESIDENT ASKS THAT BUDGET BE BALANCED.

President Hoover of course was deeply concerned over these happenings in Congress, and in a statement issued at his regular Friday press conference on March 25 he expressed his confidence "that the undertaking of the representatives of both political parties to balance the budget remains and will be fulfilled." According to the President this (the budget balancing) "is the very keynote of recovery," and he added, "it must be done." The President also said:

"For a clear view of the situation our people should understand that the deficit for the next fiscal year, excluding further reduction of the national debt during that year, is estimated at about $1,250,000,000. This follows a deficit of $500,000,000 last year and a deficit of over $2,000,000,000 this year, likewise calculated without reduction of the debt. These deficiencies are almost wholly due to decrease in tax receipts.

"We must eliminate this deficit for next year by the further reduction of governmental expenditures and by increases in taxation. The expenditures budgeted for the next fiscal year as sent to the Congress amounted to about $4,100,000,000 after a reduction by the Administration of $365,000,000 under the total for the current year. In considering possible further economies in expenditures we must not forget that of this total about $2,100,000,000 is of such character that it cannot be reduced; it is largely an inheritance of the great war through increase of payment on Government obligations and the care of veterans and their families.

"In addition our Army and Navy cost about $700,000,000. We should not further reduce the strength of our defense. Thus we must make our further economies mainly out of this balance of $1,300,000,000 remaining from the total of $4,100,000,000, together with economies in the postoffice, as to which only the net operations are included in these figures. Out of this sum of $1,300,000,000 the many other vital services of the Government must be carried on. Every reduction that can be made without serious injury to these services and in justice to our people should be effected.

"Further economies can be made and I am confident will be made, through authority of the Congress to eliminate unnecessary functions of the Government and in postponement of less essential activities, together with businesslike reorganization and co-ordination of Government activities. The appropriation and economy committees of the Congress are now earnestly engaged on all three problems. But when all this is done the balancing of the budget must in the main be accomplished by an increase in taxation, which will restore Government revenues.

"Economies in expenditures or increase in taxes alike call for sacrifices—sacrifices which are a part of the country's war on depression. The Government no more than individual families can continue to expend more than it receives without inviting serious consequences. To continue to live on borrowed money only postpones the difficulty and in the meantime begets all manner of new evils and dangers, which create costs and losses to every workman, every farmer and every business man far in excess of the cost of courageous action in balancing the budget."

THE PRESIDENT ARGUES FOR FURTHER REDUCTION IN FEDERAL EXPENDITURES.

Earlier in the month President Hoover had asked for further cuts in Federal expenditures. In a statement issued March 8 he declared that further economies by Federal bureaus "must be brought about by authorization of Congress, either by reorganization of the Federal machinery or change in the legal requirements as to expenditures by the various services." The President noted that the House Appropriations Committee had reduced the amounts of bills thus far reported out by about $112,000,000. "In order," he said, "to meet the requirements of the Ways and Means Committee that expenditures must be reduced by $125,000,000 in order to balance the budget, it is necessary that further cuts be made." The President's statement follows:

The whole of the administrative officials are co-operating with the special Economy Committee appointed by the House of Representatives in the drive to bring about further drastic economies in Federal expenditures.

You will recollect that the budget sent to Congress, represented reductions in expenditures for the next fiscal year of about $365,000,000 below the present fiscal year. The House Appropriations Committee has reduced the amounts of bills so far reported cut by about $112,000,000. Of this, however, between $60,000,000 and $70,000,000 is a deferment until Congress meets next December, when they will be compelled to meet positive obligations by deficiency bills. To this extent, therefore, the reductions do not help next year's expenditures.

"In order to meet the requirements of the Ways and Means Committee that expenditures must be reduced by $125,000,000 in order to balance the budget, it is necessary that further cuts be made.

There is very little room left for reductions by administrative action and the House Appropriations Committee has passed upon the major supply bills except the Army and Navy.

Further economies must be brought about by authorization of Congress, either by reorganization of the Federal machinery or change in the legal requirements as to expenditure by the various services.

The Director of Veterans' Affairs has proposed to the special House Committee on Economy some changes in the laws relating to pensions and other allowances which would produce economies of between $50,000,000 and $60,000,000 per annum.

The Postmaster-General is placing before the Committee changes in the legal requirements of Post Office expenditures. The Secretary of Agriculture has suggested changes in the law requiring expenditures in the Department of Agriculture, and the other departments are engaged in preparation of similar drastic recommendations.

"I believe the Committee on Economy, through administrative reorganization and such methods as I have mentioned, will be able to find a large area of economy.

"Nothing is more important than balancing the budget with the least increases in taxes. The Federal Government should be in such position that it will need issue no securities which increase the public debt after the beginning of the next fiscal year, July 1.

That is vital to the still further promotion of employment and agriculture. It gives positive assurance to business and industry that the Government will keep out of the money market and allow industry and agriculture to borrow the moneys required for the conduct of business.

I cannot over-emphasize the importance of the able non-partisan effort being made by the Ways and Means Committee and the Economy Committee of the House, whose work are complementary to each other.

PRESIDENT HOOVER OPENS ANTI-HOARDING CAMPAIGN TO ATTRACT MONEY THROUGH "BABY BONDS"—SAYS SAFEST RISK IN WORLD IS SHARE IN FUTURE OF AMERICAN PEOPLE.

In a nation-wide radio message on Sunday night, March 6, President Hoover opened the anti-hoarding campaign incident to the offering of 2% Treasury certificates, in denominations of $50, $100 and $500, designed to attract moneys withdrawn "from the active channels of trade during this past 10 months." The President stated that there are evidences that "the hoarding of money has stopped," and that "some of these idle dollars are finding their way back into the channels of trade." "But we must continue," he added, "until we have won all along the line." "To join in this effort, and to respond to the appeal," said the President, "becomes a measure of your faith in your country." "The American people," said the President, "have at this moment one of the greatest opportunities in their history to show an assured confidence and an active faith in their own destiny which is the destiny of the United States—and by that faith we shall win this battle." The President said that "Fighting a great depression is a war with destructive forces in a hundred battles on a hundred fronts. We must needs fight as in a great war; we must meet these destructive forces by mobilizing our resources and our people against them. A thoroughly non-partisan patriotic program of reconstruction is in progress. The Government has exerted itself to the utmost to give a sound, stable basis to the Treasury, to banking, to industry and to agriculture. The Government alone cannot produce prosperity, but it can liberate the inherent resources and strength of the American people. The people themselves must apply those resources and exert that strength." He also said:

Battle Against Hoarding of Money.

The time has now arrived for a new offensive rally in the spirit that has made America great. The battlefront to-day is against the hoarding of currency, which began about ten months ago, and with its growing intensity became a national danger during the last four months. It has sprung from fears and apprehensions largely the reflex of foreign and domestic causes which now no longer maintain. But it had grown to enormous dimensions and had contributed greatly to restrict the credit facilities of our country, and thus directly to increase unemployment and depreciate prices to our farmers.

I believe that the individual American has not realized the harm he has done when he hoards even a single dollar away from circulation. He has not realized that his dollar compels the bank to withdraw many times that amount of credit from the use of borrowers. These borrowers are the local merchants, the local manufacturers, the local farmers, and their borrowings are the money they use to buy goods, to pay wages and the cost of keeping their business going.

One hoarded dollar deprives some wage earner of at least some part of his pay. Multiply this simple example by nearly a billion and a half of dollars of idle money now hidden in the country and you may get somewhere near a true picture of the enemy of our national security that we vaguely call "hoarding."

It strangles our daily life, increases unemployment and sorely afflicts our farmers. No one will deny that if the vast sums of money hoarded in the country to-day could be brought into active circulation, there would be a great lift to the whole of our economic progress.

Citizens' Reconstruction Organization.

The Citizens' Reconstruction Organization, which has been formed at my request, under the leadership of Colonel Knox, is seeking the support of every voluntary organization and every individual in the country to bring out of hoarding these great sums of money which have been withdrawn from the active channels of trade during this past ten months. They have summoned the leadership of thousands of public-spirited men and women.

Already we have evidences of the progress of these efforts and that the hoarding of money has stopped. The tide has turned and some of these idle dollars are finding their way back into the channels of trade. But we must continue until we have won all along the line.

This movement affords an opportunity for all our people to participate to do so within the traditions of our country, which are traditions of individual effort, of courage, of energy, idealism and public spirit.

Colonel Knox is this evening sounding a call to the mighty power of the American people, a call to service for the common good of our country, a call to protect the individual home by means of assuring the safety of the nation as a whole.

I gladly add my voice to this call to voluntary duty. I do it with more confidence because I have witnessed the most heartening exhibition of its patriotic power here in the national capital.

In the campaign to divert idle dollars from their hiding places to channels through which they can be brought back into circulation, Secretary of the Treasury Mills also drew attention, in a radio message, Sunday night, March 6, to the Treasury Department's action in making available a new issue of 2% Treasury certificates. Through these certificates Secretary Mills stated "the holder of currency can substitute for an obligation of the Government which bears no interest an obligation of the Government which pays him 2% interest." The details of this offering of 2% Treasury certificates (issued in denominations of $50, $100 and $500) are given on a subsequent page under the heading "The March Financing of the United States Treasury." Secretary Mills's radio message of March 6 was made along with that by President Hoover, Brigadier-General Dawes, President of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and Colonel Frank Knox, Chairman of the Citizens' Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

PRESIDENT HOOVER REPORTED AS SEEKING NAMES OF BANKS HOARDING MONEY—NEW YORK BANK SAID TO BE ONE OF PRINCIPAL OFFENDERS.

Following a statement presented on March 9 to President Hoover by Benjamin Schwartz, Director-General of the Institute of Scrap Iron and Steel, in which it was alleged that the scrap iron industry had been "particularly affected by the restrictive credit policies of the banks of the country," Mr. Schwartz was represented as having said that the Chief Executive had been extremely interested in the portion of the statement dealing with money hoarding by banks. Mr. Hoover, it was stated, declared that "the Government had provided ample funds by relief measures which included the creation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to permit the banks to extend credit to small business interests. If the banks were not co-operating in carrying forward the purpose for which the program was advocated the President wanted to obtain the details," Mr. Schwartz said. "He sought specific instances where banks had failed to give this aid. I intend to send a list of banks to the President. Mr. Hoover indicated that he would study the matter and determine the situation."

Incidentally it was noted in a Washington account, March 5, to the New York "Times," that a report was persistent in Washington that President Hoover, in broadcasting the opening of the "baby bond" campaign [on March 6], or possibly at some later time [there was no reference to the matter in the radio address referred to.—Ed.] would make it clear to the country that not all the hoarders are plain citizens, but that they include many banks, among them some of the most powerful in the country. The dispatch from which we quote also said:

This is known to be the opinion of an important element in the Administration personnel. The same report was current in the cloak rooms and office buildings of Congress.

That the banks generally are not taking advantage of the credit and other relief measures provided in the Glass-Steagall law, and by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, is the opinion of some of the highest officials in the Government. It is known that the President himself finds it rather difficult to understand the attitude of any bank which, in a time of economic distress such as the Nation is now passing through fails or refuses to avail itself of the credit and safeguarding provisions of the Glass-Steagall and Reconstruction Finance Corporation Acts.

The names of particular institutions on which the Administration places the stigma of hoarding are confidentially mentioned daily by Government officials. It can be said on the highest authority that a New York bank —one of the most powerful in the country—is mentioned as the worst offender. The liquid assets of this bank are to-day estimated at 85%. When prosperity was at its peak, these liquid assets were 35%, according to one official, and at that time this bank "boasted" that such was the fact, it was declared.

J. P. MORGAN BROADCASTS IN SUPPORT OF DRIVE BY BLOCK COMMUNITY ORGANIZATION FORMED TO RELIEVE CONDITIONS CREATED THROUGH UNEMPLOYMENT.

Breaking his rule against interviews and speaking for publication, J. P. Morgan consented to aid the campaign of the Block Community Organization in New York by appealing in a radio message on March 23 for the support of the drive of the organization in its efforts to relieve the distress arising through unemployment. Mr. Morgan's radio speech, the first to be broadcast by him, was transmitted by the National Broadcasting Co., over stations WJZ and WHAM, between 8 and 8:15 p. m. Mr. Morgan, who spoke from his home on Madison Avenue, pointed out that "the whole organization is on a volunteer basis, and exists for the single purpose of discovering and relieving want." Mr. Morgan also said: "We have reached a point where the aid of governments or the gifts of individuals, no matter how generous, are insufficient to meet the conditions which have come upon us. So we must all do our bit. . . . It is my earnest hope—and I fully expect that hope will be realized—that this great block-aid organization, starting on its work next Monday, will prove in large measure to be the much-desired solution of the most pressing problem of our country to-day."

PRESIDENT HOOVER SAYS ANTI-HOARDING CAMPAIGN HAS ALREADY BROUGHT RESULTS.

On March 11 President Hoover announced, according to the Associated Press, that the anti-hoarding campaign was now active in 2,395 communities and had shown positive and useful results in bringing money back into circulation, increasing bank deposits and swelling the sales of Government bonds. The President's statement said:

The campaign of the Citizens' Reconstruction Organization under the chairmanship of Col. Frank Knox has now been extended by the organization to 2,395 communities.

Additional communities are being organized each day under the leadership of eminent men and women. The press of the country has patriotically contributed literally millions of dollars in advertising and reading space, materially aiding the effort.

The campaign has already produced positive and useful results, as reflected in the increase of currency returned to circulation, the increase of bank deposits and the purchase of Government certificates from money which has hitherto been in hoarding.

In fact, hoarded money is being returned to circulation in all sections of the country. Our people are realizing the moral responsibility involved and the patriotic service which they may render. The whole effort is definitely contributing to the dissipation of fear and apprehension and to the restoration of confidence.

The campaign is only beginning. I hope that the committees already set up will continue until the last dollar that has been hoarded in their respective communities is returned to work and that Col. Knox and his organization will be supported by the extension of their work into every community not organized at present where hoarding has taken place.

Their work has just one final objective—that is, the restoration of employment and aid to agriculture.

ACTIVITIES OF THE RECONSTRUCTION FINANCE CORPORATION.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation during the month maintained its activities in all directions. Its intention to issue at an early date $250,000,000 debentures was made known on March 1 by Eugene Meyer, Chairman of the Corporation and Governor of the Federal Reserve Board. At the same time announcement was made by Secretary Hyde of the Department of Agriculture that his Department would receive 10% of the contemplated issue for additional seed loans. Governor Eugene Meyer of the Federal Reserve Board and Chairman of the Board of the Finance Corporation, indicated that the debentures would be sold to the Treasury instead of being offered in the open market. Corporation officials were represented as somewhat surprised at a decision of Attorney-General Mitchell that the Agricultural Department was entitled to 10% of the proceeds of debenture sales. It had been believed that only $50,000,000 was authorized the Department under the law. In announcing the debenture issue the Corporation explained that it would not ask for additional capital stock subscriptions until it had borrowed up to the legal limit on capital stock paid in. In other words, it could now float debentures amounting to $450,000,000 on the basis of $150,000,000 worth of capital stock which the Treasury had bought.

President Hoover announced on March 25 that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation had loaned a total of $234,981,714. Associated Press accounts to the New York "Sun" added:

A total of 587 banks and trust companies have received $126,849,073. The average loan to banks and trust companies totaled $216,162.

Building and loan associations totaling 18 have received $2,917,900, an average of $162,055 per association.

A total of 13 insurance companies have received loans of $5,765,000, or an average loan per company of $443,461.

Railroads have received $46,975,557. A total of 13 carriers has been assisted, with the average loan being $3,613,504.

Two joint stock land banks have received $775,000 and three mortgage loan companies have received $1,362,000. In addition to $50,000,000 turned over to the Secretary of Agriculture for agricultural loans, the Corporation has loaned $292,084 to one live stock credit association.

RAILROAD REQUIREMENTS IN 1932 BETWEEN $300,000,000 AND $400,000,000—RECONSTRUCTION FINANCE CORPORATION TO SUPPLY PART OF FUNDS.

Conferences had by President Hoover on March 18 and 19 with railway executives and members of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the Inter-State Commerce Commission brought a statement from the President on March 19 in which he said that "examination of the financial problems confronting the railroads shows that it is of smaller dimensions than has been generally believed or reported." "The requirements of the more important roads," said the President, "in meeting interest and renewal of their maturing securities, and in meeting their other obligations during 1932 will be from $300,000,000 to $400,000,000." "Of this amount," the President said, "the Railway Credit Corporation will provide a minimum of from $50,000,000 to $60,000,000, and it is assumed that many bank loans will be continued in the normal way. Therefore, recourse to the Reconstruction Corporation by the railroads will be much less than was originally thought, and even the mentioned amounts would be diminished by revival of the bond market and the placing of bond renewals in normal fashion."

Intimating that a difference of opinion existed in the directorate as to how far the Reconstruction Finance Corporation could go in making loans to the railroads, a Washington dispatch, March 18, to the New York "Times" said in part:

General Dawes, President of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, is understood to take the position that the Corporation should carry the maximum of loans which the railroads need in order to meet their maturing obligations. On the other hand, it is said that Eugene Meyer, Chairman of the Board, believes that at least one-half the burden should be carried by the banking institutions holding the obligations. To reconcile these divergent views and co-ordinate railroad financing by the Government was said to have been the business before the conference.

Action on Loans Is Urged.

Other unofficial information heard in the Capital to-night is that the roads are asking the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to speed action on applications for loans which have been pending since the organization of its Board and final action on which, for one reason or another, has been deferred. To date the loans to the roads aggregate about $48,000,000, but applications now pending are believed to total a much greater sum than this.

The conference came about as the result of a call on Mr. Hoover by General W. W. Atterbury, President of the Pennsylvania RR. He was with the President only a short time, and when he departed he indicated that his visit was just another "courtesy" call. But half an hour later he reappeared and with him were the other members of the Advisory Committee of the Association of Railway Executives, which happened to be meeting here to-day.

General Atterbury, it was disclosed, had gone at the request of the President to the Transportation Building and extended his name and invitation to all members of the Committee to meet at the White House for a heart-to-heart talk with Mr. Hoover. Those who responded were:

R. H. Aishton, Chairman Executive Committee, Association of Railway Executives.
Alfred P. Thom, General Counsel, Association of Railway Executives.
W. W. Atterbury, President Pennsylvania RR. Co.
J. J. Bernet, President Chespeake & Ohio Ry. Co.
E. G. Buckland, Chairman of the Board, New York New Haven & Hartford RR. Co.
W. R. Cole, President Louisville & Nashville RR. Co.
Charles Donnelly, President Northern Pacific Ry. Co.
E. M. Durham Jr., Senior Vice-President Missouri Pacific Lines.
Carl R. Gray, President Union Pacific System.
Fairfax Harrison, President Southern Ry. System.
A. D. McDonald, Vice-Chairman Executive Committee Southern Pac.Co.
J. J. Pelley, President New York New Haven & Hartford RR. Co.
H. A. Scandrett, President Chicago Milwaukee St. Paul & Pac. RR. Co.
George M. Shriver, Senior Vice-President Baltimore & Ohio RR. Co.
F. E. Williamson, President New York Central Lines.

The conference began at 4.25 and lasted one hour and five minutes. . . .

There is a difference of opinion on the subject among the rail executives also, some believing that the Corporation should provide the full amount of the loan requested, others holding that the banks should carry one-half of the carriers' indebtedness owed them in return for a corresponding amount provided by the Corporation.

A representative of the carriers said to-night that while this question was discussed with the President by several members of the committee, there were no contentions by any of them as to which method should be followed.

Uppermost in the minds of the railroad executives, it was said, was that loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation needed to prevent receiverships should not be delayed because of a difference of opinion among the directors of the Corporation. General Dawes is believed to feel that banks should be left free to provide credit for reconstruction purposes and that their reserves should not be even partly depleted by carrying the financial necessities of the railroads.

Dawes Talks to Executives.

General Dawes did not attend the conference. But afterward he conferred with several railroad Presidents as to the situation confronting the carriers which require immediate support from the Board. General Dawes said that the White House conference had dealt with several phases of the railroads' problems, including loans. It was desired by the President, he said, to bring about "co-ordination between the railroads and the Government."

Mr. Meyer denied that there was any difference in the Board as to its loan policy. He declared that there was no truth in the report that the Board was divided as to whether it should grant only half of the loans sought by the railroads and permit the banks to carry the other half of the railroads' present financial burden.

Secretary Mills, who also is a member of the Board, insisted that the reports of differences within the Board were unfounded. He said that the question as to whether private banks should aid the railroads in meeting their maturing obligations and in their reconstruction program had never been brought up in a definite way at the Board's meeting.

Suggestion Made by the Inter-State Commerce Commission.

The suggestion that banks carry half was first made in a letter from an examiner of the Inter-State Commerce Commission to the Secretary and Treasurer of the Missouri Pacific RR., the latter having applied to the Commission for approval of a loan of $23,250,000 from the Corporation. It was suggested that a representative of the road approach the banking firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. to ascertain whether the bankers would be willing to carry half of the carrier's indebtedness to it for as long a time as the Reconstruction Finance Corporation might carry a corresponding amount.

The amount of the indebtedness to the bankers was $11,700,000. Representatives of the road advised the Commission later that the suggestion had been followed and that the bankers "have indicated that they are unwilling to agree to such a proposition and believe that the notes should be paid on April 1 1932, as of which date they have been called."

Use of the credit of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway to take railroad stocks off the hands of the Van Sweringen Alleghany Corp. was frowned upon on March 17 by the Inter-State Commerce Commission, according to accounts from Washington, which said:

A declaration by the Commission that under existing conditions railroad credit should be used for strictly railroad purposes, and not for the purpose of acquiring securities of other railroads, in the report made public to-day, conditionally authorizing the Chesapeake & Ohio to pledge so much as may be necessary of an issue of $28,142,000 of refunding and improvement mortgage 4½% bonds as collateral security for $9,000,000 of short-term notes.

The condition was that no part of the bonds shall be pledged as security for notes to be used in connection with the purchase of or payment for any "stock of any other company or any evidence of indebtedness of any other company or of any person, partnership, or association," unless such pledge is hereafter specifically authorized by the Commission.

The text of the report shows that the purpose of the Commission was to prevent the use of the new notes in paying for the purchase by the Chesapeake & Ohio from the Alleghany Corp. of 46,200 shares of Pere Marquette stock, 215,000 shares of Erie stock and 167,300 shares of New York Chicago & St. Louis stock, for which it issued last month one-year notes to the amount of $3,950,658. A brief memorandum of the Commission's action was made public on the date of its report, March 11, but the text was not made public until to-day.

Referring to the issue of notes for the purchase of the stock. it says:

"The record fails to show whether the applicant intends to use as collateral for the foregoing notes any of the bonds which it is asking authority to pledge. The conservation of the credit of carriers is a matter of public interest and under existing conditions we think it is proper to require that bonds issued be used only in connection with the provision of funds for keeping railway properties in operation, meeting fixed charges and otherwise maintaining credit and that the authorization granted herein should be restricted accordingly. It is our view that it was not the intent of Congress, in exempting short-term notes to a limited extent from the regulatory power, that carriers should restrict their freedom of action in short-term financing by borrowing for purposes other than those strictly germane to the maintenance and operation of their properties in inter-State commerce."

NATIONAL CREDIT CORPORATION TO REPAY SUBSCRIBING BANKS—15% PAYMENT MARCH 28 AND 10% APRIL 11.

The National Credit Corporation, the so-called "bankers' pool," organized under the leadership of New York Clearing House banks last October at the instance of President Hoover to make advances to banks throughout the country on sound but non-rediscountable collateral, arranged to repay on March 28 to subscribing banks 15% of the funds paid by such institutions for one year renewable gold notes, it was learned on March 22. On April 1 notice was issued for the intended repayment of another 10% on April 11.

GLASS BANKING BILL INTRODUCED IN SENATE IN REVISED FORM—AMENDS FEDERAL RESERVE AND NATIONAL BANKING LAWS.

In revised form, the bill of Senator Carter Glass, introduced in the Senate on Jan. 21, was again presented to the Senate on March 17, following its revision by a Sub-Committee of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee. Like the original bill the revised measure, it was pointed out, places severe restrictions upon the use of Federal Reserve credit for collateral loans, creates a liquidating corporation to take over the assets of closed banks, defines affiliates and makes drastic restrictions upon branch banking. While stating that the new bill follows generally the lines of the original bill, it was noted that several rather important changes have been made, however, during the prolonged study which has been made by the subcommittee. The outstanding features of the new bill were indicated as follows in a Washington dispatch, March 17, to the New York "Journal of Commerce":

1. Prohibition against the making of loans for the account of others on collateral security withdrawn.
2. Compulsory banking by incorporated firms in recognized banking institutions omitted.
3. Removal of recalcitrant executives from their banking positions when complaint is made against "bad banking" methods provided for.
4. Restoration of surplus of Reserve banks as of Dec. 31 last before distributing earnings contemplated in new amendment.
5. Penalty clause, proposing withdrawal of 15-day borrowing on promissory notes, modified so as to require a previous order from a Reserve bank or the Reserve Board to cease increasing security loans while Reserve funds are being borrowed.
6. Existing reserve requirements for member banks variously located altered to the extent of restoring over a period of five years reserves formerly required supporting time deposits.
7. Liquidating corporation to be set up under this bill to be given authority proposed in Thomas-Beedy closed bank bill to issue debentures in amount four times its capital, if desired.
8. A minimum capital of $100,000 to be required of banks in future seeking national charters, except when in towns of not exceeding 6,000 inhabitants, their capital to be $50,000, and if formed to take over the business of any existing bank $25,000.
9. In "very exceptional cases" the new bill would permit establishment of a branch bank across an adjacent State line, but not further away than 50 miles. No bank with less than $500,000 capital would be permitted branches outside of its own domicile.
10. There is removed from the orignal bill prohibition against any member bank offering compensation for the maintenance of checking balances and the prohibition against the purchasing or holding by any national bank the obligations of any corporation not having earned a stated dividend for a period of years.

At the hearings on the bill considerable opposition to many of its different provisions developed, the objections, however, being centered mainly around the contention that it was sharply deflationary.

CONGRESSMAN STEAGALL OF THE BANKING AND CURRENCY COMMITTEE OF THE HOUSE ALSO OFFERS BILL FOR AMENDING FEDERAL RESERVE AND NATIONAL BANKING LAWS—WOULD PROVIDE A HUGE FUND FOR GUARANTEEING DEPOSITS—CHARGES BANKS WITH HOARDING.

On March 8 the daily papers contained dispatches from Washington, dated the day before, saying that the Democratic leaders of the House had taken another Administration suggestion on that day when Representative Steagall of Alabama, Chairman of the Banking and Currency Committee, introduced a bill to create a fund of $517,000,000 with which to guarantee deposits in Federal Reserve member banks. The fund would be known as the "Federal Guaranty Fund for Depositors in Member Banks of the Federal Reserve System," and would be created in the following manner: (1) By transferring $167,000,000 from the United States Treasury. This amount, Mr. Steagall said, had been paid by Federal Reserve banks as a franchise tax when the banks had no reason to make such payments. (2) Adding $130,000,000 from the Federal Reserve System surplus of $275,000,000. (3) Assessing member banks $130,000,000 in ratio to their deposits, with the provision of obtaining an additional $70,000,000 by the same process after the Board commences to function. The Steagall measure proposed, it was added, to create a "Federal bank liquidating board," composed of the Secretary of the Treasury, Comptroller of the Currency and three members appointed by the President, which would be authorized to assess member banks an additional $100,000,000 annually after the first 12 months, provided such funds are necessary to strengthen crippled institutions. The Board would take over any member bank, certified by the Comptroller of the Currency as insolvent, and pay off all depositors in installments, the final payment to be made 20 months after the bank has collapsed. Fifty per cent. of Federal Reserve System net earnings would be returned to the member banks. Authority to "tax" checks at not more than 10c. for each $100 would be allowed. "We have come to the situation where, so far as National banks are concerned, people will not longer trust them," Mr. Steagall told the House. "Millions are afraid. This did not just happen. It was brought about in part by conditions no one could foretell, also by unwise, unfriendly and unjustified strangling processes that have been turned on by the law, and by the Administration, and by the Federal Reserve banks. The Federal Reserve Act did not intend to make money for the Reserve banks. But they have paid into the Treasury $167,000,000 as a franchise tax, a tax they had no business to pay. The Federal Reserve surplus now is $275,000,000."

Mr. Steagall said it was idle to talk to the people about putting their money in banks where the banks would not trust one another. Any banker who goes to another bank to obtain funds, even for 30 days, with a specific purpose in mind and a specific date on which it is to be returned, he said, is confronted with a demand that he put up three, four or five times the amount he desires to borrow, in securities. He referred to a member of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation urging the people to trust the banks but that the same man "when an applicant for an emergency loan comes before that board will be demanding from three to five times the amount loaned in collateral security that is sound and adequate before he will loan a dollar to that bank." "Yet," Mr. Steagall added, "we talk to the citizenship of the country about placing their money into banks to prevent hoarding. The truth of the matter is the banks of the country are doing the hoarding. They are in a situation where they cannot be blamed. It is all that is left for them to do. They dare not turn their money and liquid assets over to business purposes at a time like this."

REPORT OF SENATE SUBCOMMITTEE RECOMMENDS THAT 4% BEER AS PROVIDED IN BINGHAM BILL BE LEGALIZED—TAX YIELD ESTIMATED AT BETWEEN $347,000,000 AND $800,000,000—MINORITY REPORT DISAGREES—HOUSE VOTES DOWN A RESOLUTION TO FORCE CONSIDERATION FOR TURNING LIQUOR CONTROL BACK TO THE STATES.

A report recommending the sale and manufacture of 4% beer, as provided in a bill (sponsored by Senator Bingham) amending the Volstead Act, was filed on March 19 with the Senate Committee on Manufactures by Senators Metcalf (Republican) of Rhode Island and Bulkley (Democrat) of Ohio. Messrs. Metcalf and Bulkley constitute the majority members of a subcommittee of the Manufacturers' Committee. Senator Hatfield (Republican) of West Virginia, also a member of the subcommittee, filed a minority report, which declared that "the report of the majority of the committee is not responsive to the evidence brought forth at the hearings." Senator Hatfield is also quoted as follows:

There is no reason for a change in the law, which would satisfy neither the opponents nor the supporters of the Eighteenth Amendment, which would be of doubtful Constitutional validity, that would add to enforcement difficulties, and which would divert a large share of the purchasing power of the people from the products of essential industries to that of a non-essential, with the result that economic recovery would be retarded rather than promoted.

As to the majority report of Senators Metcalf and Bulkley we quote the following from the Washington account to the New York "Journal of Commerce":

The majority report recites that the question was attacked from the following angles: Whether or not adoption of the bill would promote temperance and decrease crime, materially decrease unemployment, materially assist agriculture, and national finances, whether the bill would be practical in operation and whether 4% beer would be considered intoxicating.

The findings in response to all save the last question were strongly affirmative, it is recited, and in connection with the last, "doctors and scientists testified that a beverage containing alcohol in such high dilutions would not intoxicate, but that in general it would serve as a healthful stimulant and a wholesome food with virtually no deleterious effect."

Legalization of such a brew would provide a market for between 60,000,000 and 120,000,000 bushels of barley a year, says the majority report, and continues: "The minimum consumption of beer following its legalization would be not less than 70,000,000 barrels, and the maximum probably not less than 120,000,000 barrels.

"The tax yield, figured on a basis of 2c. a pint bottle, would be not less than $347,000,000 and probably not more than $800,000,000. With a much higher tax of 4c. per pint (or nearly $10 a barrel, compared with $6 in 1919), the minimum yield would be not less than $650,000,000, with a maximum possibility of $1,100,000,000."

On the other hand, the House of Representatives, on March 14, by a vote of 227 to 187, rejected the proposal of the wet blocs to force action on the Beck-Linthicum proposal for an amendment of the Constitution turning liquor control back to the States.

THE KREUGER & TOLL COLLAPSE AS THE RESULT OF THE SUICIDE OF IVAR KREUGER—WORLD-WIDE RAMIFICATIONS—DEATH OF GEORGE EASTMAN OF PHOTOGRAPHIC FAME.

The business and financial world had a serious reverse to contend with in the suicide on March 12 of Ivar Kreuger, head of Kreuger & Toll, evidently because of the financial difficulties in which he had become involved, though he was also in ill health. Our Stock Exchange was quick to perceive its significance and implications, and on Monday, March 14, the stock market, as a result, suffered a new collapse, severe breaks occurring in all the securities with which the Kreuger name has been associated and which are dealt in in the New York market, more particularly Kreuger & Toll shares, already selling at very low figures, Kreuger & Toll 5% bonds, and likewise the different bond issues of the International Match Co. which were placed here. The Kreuger enterprises had ramifications all over the world, wholly apart from their all-embracing character in Sweden; and the sudden development of this new weak spot in world affairs naturally had a very depressing influence, with the result that leaders in business and financial circles were inclined to conjure up all sorts of ill results to follow. They recalled what a train of disastrous consequences attended and followed the collapse in May last year of the Kreditanstalt, the largest private bank in Austria, and they were apprehensive as to the outcome of this new outcropping of disaster in another part of Europe. As it happened, too, the news of the death by his own hand of George Eastman of photographic fame involved the community in further gloom. In this case there were apparently no financial involvements to account for the act, but the sudden passing out of existence of such a commanding figure in the industrial world was itself occasion for a feeling of despondency and depression. And there readily came to mind the fact that the Eastman Kodak Co., the stock of which broke badly on the announcement of Mr. Eastman's death, had recently, in common with business undertakings of every character and description, been suffering a great diminution of its income and to such an extent that the company was obliged to omit the extra dividend on its stock for the first time since 1905. W. G. Stuber, the President of the company, then (it was early in February) said, in explanation, that the extra dividend had been dropped because current earnings did not appear to justify its payment. He added that there would also be a reduction in the amounts to be paid in 1933 as wage dividends to employees for 1932. As to the import to be attached to the Kreuger act, and the possible consequences, the news which came from Helsingfors, Finland, on Thursday, (March 17) that M. Margus, director of the Estonian match monopoly and associate of Ivar Kreuger, had also taken his life was calculated to renew fears as to the ultimate consequences. From his headquarters in Sweden, Mr. Kreuger built up an imposing industrial and financial organization with ramifications that extended into all countries and with aggregate capital of more than $1,000,000,000. In Sweden the occurrence was considered a national calamity, the Stock Exchange in Stockholm closing for the time being, while arrangements were announced by the Government for the extension of moratoria on private debts, if such should prove necessary. Mr. Kreuger shot himself late Saturday afternoon, in his Paris apartment, the news being given out only after all important stock exchanges in the world had closed. Discovery of the suicide was made as a result of Mr. Kreuger's failure to keep business appointments in Paris. The Swedish financier was 52 years old, and unmarried. His interests were controlled through the $400,000,000 Kreuger & Toll Company, which is a holding and financing concern. This organization controls the Swedish Match Company, which in turn owns the International Match Company. More than 220 additional subsidiaries of the Kreuger & Toll Company operate in all parts of the world, and in such diversified activities as banking, paper and pulp mills, chemical factories, iron ore production and real estate. Match manufacturing was the most important single activity, monopolies having been obtained in exchange for loans in Poland, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Yugoslavia, Rumania, Greece, Ecuador, Peru, Danzig and Turkey, while special agreements also were made with France and Germany.

Lee, Higginson & Co., bankers in New York for the Kreuger companies, issued a statement expressing deep regret over the sudden death of Mr. Kreuger. "During the latter part of his visit to America he was ill and seemed on the verge of a nervous breakdown," the statement said. "He recovered sufficiently to permit his departure for Paris, March 4. He had no loan negotiations with us during his visit, but his review to us of the financial position of his companies appeared satisfactory, considering the condition of international trade and the difficulties of exchange transfer throughout the world." Officials of the Swedish Match Co., in Stockholm, issued a statement the same day attributing the death by suicide of Ivar Kreuger to "the superhuman burden of work which he had borne during the last few months, and which resulted, while he was in New York, in a nervous breakdown which much alarmed his business colleagues."

In sessions of the Swedish Parliament, held over the week-end, laws were passed authorizing the Government to extend a brief moratorium to business interests in Sweden. Acting on this legislation, the Cabinet decided early Monday (March 14) to grant this privilege to the Kreuger & Toll Co. and to three smaller affiliated concerns, to Mr. Kreuger's heirs and to four of his business associates, including Krister Littorin. "The moratorium scheme had been prepared before Mr. Kreuger's death," a Stockholm dispatch to the New York "Times" said. The Government, it was added, regarded Mr. Kreuger's death as a "national catastrophe." No banking difficulties were looked for as a result of the occurrence, and all banks in the country resumed business Monday morning. "Stockholm financiers express the view that the Kreuger companies are basically quite sound," a dispatch of Monday to the New York "Herald Tribune" said. "Their difficulties are caused chiefly by frozen assets in the form of loans to Germany and other European States." It was announced that the Stockholm Stock Exchange would close until further notice, this action being taken, dispatches said, to prevent any panicky liquidation of Kreuger issues. A decision was announced, however, late Tuesday, (March 15) to resume trading on the Stockholm Exchange Monday, March 21.

PAYMENT OF $2,000,000,000 SOLDIER BONUS ADVOCATED BY REPRESENTATIVE PATMAN.

Declaring that "balance the budget or impair the credit of the nation" is a fallacy, Representative Patman (Dem.), of Texarkana, Tex., in a written statement March 26 advocated payment of the $2,200,000,000 remaining due 3,660,000 World War veterans by issuance of United States notes. According to the "United States Daily" Speaker

Garner (Dem.), of Uvalde, Tex., said on the same date that his understanding was that the Ways and Means Committee of the House would begin hearings on this bonus proposition as soon as the House disposed of the tax bill. The "Daily" gave as follows Mr. Patman's statement of March 26:

The President and the Secretary of the Treasury know what will restore business conditions, but they are not favorable to the plan because it is alleged to be against the interest of the ultra-rich.

The failure of the bond-holding class, who have charge of our currency system, to permit the use of the idle gold in the Treasury is the cause of our troubles.

Larger Money Volume Urged.

The velocity of money and credits is about one-half what it was three years ago. There is only one way to make up for the lack of velocity and that is to increase the volume of money. The public welfare will be promoted by such a move. If the volume of money is increased, commodity values will rise. Farmers will get a better price for their products; they already have consuming power and this will give them purchasing power; factories will supply their needs which will put labor to work.

There is one way that the currency can be inflated by placing money in every nook and corner of America, without paying a dole or bonus but by paying a debt.

The remainder of $2,200,000,000 due 3,660,000 veterans of the World War on their adjusted service certificates can be paid without a bond issue, without increasing taxes, without additional interest charges and save the Government annual payment of more than $112,000,000 until 1945 in addition to abolishing a Government Bureau which will save the people tens of millions of dollars.

Payment on Notes Advised.

If not paid now, practically all of the remainder due a veteran who has borrowed on his certificate will be consumed by compound interest paid to banks and the Government. The veterans and the country need this money now.

This money can be paid by the issuance of United States notes. We have $346,000,000 of these notes outstanding now which are backed by 40% gold. We have sufficient idle gold to back the $2,200,000,000 in a similar manner. The result of this operation will be to convert a Government non-circulating obligation into a Government circulating obligation.

The issuance of this additional currency will not affect the gold standard we will still have more than a 40% gold base; in fact, we need $2,500,000,000 of gold to stabilize our currency and we have $4,500,000,000 in gold.

The holders of bonds that were voted by the people to build roads, schoolhouses, and to make other public improvement when one bale of cotton would pay $100 on the bonds do not want the currency inflated because they are now getting four bales of cotton for a $100 payment; this is equal to increasing the interest and the bonds four times. The same illustration can be applied to other commodities and labor.

"Balance the budget or the credit of the Nation will be impaired" is a fallacy. The wealth of the Nation is $400,000,000,000; so we are told by President Hoover through the anti-hoarding advertisements. The Nation owes, or will owe June 30, $18,000,000,000, or a ratio of 22½ to 1. The situation is comparable to an individual who owns a business worth $22,500 and who owes $1,000 on it. The increase of $4,500,000,000 in our National indebtedness will be comparable to the individual increasing his $1,000 debt on his $25,000 business to $1,250. Do you think such an increase would impair the credit of either the individual or the Nation?

RESULTS OF THE GERMAN ELECTIONS—IMPROVEMENT IN GERMAN AND BRITISH SITUATION AND IN FOREIGN AFFAIRS GENERALLY.

The outcome of the German elections on Sunday, March 19, proved very gratifying, and, barring the Kreuger & Toll disaster, decided improvement in the condition of things in Great Britain marked the course of events during the month, and to some extent also the situation in Germany, and, as a matter of fact, European affairs generally. At the German elections President von Hindenburg received 18,661,736 votes, or only 168,453 less than an absolute majority of the 37,660,377 ballots cast. Adolph Hitler, Austrian-born leader of the National Socialist, or German Fascist party, despite extravagant election promises by the "Nazis," while showing pronounced gain as compared with 1930, secured 11,328,571 votes, or 7,333,165 less than von Hindenburg. The Communist candidate, Ernst Thaelmann, received 4,971,079 votes; the Nationalist candidate, Theodor Duesterberg, received 2,517,876 votes, and Gustav Winter, Independent, received 181,115 votes. It was considered especially significant that President von Hindenburg easily carried Cologne and Munich, the headquarters of the "Nazis," and also obtained an absolute majority in Hamburg, the home of the Communist candidate. The "Nazis" made great gains, however, as compared with the 1930 election returns, when the party polled 6,400,000 votes. In the run-off election on April 10 it seems certain that President von Hindenburg will be confirmed in the Presidential chair, especially as at that election a plurality suffices. For a time the outcome of the German elections was ignored in view of the Kreuger downfall, but its importance and significance then received proper recognition. These elections involved determination of the question whether the German people were looking forward and could be depended upon to move along in accordance with fundamentally sound principles in national affairs, or were going to yield to the dictation and control of a wild and revolutionary leader. President von Hindenburg in this great contest represented the best element of the German population, while Hitler represented those who would not only overthrow the regular constituted authorities but law and order as well; and the result of the election, in which President von Hindenburg fell only a trifle short of getting an absolute majority over the votes cast for all the other Presidential candidates combined, was a triumph for the orderly elements of the German people. Von Hindenburg represented no party, but represented the German people. In a way the German test was like that to which the British people were subjected last autumn, when organized labor undertook by most arbitrary methods to seize control of the reins of power and establish a rule of its own, and when, as a consequence, all the different political parties combined to vanquish the new form of tyranny.

The New York Federal Reserve Bank announced on March 4 that in conjunction with other Federal Reserve banks it had renewed for three months its portion of the $100,000,000 credit extended the Bank of Germany in June last year—the Bank of England, the Bank of France and the Bank for International Settlements, having been the other three participants each for $25,000,000. As a matter of fact, the Reichsbank repaid 10% of the credit and the extension for three months applied only to the remaining $22,500,000. The Reichsbank agreed to repay altogether $10,000,000 (or $2,500,000 of each of the four portions of $25,000,000). On March 8 the Bank of Germany also reduced its discount rate from 7 to 6% and its Lombard (or collateral loan) rate from 8 to 7%. A Berlin cablegram, March 4, stated that the stand still agreement for maintenance of foreign short-term credits to Germany which went into effect March 1 would not be affected by the payment by the Reichsbank of this $10,000,000 on foreign credit account, as most of the standstill creditors had already agreed not to take advantage of their option to revoke the agreement.

In Great Britain, too, there was multiplying evidence that Great Britain was convalescing very fast, notwithstanding that on March 11 the British House of Commons extended the Gold Suspension Act for another year. On March 2, Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, told the House of Commons that the restrictions on the purchase of foreign exchange, which were imposed the previous September at the time of Great Britain's flight from the pound would be withdrawn the same evening. At the same time he confirmed the news that on Friday, March 4, the British Treasury would repay $150,000,000 of the credits it obtained from private bankers in New York last August in the endeavor to save the pound, thus leaving only $50,000,000 of that large credit still unpaid, while on March 28 the British Treasury gave notice that $30,000,000 of this latter amount would be paid off March 29 and the remaining $20,000,000 on April 5. The credits from Paris, which were originally also in the neighborhood of $200,000,000 in two sections of $100,000,000 each had in the case of one of the sections, been reduced to $35,000,000. He described the repayment to New York as "final," according to a cablegram to the New York "Times," since the American lenders had consented to return a proportionate part of the 1% commission as from the date of the maturity of the existing bills. The other $100,000,000 section of the French credits, he pointed out, is represented by Treasury bills, "and we have no power to require them (the lenders) to accept repayment before August." The restrictions on dealings in exchange were put into effect on Sept. 21 1931, when the Bank of England suspended gold redemption of its notes, and was designed to prevent speculative sales of sterling by British nationals and the flight of capital from England. Actually, it was stated in the newspapers, the restrictions were never enforced because the British public took the suspension of the gold standard calmly and made no general attempt to convert its money from sterling into other currencies.

As further evidence of improvement the Bank of England made successive reductions in its discount rate. On Feb. 18 it had reduced from 6 to 5% and now in March, reduce first to 4% on March 10, and then to 3½% on March 17. Tangible evidence of improvement in British affairs in other directions also kept coming to hand. John Maynard Keynes, the British economist, mentioned some of them in an article he wrote for the spring number of the "Yale Review." One was not obliged to subscribe to any of the fantastic doctrines which Mr. Keynes is so fond of promulgating while yet taking note of the improvement which he reported was taking place. Mr. Keynes said:

"Our British textile industries are producing 25 to 30% more than they were; our tinplate trade is almost flourishing.

Our motor industry is in a position to get what export trade there is. Our heavy industries are likely to improve within a few months. Our mercantile marine is now losing much less money than any of its competitors, which probably means that it will gradually secure a larger proportion of the available trade."

As further indication of a general easing of the monetary situation all over Europe, other central banks likewise were able to lower their rates of discount, in addition to those by England and Germany already noted. On March 2 the Bank of Norway and the Bank of Sweden both reduced their rates from 5½ to 5%, after having in February reduced them from 6% to 5½%. On March 1 the Bank of Lithuania reduced its rate from 8½% to 7½% and the Bank of Chile from 6% to 5½%. On March 3 the Rumanian National Bank reduced from 8% to 7%. The Bank of the Irish Free State on March 10 reduced from 6% to 5%, and on March 11 the Danish National Bank reduced from 6% to 5%, while the Bank of Japan marked its rate down from 6.57% to 5.84%. On March 18 the National Bank of Austria reduced from 8% to 7%, and on March 21 the Bank of Italy, whose rate had remained unchanged at 7% since the previous Sept. 28, reduced to 6%.

THE STATE OF TRADE.

There was no change for the better in the state of trade and little or no indication of an early change in those lines of business where an increase usually occurs with the advent of spring—that is, the seasonal advance was smaller than usual, and in many instances there was no increase at all. As a matter of fact, the developments in Congress regarding plans for devising new sources of revenue and balancing the Federal budget, which involved taking care of a Treasury deficit in the aggregate of two billion dollars or more, were not such as to stimulate activity and served rather to act as a damper upon enterprise. As far as the steel trade is concerned, the "Iron Age" reported a slightly higher rate of steel production at the beginning of the month, the steel mills of the country being reported as having increased their operations from 26% of capacity to 27%, notwithstanding the continued absence, the "Iron Age" reported, of important tonnage from the three major steel consuming groups—the automobile industry, the railroads and building constructions—the increase in the rate of operation being ascribed to slightly expanding releases from miscellaneous classes of consumers, but by the end of the month there was a drop to only 22% of capacity, the "Iron Age" saying that the mild expansion in the requirements of miscellaneous consumers had not been sufficient to offset the lack of important buying by the major steel-consuming groups. Towards the close of the month, however, some of the trade papers were inclined to take a more favorable view of the future, one steel authority saying that despite the failure of steel business to improve during March, normally the month of peak operations, the industry was still looking forward to a seasonable rise of some proportions and current indications were that it might come in April. The "Iron Age" in its issue of Mar. 24 stated that expectations of betterment were predicated on the fact that the Ford Motor Co. must soon release large orders if it was to attain a volume production scheduled for early in April, and other automobile manufacturers who were marking time pending the showing of the new Ford cars probably would also release business that had been held back for weeks because of restricted output; furthermore, a mild expansion was taking place in orders for track supplies for laying of rails and for steel used in highway construction. Orders for structural steel and reinforcing bars for building work were more numerous, though not impressive. Some stimulation of steel orders was expected as a result of the announced price advances that were to go into effect on bars, plates, shapes, sheets, hot and cold rolled stripped steel and bolts and nuts on April 1. Although many steel companies had been quoting the higher prices for two weeks or more on current business, there had been little test, owing to extensive contract coverage for the first quarter. Efforts to strengthen prices were complicated at seaboard points on account of growing foreign competition. The "Age" also said that steel companies were adding a clause to their contracts by which the proposed sales tax on manufactured articles contained in the tax bill under consideration in the House of Representatives at Washington would be passed on to the consumer. This proposal was defeated when the House came to vote on it on March 24. In its issue for March 31 the "Iron Age" reported:

> Notwithstanding that the steel-making rate has not been so low during the entire depression except for a brief period last December, the steel industry believes that this is the "zero hour" and that new business, principally from the automobile industry but to some extent from other sources, will lift operations appreciably during the next fortnight.
> Large orders from the Ford Motor Co., which have been looked for durfor during the five weeks that have elapsed since the much-heralded Ford announcement of its new models, are expected momentarily. Some small orders have been placed, and makers of parts for Ford cars have issued releases of minor amounts. Volume production of Ford cars is now expected to begin the week of April 18, in which case some of the steel that requires two or three weeks for processing must be ordered almost at once.
> It is believed that the public showing of Ford cars was hastened by the campaign that General Motors has announced. The Chrysler and Chevrolet companies have placed second quarter steel contracts at reported increases in prices.

The "Iron Age" gave the composite price of finished steel March 29 at 2.087c. a lb., against 2.037c. a month earlier, and comparing with 2.128c. at the same period in 1931. The composite price of pig iron March 29 was reported at $14.43 a gross ton, against $14.47 a month earlier and $15.71 at the same period in 1931. The composite price of steel scrap was put at $8.21 a gross ton, against $8.25 a month earlier and comparing with $11.08 at the same time in 1931. The pig iron composite was stated as being the lowest since September 1915, while that for steel scrap broke all records.

THE COURSE OF THE NON-FERROUS METALS—NEW AGREEMENT FOR COPPER CURTAILMENT.

The course of prices of the non-ferrous metals was towards lower levels, though in the case of copper there was some interruption to the downward movement. Another agreement for the curtailment of the world copper production was arranged during the month and this accounted for the interruption in the downward course of prices of the metal. With reference to this agreement, the New York "Times" of March 12 reported that after holding conferences here for more than a month, representatives of the world's leading copper companies had announced the day before that they had agreed upon further curtailment of production and that foreign sales would continue to be made through Copper Exporters, Inc., the co-operative selling organization whose existence had been threatened by dissension over marketing arrangements. The new agreement, which was expected to become effective at the beginning of April, provided it was, stated, for an operating rate, by companies participating in the conference, of 20% of capacity, compared with the current rate of 26½%, decreasing the world's monthly output from 85,000 tons to between 65,000 and 70,000 tons, and would probably bring production below the current rate of consumption, thus causing a reduction in surplus stocks. The new accord was hailed by copper authorities as offering a program which would stabilize the industry for several months, at least, and might result in a definite turn for the better. The reduction to 20%, it was pointed out, was the third lowering of output in a little more than a year. In November 1930 the world's leading producers reduced output 15% to 120,000 tons a month. In December 1931 another reduction was made to 26½% of capacity, or 85,000 tons a month.

It appears that of the world's monthly production of 85,000 tons (before the new reduction to between 65,000 and 70,000 tons), 30,000 tons approximately represented output of companies not represented at the conference. Some of these companies, it was stated, are small independent units, and others are in Japan and Canada. In recent months these units had shown a willingness to co-operate regarding curtailment programs sponsored by members of Copper Exporters, Inc., and they were expected to show a similar spirit towards the latest agreement. Some Canadian producers that have a large gold content in their ore would be under a hardship in reducing output drastically, it was observed. That Japanese producers could be relied upon to co-operate appeared when the Department of Commerce at Washington made it known on March 10 that the Japan Copper Association had announced that curtailment of production would be further increased by 5% for the first six months of this year, giving a total output of about 6,000 metric tons, according to a report to the Department from Assistant Commercial Attache W. S. Dowd at Tokio, Japan. United Press advices from Brussels March 22 stated that Belgian copper producers had agreed on plans to restrict their large production on the basis of actual consumption for the previous three months, in line with the agreement made with American producers in reducing production to 20% of capacity.

Towards the close of February the export price of copper had dropped to 5⅞c. and the domestic price to 5¾c. These, however, were the result of a completely demoralized market and the result of special cuts and price slashes. On March 4 it was reported that underselling of export copper by custom smelters had abruptly ended when those agencies refused to fill new demands of European buyers of the metal at 6¼c. c.i.f. Hamburg, Havre and London. Consequently, the price of the metal had been restored to the official quotation of 6⅝c. as established by Copper Exporters, Inc. On March 23, however, the official price of copper for export was again reduced ⅜c. a pound to 6¼c. c.i.f. Hamburg, Havre and London by Copper Exporters' Inc. Special offerings of the metal were made on March 23 at 6⅛c. Here in New York, Lake copper was marked down on March 1 from 6½c. to 6¼c., advanced again to 6½c. March 7, reduced to 6⅜c. March 9, and to 6⅛c. on March 11, and remained at that figure the rest of the month. Electrolytic copper was raised from 5½c. to 5¾c. March 4, was further advanced to 6¼c. March 7, and then cut to 5¾c. March 9, which was the figure quoted the rest of the month. The price of lead at New York was reduced from 3½c. to 3¼c. March 1 and further reduced to 3.15c. March 15. Tin moved irregularly, but on the whole in a lower direction, being 20.70c. March 31 against 22.05c. Feb. 29.

PETROLEUM AND ITS PRODUCTS—RISE IN PRICES.

Sharp advance in Mid-Continental oil and more court decisions regarding limitation of oil production in East Texas by military authority were the features in March.

A general upward swing in crude oil prices, announced on March 24. and to become effective April 1, sent crude oil up to the dollar per barrel mark, the announced goal of Governor W. H. Murray, who last summer instigated martial law in Oklahoma oil fields to halt the price route which had tumbled prices down to 5c. and 10c. per barrel. As was the case last November on the occasion of a price advance, the latest move was led by Continental Oil Co. The announcement, made on Thursday, March 24, posted a new range for Mid-Continent crude of 76c. a barrel for 29 degrees and below; to $1.00 per barrel for 40 degrees and above. Sinclair-Prairie, Barnsdall, and other leading companies followed the advance. Continental announced that the new schedule would apply to Oklahoma, Kansas, and north central Texas. The price advance was made possible by a stronger gasoline market and the marked success attending efforts to balance crude production with demand.

In the action in East Texas to enforce curtailment of production by the use of the State militia there were several important developments. On March 10 an injunction was granted by Federal Judge Bryant at Beaumont enjoining producers from violation of the Railroad Commission's per well production ruling. The only difference in the situation at this time was that the Railroad Commission was given the supervisory authority instead of the military; however Governor Sterling reiterated that he had no intention of withdrawing the State militia from the East Texas fields "as long as it can be of service to the Railroad Commission in enforcing its proration orders." The situation was stirred up again on March 24 when the Third Court of Civil Appeals at Austin, deciding in direct opposition to a three-judge Federal Court verdict given some time before at Houston, held that the Texas Railroad Commission was acting within its legal rights in considering market demand when making proration orders to prevent underground or actual physical waste of oil produced in that State. The decision was given in the application of the Danciger Oil & Refining Co. for an injunction restraining the Railroad Commission from enforcing proration orders in the Panhandle field where daily output was limited to 40,000 barrels. Price changes in the different parts of the country in the case of both crude oil and the refined product were generally towards a higher level and in the following we show all the important changes during the month of March.

Crude Oil.

March 1.—Effective immediately, the South Penn Oil Co. announces that Pennsylvania crude oil in Buckeye Pipe Lines has been increased 5c. per barrel to $1.30. This increase, similar to that made in Eureka pipelines last week, was brought about by the recent reduction in the gathering rate.

March 12.—South Penn Oil Co. posts 5c. per barrel advance in Buckeye (Pennsylvania) crude oil, new price being $1.35 per barrel.

March 24.—Continental Oil Co., Ponca City, Okla., posts new schedule for crude oil purchases in Oklahoma, Kansas, and north central Texas, advancing the price 15c. per barrel. The new schedule posts 76c. a barrel for oil of 29 degrees and below, and $1.00 per barrel for 40 degrees and above. The new range, effective April 1, will be followed by Barnsdall, Sinclair-Prairie, and other leading companies. It is expected that the advance will be reflected throughout all producing centers with possible exception of California.

March 31.—Atlantic Refining Co. advances prices of Grade C bunker fuel oil 5c. a barrel, new price being 70c. at refineries in Philadelphia. Advance is met by other leading refiners.

March 31.—Standard Oil Co. of Ohio posts advance, effective April 1, in gasoline prices of Medina and Portage counties, bringing them to the State-wide level posted March 28. Prices in these counties have been below State-wide structure because of competitive cuts and present service station price is 2c. below State structure. Prices in Lexington, Washington and Smith townships will be reduced 2c.

THE TEXTILE MARKETS AND THE COURSE OF SILK AND RUBBER.

In the cotton goods trade a state of great quietude prevailed, which was accentuated by unfavorable weather conditions, temperatures dropping below the seasonal averages for the month, where during January and February temperatures had been higher than the average, and by the disspiriting news from Washington concerning tax legislation and the efforts to balance the budget. The price of raw cotton moved again towards very low levels. In part this was a result of doubts as to the extent to which there would be actual curtailment of acreage the coming season. Associated Press accounts from Waco, Texas, March 6, stated that only the final word of the Texas Supreme Court remained as a resort for State officials testing the Texas cotton acreage reduction law after the Tenth Court of Civil Appeals on March 5 sustained a district court ruling that the law was "unconstitutional, null and void." The Waco dispatch continued:

District Judge W. C. Davis of Franklin was upheld in his refusal of an injunction the State asked to prevent Fred L. Smith, farmer, of Calvert, from planting to cotton this year more than 30% of the land he had in cultivation in 1931.

County Attorney T. L. Tyson of Robertson County was expected to carry the appeal from the Court of Civil Appeals to the Supreme Court.

Judge Davis, in his opinion filed on Feb. 1, declared that enforcement of the law passed last September at a special session of the Texas Legislature would be "the essence of tyranny and destructive of the fundamental principles of our Constitution and would make the bill of rights a nullity and a farce."

The law was enacted as a compromise measure after much Statewide agitation for relief from overproduction of cotton and low prices. Several other cotton-producing States enacted conditional measures for cotton curtailment which were allowed to lapse when all of the cotton-growing States failed to follow suit. The Texas law, however, carried no conditional clause to make it void in the event the States were not unanimous in legislative action.

Another depressing feature in addition to the uncertainty regarding the curtailment of acreage were reports from Washington suggesting that if the Federal Farm Board should begin selling wheat abroad, as it was rumored that it would, it might find it convenient also to sell out some of its large stocks of cotton. This ignored the fact that the Farm Board as well as the American Cotton Co-operative Assn. was under pledge not to market any of its supplies of raw cotton for a considerable time to come. Spot cotton in New York, after advancing from 7.00c. to 7.20c. Mar. 2, was down to 6.20c. Mar. 31. Print cloths at Fall River for 28-inch 64x64 remained unchanged at 3c. per yard. Fears of the possibility of labor trouble in the British cotton weaving industry over wages were also an unsettling influence. This hung as a cloud over the market all during the month. On Mar. 22 cablegrams from Manchester (England) stated that negotiations between employers and operatives in the weaving section of the Lancashire cotton industry over the dispute on assignment of more looms to each operative were regarded as being at an end. It was considered impossible to arrange an agreement because of the decision of the operatives the previous Saturday to reject the proposal of the employers. A meeting of the Manchester Cotton Spinners and Manufacturers Assn., which had been called to receive replies from district associations on the question of more looms, adjourned until April 5. Meantime chairmen of the local associations were to meet to consider the general situation. This was taken as indicating a move to arrange district agreements with the operatives. It was also taken to indicate the possibility that employers would decide to seek a general reduction of wages. The Census Bureau at Washington on Mar. 21 issued its final report on the cotton crop of 1931, based on cotton ginning returns, linters being excluded. This made the 1931 crop 17,060,772 bales of 500 lbs., against 13,931,597 bales the crop of 1930 and 14,824,861 bales the crop of 1929. This compared with the Department of Agriculture's estimate of 16,918,000 bales as the size of the crop made in December. The customary monthly Census report issued Mar. 14 showed that 450,018 bales of lint and 52,764 bales of linters were consumed in the United States during the month of February 1932, as against 433,376 bales of lint and 53,687 bales of linters in February 1931.

The smallest stocks of carded cotton cloths since the beginning of comparable figures, in January 1928, characterize the statistical reports of production, shipments and sales during the month of February 1932, which were made public

Mar. 14 by the Association of Cotton Textile Merchants of New York. The figures covered a period of four weeks and stocks at the end of the month were 239,654,000 yards. This was a decrease of 5.7% from the total of 254,056,000 yards reported at the end of January. Continuing, the Association said:

Shipments during the month were 258,744,000 yards, or 105.9% of production, which totaled 244,342,000 yards. Sales were 245,582,000 yards, or 100.5% of production for the period. The average weekly production was 61,086,000 yards.

Unfilled orders at the end of the month amounted to 377,988,000 yards, representing a decline of only 3.4% from the total of 391,150,000 yards at the end of January.

Prices of raw silk continued depressed and prices further sharply declined. On March 31 Japanese double extra 13-15 deniers were quoted at $1.50@1.55, against $1.67½@$1.70 Feb. 29; $1.87½@$1.90 Jan. 30; $1.85@$1.90 Dec. 31; $2.20@$2.25 on Nov. 30 and also on Oct. 31, and comparing with $2.25@$2.30 Sept. 30; $2.50@$2.55 on Aug. 31; $2.30 @$2.40 on July 31; $2.35@$2.40 on June 30; $2.22½@ $2.27½ May 29; $2.35@$2.40 April 30; $2.55@$2.65 March 31; $2.70@$2.75 Feb. 28 and $2.85@$2.95 Jan. 31 1931, and $4.70@$4.75 on Jan. 31 1930. In the 20-22 deniers, Japanese crack double extra were quoted at $1.42½@$1.47½ March 31 against $1.70@$1.80 Feb. 29; $1.95@$2.00 Jan. 30; $1.85 @$1.90 Dec. 31; $2.30@$2.32½ Nov. 30; $2.10@$2.15 Oct. 31; $2.25@$2.35 Sept. 30; $2.45@$2.55 Aug. 31; $2.25@ $2.30 July 31; $2.40@$2.50 June 30; $2.07½@$2.12½ May 29; $2.25@$2.30 April 30; $2.50@$2.60 March 31; $2.65@ $2.70 Feb. 28; $2.85@$2.90 Jan. 31 1931, and $4.60@$4.65 on Jan. 31 1930.

The market for crude rubber became completely demoralized, owing to the failure of the Anglo-Dutch negotiations for restriction of rubber production and exports. Associated Press advices from London March 20 stated that it was learned from the highest quarters that there was no expectation of a resumption of negotiations for an Anglo-Dutch rubber limitations plan. The failure of attempts to frame such a scheme had been announced from the Hague the day before. Effective regulation of rubber production or export was impossible, the British Colonial Office announced, according to a Department of Commerce statement issued March 21, based on a cablegram from Commerciale Attache William L. Cooper at London. The "United States Daily" of March 22 in indicating this said that the announcement followed a consultation with Representatives of rubber growers and of the Netherlands government and was expected to have a considerable effect on the production policy of many rubber growing companies that have continued operating in recent months, merely on the hope that Governmental restrictions might again be enforced. The announcements referred to sent the March delivery on the Rubber Exchange of New York on March 21 to 3.01c. per pound, a new low in all time, and a price which showed a loss of 29 points from the close the previous Saturday (March 19). Subsequently there was some recovery in the price; nevertheless the March option ran out March 29 at 3.01@3.03 cents. In London on March 21 a new low of 1⅞ pence, from 2⅛ pence on March 19 was reached. In the New York market ribbed smoked sheets for spot delivery was quoted March 31 at 3 1-16 bid and 3 3-16 asked, against 3⅝@3 11-16c. Feb. 29; 4 5-16@4 7-16 Jan. 30; 4 13-16c.@4 15-16c. SHARP DECLINE IN GRAIN PRICES—RUMORS OF PROSPECTIVE SELLING OF WHEAT AND COTTON BY FEDERAL FARM BOARD—CONGRESS VOTES 40,000,000 BUSHELS FOR DISTRIBUTION BY RED CROSS.

Grain prices, and in particular wheat prices, suffered a sharp tumble during the month of March. A variety of circumstances served to impel prices downward. Among the chief of these was perhaps the reports that the Federal Farm Board contemplated disposing of a considerable amount of its large holdings abroad, but there were other depressing influences as well. The renewed collapse of the stock market and in particular the depreciation in the bond market cast a feeling of gloom over the commercial markets as well as the financial markets. Then on Mar. 24 the United States Departmentof Agriculture issued a report on farmers' intentions to plant wheat, corn, oats, potatoes and other crops, and this showed that in the spring wheat region of the Northwest, where drouth had worked such havoc in 1931, with a heavy reduction in the area harvested, quite a large increase over the reduced acreage of 1931 was contemplated. In durum wheat the Agricultural Department said farmers reported an intention to sow 3,868,000 acres of wheat this year, an increase of 34.8% over the acreage harvested in 1931, and the intended acreage of other spring wheat was reported at 16,967,000 acres, an increase of 53.3% over the acreage harvested the previous year. Considerable disappointment also was felt in the vote in the House of Representatives at Washington on the beer tax, which the trade regarded as knocking out the last hope of the modification of prohibition regulations which might play an important part in the stimulation of the consumption of grains generally.

The result altogether was that the March option for wheat in Chicago, after a rise from 56¼c. Mar. 1 to 58⅜c. Mar. 7, fell below 50c. a bushel on Mar. 23, touching 49⅞c. Some recovery from this extreme low figure occurred at the close of the month on rumors of damage to the growing winter wheat crop from low temperatures (March having been about the only month of the winter during which temperatures ran low), coming at a time when the fields were largely unprotected owing to the absence of a sufficient snow covering. On Mar. 31 the range for the March option was 51¾@53c., with the close on that day at 52c. The May option for wheat in Chicago, after rising from 60⅛c. Mar. 1 to 62⅛c. Mar. 7, reached a low of 52¼c. Mar. 23, with the close Mar. 31 at 54c. At Winnipeg the May option for wheat, after moving up from 66¼c. Mar. 1 to 68⅛c. Mar. 7, touched a low of 58c. Mar. 23, with the close Mar. 31 at 61⅛c. The May option for corn in Chicago, after rising from 39c. Mar. 1 to 41c. Mar. 9, fell to 35¼c. Mar. 26 and closed Mar. 31 at 36½c. May oats at Chicago from 24⅝c. Mar. 1 rose to 25½c. Mar. 7, and was 22½c. Mar. 26, with the close Mar. 31 at 23⅝c.

Associated Press advices from Rome, Italy, March 10, stated the Italian Government restrictions had been further lifted on that day and that beginning March 21 millers in northern and central Italy would be allowed to use imported grain for 50% of their flour, while those in southern and insular Italy would be permitted to use 70%, both being increases of 10%. It was stated that the Government was gradually lightening the restrictions, in view of an insufficient production of domestic wheat, and that formerly millers could use foreign wheat for only 25% of their flour. It also appeared that wheat was selling in Rome for $1.65 a bushel, or about three times the price in the United States.

One of the events of the month was the enactment of a law by Congress providing for the distribution through the American National Red Cross of 40,000,000 bushels of wheat from the holdings of the Grain Stabilization Corporation for relief purposes. President Hoover on March 7 signed the resolution passed to that effect. The wheat thus made available for distribution is to be used "in providing for the needy and distressed people of the United States and Territories and for feed for livestock in the 1931 crop failure areas." The proposal to distribute 40,000,000 bushels was contained in a resolution passed on March 3 by the House of Representatives in Congress by a vote of 344 to 2. The U. S. Senate on Feb. 24 had approved a resolution to distribute 5,000,000 bushels of the Federal Farm Board wheat holdings to destitute farmers in the drouth and grasshopper stricken States of the Northwest for their families and livestock. On March 4 the Senate concurred in the House amendments. Chairman Stone of the Farm Board opposed the measure and characterized the proposal as "unfair" both to the Farm Board and to the farmer, contending that it would deprive the Board of about $25,000,000 of its $500,000,000 revolving fund.

With reference to the rumors regarding prospective large sales of wheat by the Farm Board, official contemplation of an "intensive sales campaign" by the United States to place some of the country's huge surplus of wheat and cotton in European and other countries was reported by Secretary of Agriculture Hyde on March 18, according to Associated Press advices from Washington, which reported that Mr. Hyde had told newspaper men that, although plans for such a campaign were at present nebulous, there was a definite hope that some such procedure could be followed in lifting the weight of these surpluses from the American market. A possibility that part of the $200,000,000 Farm Loan fund of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation might be employed in such a surplus slicing campaign, also was voiced. "It would not be humanly possible for us to make $200,000,000 of loans to agriculture at this time," Mr. Hyde said. "Since we could not loan this amount if we had it, a better plan might be to employ this money in cutting down our surpluses rather than continuing to stimulate production." George S. Milnor, head of the Grain Stabilization Corporation, sailed for Europe on March 16 and this of course occasioned much speculation as to the purpose of his trip, and also served to depress prices. The following statement was made on March 19 by James C. Stone, Chairman of the Federal Farm Board:

The rumors for the last two days to the effect that the Grain Stabilization Corporation contemplates dumping its wheat in foreign markets are untrue.

Last July a definite policy was announced as to how sales would be made from July 1931 to July 1932. This sales policy was to limit sales in domestic and foreign markets to an accumulative maximum of five million bushels per month, with the right to sell wheat to foreign Governments or their representatives in addition to the five million bushels per month.

The result of this orderly sales policy has been that every bushel of wheat sold in the United States since last July has brought a price considerably above the world market price parity for wheat.

This program has worked to the benefit of the American farmer and no change is contemplated.

A further statement by Chairman Stone on March 22 was issued as follows:

Rumors are continuing to be circulated that George S. Milnor, Vice-President and General Manager of the Farmers' National Grain Corporation, went to Europe for the purpose of dumping stabilization wheat.

These rumors are untrue and they have the earmarks of being a part of a malicious attempt to manipuiate the market for the express purpose of aiding those who are speculating in grain.

There will be no stabilization wheat dumped anywhere. We announced last July how this wheat would be sold. This program has been followed and will not be changed.

The following from Paris March 23 to the New York "Times" is also worth putting on record:

George S. Milnor, President of the United States Grain Stabilization Board, commenced efforts to-day to ascertain the possibilities of selling United States Farm Board wheat to France. He saw Ambassador Edge and commercial attaches this morning, and it is understood he also began negotiations with French milling agencies.

There is believed to be a good chance to sell wheat here due to the fact that French stocks are very low and the next crop will not be on hand until August. The market will have to be shared with Canada and Argentina, however. It is understood the American Board will not grant credits and that any deal will not be a Government affair, since the French Government has announced a hands-off policy.

SUGAR PRICES TOUCH NEW LOW FIGURES.

The sugar market during March became further badly demoralized, mainly owing to uncertainties regarding the carrying out of the Chadbourne policy of sugar restriction. Cuban raw sugar, which at the close of February had sold down to 0.87c., recovered to 0.90c. Mar. 3, but then renewed its downward course and established a new all-time low at 0.71c. on Mar. 28, with a recovery on Mar. 30 to 0.74c. The wholesale price of refined sugar at New York was reduced from 4.15c. to 4.00c. on Mar. 14. Thomas L. Chadbourne on his return from Cuba was reported on Mar. 8 as having said that he would not attend the International Sugar Conference at Paris on Mar. 14, but that he would continue as Chairman of the National Sugar Export Corporation. Paris advices Mar. 22 to the New York "Times" stated that after a week of strenuous effort, which until the day before had seemed certain to fail, the International Sugar Council had disbanded with a new plan of regulation for world sugar production and export quotas. The essence of the scheme was understood to be that Cuba asked Java to cut its export quota for 1932 from 2,400,000 to 1,500,000 tons, which was the amount actually exported in 1931. The Dutch refused to agree, but the Europeans, feeling sure that no matter what quota Java had, its export would not exceed that figure, were guaranteeing to Cuba that if the Dutch export more Europe will make good the difference by decreasing its figures. On Mar. 24 Havana advices stated that the Cuban Sugar Institute, the official body under which the Chadbourne plan operates, had that afternoon after almost two days of continuance sessions passed a resolution providing that Cuba's crop would be restricted to 2,700,000 long tons (against the 3,000,000 tons previously proposed), plus whatever amount the mills have exceeded their respective quotas on Mar. 30 when the restriction was to become effective. The surplus over the quotas was expected to amount to about 50,000 tons. The resolution was signed by President Machado and sent to the "Official Gazette" for publication on Mar. 26, said a cablegram from Havana on that date, which further reported:

The Institute last night began advising all Cuban mills regarding their respective quotas and grinding will cease March 30.

Based on a crop of 2,700,000 tons plus 567,000 tons carried over from last year's crop, the quota for exportation to the United States is calculated as 2,523,284 tons. Local consumption is estimated at 150,000 tons, which leaves 593,716 tons for exportation to other countries.

These figures will undergo some modification when the exact amount that each mill may have ground up to March 30 in excess of its quota is known.

Those sugar producers who are not in favor of a restricted crop met to-day and sent a formal protest to the Sugar Institute. It declared that according to their interpretation of the sugar stabilization law the Institute had no authority to fix the crop restriction figure, even though it had been approved by the President, contending that this must be done by the producers themselves. The protesting mills are greatly in the minority, however.

Of the 2,700,000 long tons of sugar, to which the sugar crop of Cuba is limited by the decree promulgated March 26, 1,956,420 long tons, plus last year's carryover, is designated for the United States, according to a cablegram received in the Department of Commerce Monday from Acting Commercial Attache Alfred Nufer, Havana. Europe was allotted 593,730 long tons plus one-fourth of the balance of the sugar segregated under the Chadbourne plan. Local consumption is expected to absorb 149,850 long tons, the cable stated.

Coffee prices were again very little changed. No. 7 Rio for spot delivery was quoted at 7¼c. Mar. 31, against 7¼c. Feb. 29; 7⅛c. Jan. 30; 7@7¼c. Dec. 31; 6½@6⅝c. Nov. 30; 5¾@6c. Oct. 31; 5½c. FARM IMPLEMENT MANUFACTURERS WILLING TO TAKE GRAIN AND COTTON AT MUCH HIGHER PRICES IN PAYMENT FOR THEIR GOODS.

The faith of the International Harvester Co. in the improvement this year of prices of wheat, corn and cotton was pledged on March 27 to new purchasers of its machines, it is learned from the Chicago "Journal of Commerce" of March 28, which went on to say:

The company announced that it would guarantee to such purchasers a price level of 70c. for wheat and 50c. for corn, at Chicago, and 8½c. a pound for cotton, New Orleans basis. Should the average base quotations for each of those commodities for the five-day period prior to and including maturity dates of notes of its new customers fall below the guaranteed level, the company will pay the difference, crediting it on the notes.

Announcement by Ranney.

The announcement of the plan was made by George A. Ranney, Vice-President in charge of sales of the company, who said:

"We are convinced that the reluctance of farmers to buy implements needed for the economical production and harvesting of their wheat, corn and cotton crops is due to the present unsatisfactory prices of these commodities, and we believe that if they were assured of higher prices for their products they would not hesitate to purchase the new cost-reducing machines that they need.

"In order to meet this situation, and to evidence our faith that prices of farm products must soon improve, we are now offering growers of wheat, corn and cotton assurance of higher prices with which to pay notes given hereafter and maturing this year for purchases of certain machines most vitally needed in making and gathering these crops.

"The list of machines to which this offer applies includes farm tractors, harvester-threshers or combines, windrow-harvesters and stationary threshers. The higher prices which these new terms guarantee are 70c. a bushel, Chicago, for No. 2 hard wheat; 50c. a bushel, Chicago, for No. 2 yellow corn, and 8½c. a pound, New Orleans, for middling cotton.

"On notes maturing in 1932, given hereafter in payment for the machines listed and representing not more than 40% of the purchase price, there will be endorsed the equivalent number of bushels of wheat or corn or pounds of cotton computed at the price named. If the average market quotation for the five-day period prior to and including the maturity date of the note is less than the price named, the purchaser will be credited with an amount representing the price differential multiplied by the number of bushels or pounds endorsed on the note.

Deere & Co. announced a similar plan, according to Associated Press advices March 31 from Chicago, which said:

Deere & Co. announced to-day a plan intended to help farmers obtain higher values for wheat, corn and cotton, used as security for the purchase of farm machinery. They said that on the sale of tractors in the corn belt, for the amount of an obligation maturing in 1932, not exceeding 40% of the purchase price of the tractor, "we will settle with the farmer on the basis of 50 cents per bushel, Chicago delivery, No. 2 yellow corn."

"The same plan will be followed on the sale of tractors in the cotton territory on the basis of 8½ cents a pound for middling cotton, New Orleans," the announcement said.

RESTORATION OF PEACE IN THE FAR EAST.

Restoration of peace in the Far East was also an event of international importance. The hostilities between the Chinese and Japanese armies in the area around the International Settlement at Shanghai ceased as abruptly on March 3 as they began on Jan. 28. There were none of the declarations customary in warfare to mark the end of the fighting, as there were none in the beginning. The Japanese army, augmented to about 50,000 men, began to make the territorial gains on March 1, for which it had striven unsuccessfully for more than a month. Rapidly extending the advance, the fresh troops from Japan easily swept the Chinese forces back to the 12½-mile distance from Shanghai proclaimed as the Japanese military aim. After this accomplishment announcements were made by the Japanese leaders that fighting would be halted if the Chinese also suspended activities. Instructions were given at Nanking early March 4 for the Nineteenth Route Army also to cease hostilities, and the two opposing forces rested on their arms beginning at 1 a. m. March 4. Peace negotiations were started immediately, with the aid of the British, American, French and Italian Ministers to China, and efforts made to hasten a formal agreement on an armistice. These discussions have lagged, however, and have not yet been concluded, owing to serious differences between Chinese and Japanese representatives regarding the mode of withdrawal of the Japanese forces to the International Settlement area.

Authoritative indications of the cost of the conflict at Shanghai were made available March 17, when the Shanghai Bureau of Social Affairs issued an announcement stating that a total of 6,080 Chinese civilians were killed and more than 2,000 wounded in the fighting. The missing are estimated at 10,040, while 160,000 Chinese families were driven from their homes. Property damage is estimated at 1,400,000,000 silver dollars, or $350,000,000 gold. "These appalling figures are not considered excessive," a Shanghai dispatch to the New York "Times" said. In the five weeks of fighting at Shanghai the Japanese lost 377 killed and 2,273 wounded. A report received at the State Department in Washington from Edwin S. Cunningham, United States Consul-General at Shanghai, indicated that much of the devastated area would not be rebuilt for years. Trade conditions are rapidly returning to normal, Mr. Cunningham added.

THE MARCH FINANCING OF THE U. S. TREASURY.

The March financing of the United States Treasury took the form of the offering of two issues of Treasury certificates for an aggregate of $900,000,000 "or thereabouts." Announcement of the offering came on Sunday night, March 6. The first of the two series bore 3⅛% interest and was for an amount of $300,000,000 "or thereabouts" and to mature on Oct. 15 1932, being for seven months from the date of the issue on March 15, while the second series carried 3¾% interest and ran for a year from the date of issue on March 15, thus maturing March 15 1933; this series was offered for an amount of $600,000,000 "or thereabouts." The rates of interest in these two issues of certificates were identical with those in the Treasury sale of certificates made in January, when the Secretary offered a six month's issue of certificates bearing 3⅛% interest, and another series running for a year and carrying 3¾% interest. Subscription books for the new certificates were opened on Monday, March 7, and were closed in the afternoon of the very next day. Subscriptions aggregated no less than $3,403,225,500, the amount for the $300,000,000 of seven months' certificates carrying 3⅛% interest being $952,619,500 and the aggregate for the $600,000,000 of 1-year certificates carrying 3¾% interest being $2,450,606,000. The allotments were $333,492,500 in the case of the first issue of certificates, of which $82,593,500 were exchange subscriptions, which were allotted in full, and $660,653,500 in the case of the second series running for a year, of which $414,089,500 were exchange subscriptions and were allotted in full. It will be noted that total allotments for the two series combined were $994,146,000, or considerably in excess of the tentative offering of $900,000,000 ($300,000,000 plus $600,000,000), also that the exchange subscription, which were accepted in full, aggregated $496,683,000.

In offering the $900,000,000 of new certificates the Secretary of the Treasury, Ogden L. Mills, stated that about $624,000,000 of old Treasury certificates of indebtedness would fall due on March 15, and that about $35,000,000 in interest on the public debt would also become due and payable on March 15, and that the proceeds of the sale would provide the Treasury with approximately $276,000,000 [as, however, the allotments exceeded the tentative offering of $900,000,000 by $94,146,000, the figure would be raised by that amount to $370,000,000—Ed.] in unobligated money which along with the tax receipts would enable the Government to meet expenses until the close of the fiscal year, and that the public debt would be increased by that amount and would total approximately $18,400,000,000 (or $18,494,000,000 if allowance be made for the $94,146,000 increase in the allotments). It was also pointed out in some of the calculations at the time that from its new funds, its tax receipts and its balance on hand, which would amount to about $250,000,000 on March 15, the Treasury would have to pay the Government's running expenses and meet at least three special obligations, to wit, the Treasury still had $64,000,000 to turn over to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and $62,000,000 to the Federal Land Banks under the allotment of $150,000,000 to the former and $125,000,000 to the latter. Moreover, the Treasury was pledged to purchase $250,000,000 of Reconstruction Finance Corporation debentures in the near future. Thus these expenditures would absorb $376,000,000 of the new funds and of the balance on hand—all these figures having been given out before the allotments were made on the subscriptions for the new offering and which, as already stated, exceeded the tentative offering of $900,000,000 by $94,146,000.

As is always the case, the subscriptions came mainly from banks and banking institutions and the fact that the subscriptions reached such a huge aggregate as $3,403,225,500 was of considerable significance, bearing testimony to the fact that there was no lack of banking credit notwithstanding that the campaign for combating so-called "hoarding," which was so actively under way, rested entirely on the idea that the country was suffering from a lack of banking credit because of the shortage caused by the "hoarding" referred to. It appeared at the close of the month that over half a billion dollars—in exact figures, $501,408,000—of Government deposits had been created through the sale of the $994,146,000 of new certificates, the proceeds of the sale remaining with the banks for whom or through whom the subscriptions had been made. A first call for repayment of these Government deposits was made by the Treasury on March 31, and required repayment on April 5 of $8,553,600 in the New York Federal Reserve district and $20,056,300 in the entire country, including New York, leaving still on deposit $205,286,200 in the New York district and $481,351,700 in the entire country, including New York.

Simultaneously with the $900,000,000 of new certificates of indebtedness in the regular form there was a special offering of certificates, namely, certificates in small denominations (in amounts running from $50 to $500) or so-called "baby bonds" designed to attract small sums which were supposed to be hoarded by persons of moderate means. Announcement of this offering was made by Secretary Mills on Saturday, March 5. In his statement, Mr. Mills pointed out that the offering was not part of the March financing program of the Treasury Department, details of which were made available on Sunday night, March 6, as noted in our remarks above. The so-called "baby bonds" were certificates bearing only 2% interest, to be issued only in denominations of $50, $100, and $500, in bearer form, with two interest coupons attached, payable Sept. 15 1932, and March 15 1933.

The certificates are dated and bear interest from March 15 1932; they will mature March 15 1933 but will be redeemable before maturity at the option of the holders at par and accrued interest on 60 days' notice. The initial offering of these certificates was featured by radio messages broadcast on Sunday night, March 7, by President Hoover, Secretary Mills, and a number of other noted men who were engaged in the anti-hoarding campaign. Secretary Mills in his radio message stated that the campaign was intended to put idle money to work and had been initiated by the President and was now being conducted by the Citizens Reconstruction Organization under the direction of Colonel Frank Knox. In the Treasury's offering circular, it was stated that payment at par and accrued interest for certificates allotted must be made on or before March 15 1932, or on later allotment. If payment was made after March 15 1932, it would have to include accrued interest from that date. It also stated that any qualified depository bank would be permitted to make payment by credit for certificates allotted to it for itself and its customers up to any amount for which it shall be qualified in excess of existing deposits, when so notified by the Federal Reserve Bank of its districts.

As to the method to be pursued in getting repayment of the principal sum of the certificates, in advance of maturity, on 60 days' notice of intention, which would play an important part in affecting subscriptions for the certificates, the Treasury circular said, under the caption "Redemption Before Maturity." In order to secure redemption before maturity of certificates issued hereunder, a demand therefor in writing, describing the certificates by denomination, serial number and aggregate amount, must be made by the holder; and the certificates, with unmatured coupons attached, accompanied by such demand, must be forwarded or delivered to a Federal Reserve bank, at the holder's risk and expense. Sixty days after receipt of the certificates and demand at a Federal Reserve bank, payment, at par and accrued interest, will be made.

As might have been expected, subscriptions for these anti-hoarding 2% Treasury certificates did not prove startling. According to the "United States Daily" of March 18, the Secretary of the Treasury in a statement on March 17, said that the exact amount of anti-hoarding certificates sold might be announced soon if Colonel Knox approved, but, the Secretary added, "You will not gasp for breath when you see them." He recalled that the certificates were merely an adjunct to the anti-hoarding campaign and that the volume of their sales did not reflect the activity of the whole movement. "There is not a great deal of inducement to buy 2% certificates when the Treasury is selling certificates at 3¾%" said the Secretary. He also said that the Treasury never expected to sell a great many anti-hoarding certificates, and the money which the Treasury had obtained from the sales, being such a small amount, had been left in the banks of the country, as the Treasury had promised. It was not sufficient to aid the Treasury materially, he said.

Two issues of Treasury bills sold on a discount basis and bearing no interest were also floated during the month of March. The first was in accordance with an announcement that came on Feb. 24, and tenders for which were asked until Feb. 29, but embracing certificates bearing date March 2, to which reference was made in our review of events during February. These were 91-day bills, for an amount of $100,000,000 "or thereabouts," and were to replace a similar amount of bills maturing March 2. They mature on June 1 1932. As stated in the previous number of this publication, the amount applied for in this instance was $292,984,000 and the amount accepted was $101,412,000. The average price obtained was 99.369 or the equivalent on a bank discount basis of about 2.50% per annum. This compared with an average rate on a bank discount basis of about 2.71% per annum at a sale of $62,851,000 of 91-day bills on which tenders were received up to and including Feb. 19. On March 23, the Treasury Department announced another offering of 91-day Treasury bills. These were for an amount of $100,000,000, "or thereabouts," tenders for which were invited up to 2. p. m. Eastern standard time on Monday, March 28. They were to replace an issue of maturing bills of $101,332,000 and were dated March 30 1932 and are to mature on June 29 1932. This offering brought tenders of $360,198,000. The amount accepted was $102,169,000. The average price realized was 99.474, making the average rate on a bank discount basis about 2.08%.

THE COURSE OF THE STOCK MARKET DURING MARCH.

During March the stock market went into a new period of decline, wiping out the sharp rise in prices that characterized the month of February. The renewed decline was the result of quite a number of adverse circumstances and events, coming at a time when, as for a long while previously, there was a complete absence of any signs of recovery in trade, so seriously reduced during over two years of growing trade depression and when indeed poor income returns for current periods—either for January or February, or for both months combined, or for the closing quarter of 1931 and the full year 1931—kept coming in, in almost endless procession, as a further manifestation going to show what serious inroads into income and profits trade prostration had already made and when dividend reductions and omissions, reported day after day and week after week, furnished additional testimony to the same effect as an indication of the havoc that had been and was still being done by the unfortunate condition of things prevailing and from which no early relief appeared in, sight. There was no inducement in such a state of things either for investment or speculative buying, and the remark applies to bonds as well as stocks and, as a matter of fact, the market for bonds was weak during most of March with sharp declines in many of the low-priced issues where previously it had shown an improving tendency. At such a time and under such conditions the stock market was ill prepared to cope with further dispiriting news such as the Kreuger & Toll disaster in Europe and the hostility displayed by Congress at Washington where the House of Representatives in its consideration of taxation legislation to provide new sources of revenue for eliminating a budget deficit of the Federal Government for an aggregate of some $2,000,000,000 engaged in proceedings which quickly descended into a stampede to "soak the rich" by means of inordinately high income and estate taxes and where also propositions kept gaining favor for imposing new tax levies on Stock Exchange transactions, as related in detail in the earlier part of this article, the radical elements in both the great political parties joining in all these movements which finally proceeded to such extremes that only the fervid intervention of the leaders in the House at a most critical stage of the proceedings served to prevent what threatened to develop into a riot of destructive legislation. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation was actively engaged in extending aid to financially needy railroads, but all this proved of no avail as a stimulating influence in the stock market in face of the budget of depressing news with which it had to contend; and the truth is that in the general downward swing of prices the railroads suffered rather more than the general list, though on the whole the market bore up remarkably well all things considered.

In the early part of the month the course of stock values for about a week was towards a higher level. This was in continuance of the upward reaction which came at the very end of February, after the sagging tendency which the market showed the latter part of that month, following the great rise which it enjoyed during February as a whole. This appears from the fact that the average of the 50 stocks which form the basis of the compilations in the New York "Times" showed that the high for the month was reached on March 8 at 79.57, this having been an advance to that figure from 73.52 at the close of February, and that the low for the month was recorded on March 31 at 64.40, with the close March 31 at 64.84. In the case of the 25 rail stocks as in the case of the industrial stocks, the low figure of the month was not reached until the last day of the month. The average of the 25 rails dropped from 30.59 March 5 to 22.83 March 31, with the close on the latter day at 22.96, while the 25 industrial stocks dropped from 128.71 March 8 to 105.97 March 31, with the close 106.72. In the absence of any improvement in trade and industry, the chief stimulating influence in the rise in the first week of March appeared to be the fact that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, in co-operation with the Inter-State Commerce Commission, was arranging numerous loans to the railroads so as to meet maturing bond issues, and also to provide interest payments on the securities of such roads as needed assistance of that kind. A satisfactory feature also at that time, induced no doubt by the course of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in helping needy railroads, was the growing firmness of the bond market, and particularly United States Government securities, which enjoyed an exceptional rise. The general bond market, however, was later in the month to reverse its course. Some other favoring influences in the early part of the month, though they did not appear to make much impression on the stock market, were the growing strength of foreign exchange rates on London and the improvement in the general financial condition of Great Britain, as indicated by a variety of circumstances and events narrated elsewhere in this article. On March 8 sterling exchange on London rose fully 20 points, and on March 10 the Bank of England discount rate, which on Feb. 18 had been reduced from 6% to 5%, was further reduced to 4%, and the following Thursday, March 17, it was marked down to 3½%. On the other hand, the U. S. Steel Corp., in its usual monthly statement given out on Thursday, March 10, showed unfilled orders on the books of the subsidiary companies at the end of February even smaller, by 102,521 tons, than at the end of January, when the total of such orders was the smallest in the entire history of the Corporation; on Feb. 29 the backlog was 2,545,629 tons as against 2,648,150 tons at the end of January; 12 months before. At the end of February 1931 the unfilled orders aggregated 3,965,194 tons, and at the end of February 1930 the total was 4,479,748 tons. Some selling of Steel stock followed the appearance of this statement, but with apparently little effect on price, and the news of numerous dividend reductions and suspensions by one company after another, including a number of very important companies, which had been coming along in quick succession the early part of March, was also borne well.

On Monday, March 14, however, the market was dealt a severe blow from an unexpected quarter, and thereafter the course of prices was strongly downward, interrupted only by occasional rallies the latter part of the month. We have reference to the collapse in the properties with which the name of Ivar Kreuger, the head of Kreuger & Toll, a company with world-wide ramifications, was associated, owing to the death by his own hand of Mr. Kreuger himself. Under this new blow the market staggered badly, with little signs of any recovery until Thursday, March 17, but even this recovery did not last, and on Friday, March 18, the market turned heavy again. It had been known for some time that Mr. Kreuger was deeply involved financially, and the securities of all the properties with which he was identified had long been weak. The further break in the same on March 14, owing to his suicide, was nevertheless of large dimensions. The collapse in these securities and the news regarding the suicide carried the whole Stock Exchange list down all the way from one to five or six points. The suicide actually occurred the previous Saturday morning, but news of the event was withheld until after the close of all the markets, so as to allow time over Sunday to make preparations for the ill effects which it was known would be very decided, owing to the wide ramifications of the Kreuger enterprises and their magnitude.

Reports from abroad to the effect that Kreuger & Toll had loans in this market amounting to $80,000,000 served greatly to intensify apprehensions of what would follow, though this proved a gross exaggeration, bankers declaring that such loans did not amount to more than $9,000,000. Before the stock market opened here in New York, cablegrams from Europe told of wide breaks in the securities of Kreuger & Toll and its affiliates in the European market. In Paris the shares were offered in huge reams, and big declines were reported in London, Berlin, Brussels and Amsterdam. On the New York Stock Exchange it was an hour after the opening before Kreuger & Toll appeared on the tape, and the initial transaction was 150,000 shares, the largest single block, it is stated, ever recorded. The opening price was 1⅛, as compared with 5 the close on Saturday. The stock closed at 2⅛ after sales for the day of no less than 673,800 shares, or one-third of the day's dealings in all stocks on the Exchange for that day, which aggregated 2,034,395 shares. Kreuger & Toll 5% bonds of 1959 opened at 36 as against the close on Saturday of 48½. The bonds later sold down to 30 and closed on that day at 32½. International Match 5% bonds of 1947 opened at 38 against 49 at the close on Saturday, selling down later in the day to 37½ and closing at 38. International Match 5s of 1941 opened at 41 as compared with the close Saturday of 52, touched 39½ later in the day, and closed at 39⅞.

It happened that just before the close of business on Monday (March 14) news of the suicide of George Eastman was reported, and this caused Eastman Kodak stock to tumble badly, the stock dropped to 73¼ against the close the previous Saturday of 81¼. In the middle of the day there was another depressing influence in the announcement of the defeat of efforts to take the resolution for the repeal of the Prohibition Amendment of the Federal Constitution out of the hands of the Judiciary Committee. This news caused a crash in the grain market, wheat suffering a decline of nearly 3c. a bushel, and all the other grains also moving lower. Perhaps the appearance of the annual report of the United States Steel Corp. also served as a further weakening influence in the stock market. This contained nothing new, the exhibit for the December quarter, made public towards the close of February, having indicated the general results quite fully, but the report made a poor showing and emphasis was laid on that fact. On the immediately succeeding days the course of prices continued steadily downward, and the most discouraging feature of all was the fact that the bond market was so extremely weak, even weaker, it might be said, than the stock market. As the week progressed there were further adverse developments of one kind or another which served to intensify the prevailing depression and to induce further selling and further liquidation. As one illustration may be mentioned the reduction in the dividend on the common stock of (R. H.) Macy & Co. on March 16 from 75c. a share to 50c. a share, which occasioned a sharp decline in that stock. The railroad stocks were especially weak most of the time, and the passing of the dividend on Baltimore & Ohio preferred shares served to accelerate the downward movement of the whole railroad list.

The heaviness in the railroad list gave rise to fears that some hitch had developed in the plans for the relief of the railroads, and the break in the railroad list was really the signal for the further downward plunge in the market on Thursday morning March 17. Later in the day, however, rumors spread through the financial district that the conflict with reference to the policy to be pursued by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation had been harmonized and that loans to needy carriers would be granted on a liberal scale. The market then completely reversed its course and recovered the whole of the losses sustained in the early part of that day. The railroad list now was as strong as it had previously been weak, and stocks now spurted up with great rapidity. A very good showing of net earnings by the Chesapeake & Ohio, as far at least as the net results are concerned, helped the upward movement along. The further reduction in the discount rate of the Bank of England from 4% to 3½% on March 17 was doubtless a further contributing factor. The next day however the market again turned lower.

On Monday, March 21, the rubber market was upset by official announcement that efforts of the British and the Dutch to reach an agreement for restriction of output had ended in failure. Record low prices around 3c. a pound for the nearer rubber options were established. On Mar. 22 and March 23 a sharp break in the price of wheat again served to upset the market, wheat on March 23 for the March delivery dropping below 50c. a bushel, or, to be precise, to 49⅞c., on the news that the Farm Board contemplated selling some of its wheat abroad, though without engaging (as the trade was later assured) in any dumping process, the purpose being to find new markets and not to enter existing markets for wheat. On March 24 a rise of 7c. in sterling exchange on London was a favorable feature, but this was offset by the dulness of the market due to the impending Good Friday holiday, many traders contemplating being away on Saturday as well as on Friday, although the Stock Exchange was open for business in the usual way on that Saturday. An increase of 15c. a barrel in Mid-Continent crude oil prices, effective April 1, was without response on the part of the oil stocks.

The remainder of the month the market was largely under the influence of the developments in Congress in its consideration of the tax bill for providing new sources of revenue to take care of the Federal Government's huge budget deficit. As stated, the Stock Exchange was open on Saturday, March 26, after the Good Friday holiday. In the interval between Thursday and Saturday the House of Representatives had rejected the proposition for a sales tax on which the House Ways and Means Committee had counted for nearly $600,000,000 of new revenue, and had also voted down a proposal offered from the floor of 2¾% beer, which might have yielded considerable revenue (the one proposition on Thursday and the other on Friday), and everything seemed to be in a state of chaos with reference to the means for balancing the budget. On the same Friday a report was issued by the Swedish Government committee investigating the affairs of the Kreuger & Toll Holding Co., which indicated that the liabilities of this vast undertaking exceeded its resources; this naturally occasioned further extensive selling of the securities connected with that concern, dealt in on the New York Exchange. The shares dropped below 1, selling down to ¾, while Kreuger & Toll debentures declined 8½ points net to 15¼, after setting a new low at 15. International Match participating pref. dropped 1¾ points and closed at 4, after setting a new low at 3⅝, while International Match convertible 5s closed 7 points lower at a new low of 21, while the 5s of 1947 dropped 7⅛ points net to a new low at 20¼. The Swedish committee made it clear that if Kreuger & Toll were now to be liquidated, "it is not certain that its assets would be sufficient to cover its liabilities." In other words, the hope of the security owners lay in a recovery in the market value of the securities held by Kreuger & Toll. This, and the depressing news from Washington, caused general weakness on the New York Stock Exchange, and declines ensued running as high as 4½ in the case of the active specialties, the 4½ point drop occurring in the case of the shares of American Tel. & Tel. On Monday, March 28, the market took a further downward turn, the proceedings on the tax bill the previous Saturday having shown that both the Republicans and the Democrats were still engaged in ripping the tax bill to pieces and were flaunting responsible leadership with utter unconcern. On Tuesday, March 29, somewhat of a rally developed as it appeared that the Congressional insurgents were becoming more tractable in their treatment of the tax problem. However, there were some weak features, nevertheless. Thus, sharp declines were witnessed in all securities of the Int. Tel. & Tel. Corp. and the Postal Tel. & Cable companies, coupled with news of a break in L. M. Ericsson Telephone stock in Stockholm. There were rumors of a selling of Kreuger & Toll holdings in Int. Tel. & Tel. for which apparently there was no foundation, since no Int. Tel. & Tel. shares had yet been delivered under the Ericsson transaction; furthermore, so long as the Swedish moratorium lasted, there probably was no one in the Kreuger & Toll Co. who could sell any of its securities. It also happened that the foreign exchange market showed heavy declines in the case of sterling bills on London and also in the case of several of the other European exchanges. Cable transfers on London rose from $3.69¾ on Friday, March 25, to $3.83¾ on Monday, March 28, and now there was a drop back to $3.77 on March 29 and a further drop on March 30 to $3.72, with a recovery, however, on March 31 to $3.82⅛. The weakness in the foreign exchanges seemed to grow out of rumors that the United States might be forced off the gold standard, the talk to that effect this time being related to the difficulties that were being encountered in getting a bill through Congress for balancing the Federal budget. One depressing feature on March 30 was that the "Iron Age," in its weekly issue, reported a further decline in steel operations of 3 points to only 22% of capacity. U. S. Steel pref. declined to 88¼, the lowest level since 1908.

On March 31 the market fell into a complete collapse, with prices tumbling from 1 to 7 or more points, owing to the approval by the House of Representatives of an increased tax on stock sales, this tax being now raised to ¼ of 1% of the value of the stock, but in no case less than 4c. a share, against the present flat rate of 2c. a share. This was looked upon by dealers as close to confiscatory. The break was considered all the more noteworthy in view of the very large short interest that existed, which latter was reflected by the fact that after the close of trading speculators short of the market had to pay a large premium in borrowing stock in the case of quite a number of shares. U. S. Steel common, Westinghouse Electric and American Tel. & Tel., for instance, commanded a premium of ½ of 1%, which meant $50 a day for 100 shares. This may have been due in part to the fact that from that day on Stock Exchange commission houses, before lending the stock of their margin customers, had to obtain "separate authorization" for so doing. Previously a blanket clause in the agreement between customer and broker was sufficient to cover the lending or hypothecation of the customer's stock.

While the general trend of prices was towards lower levels, a few of the active specialties suffered larger declines than the general list. American Tel. & Tel. was one of these. It fell from 135¼ March 5 to 109⅞ March 31 and closed March 31 at 110¼. It has already been indicated that all the securities with which the name of Ivar Kreuger was associated suffered complete collapse. U. S. Steel common sold down from 51¼ March 7 to 38¾ March 31, with the close March 31 at 39. Auburn Auto dropped from 101½ March 11 to 70 March 31 and closed March 31 at 72¾. General Motors declined from 22½ March 3 to 15½ March 28 and closed March 31 at 15⅝. R. H. Macy & Co. tumbled from 57⅛ March 8 to 36⅛ March 28, the reduction in the dividend rate being one of the factors in the collapse. People's Gaslight & Coke of Chicago fell from 101 March 8 to 84½ March 28 and closed March 31 at 84⅝. Western Union Telegraph declined from 47 March 8 to 35 March 31 with the close March 31 at 35⅛; and Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. fell from 33⅛ March 3 to 22⅝ March 30 with the close March 31 at 23⅝. Allied Chemical & Dye declined from 87½ March 8 to 73⅛ March 28 and closed March 31 at 74½; American Can from 73⅞ March 8 to 60¼ March 31 with the close March 31 at 61⅛; Case Threshing Machine from 39 March 7 to 31¾ March 28 with the close March 31 at 32⅝; Consolidated Gas (N. Y.) from 68¾ March 8 to 57⅜ March 31 with the close March 31 at 58⅛; Eastman Kodak from 84¾ March 7 to 72½ March 31 with the close March 31 at 73; E. I. DuPont de Nemours from 58⅜ March 7 to 45⅛ March 31 with the close March 31 at 45⅜; North American from 39¾ March 3 to 30 March 31 with the close March 31 at 30⅛. In the railroad list Atchison was a weak feature most of the time and declined from 88 March 5 to 63 March 31 with the close March 31 at 63½. N. Y. Central sold down from 33¼ March 8 to 25¼ March 31 and closed March 31 at 25⅞; Union Pacific touched a high of 87⅞ March 5 and a low of 68¼ March 31 with the close March 31 at 68½; while in the case of Southern Pacific the range was from 28⅞ March 3 down to 18¼ March 31 with the close March 31 at 18⅜. Altogether 444 stocks on the New York Stock Exchange reached new low levels for the year during the month and 361 stocks touched new high levels. On the Curb Exchange 249 stocks touched new low levels during the month and 183 stocks new high levels. Dealings on both exchanges were only moderately large in volume with sales on the New York Stock Exchange aggregating 33,031,499 shares, which compares with 65,658,034 shares in March 1931; 96,552,040 shares in March 1930 and 105,661,570 shares in March 1929. On the Curb Exchange the sales aggregated 4,524,072 shares, against 14,089,000 shares in March 1931; 27,294,900 shares in March 1930 and 32,058,800 shares in March 1929.

The bond market, as already indicated, except at the beginning of the month was weak in common with the stock market and often even weaker, though this does not apply in the case of U. S. Government securities which most of the time showed independent strength and yet even in that case there was a shading of prices the latter part of the month, this being due to the difficulties encountered in putting through new tax legislation but also to the rapid growth of the movement for a further solider bonus to the full extent of the face value of the adjusted service certificates, which would call for a new outlay by the U. S. Treasury to amount of over $2,000,000,000. In the following table we show the fluctuations during the month in the different issues of United States obligations and also in a large list of railroad and industrial bonds and a considerable number likewise of foreign bond issues.

THE MONEY MARKET DURING MARCH 1932.

There was continued manifestation of ease in the New York money market during March, without any especial new developments bearing on the course of the money situation. The "Monthly Review" of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, issued under date of April 1, points out that "the most important new development in the banking situation during the past month (March) has been a considerable reduction in the indebtedness at the Reserve banks of member banks outside of New York. Member banks in many communities were forced to borrow heavily from the Reserve banks last autumn, due partly to withdrawals of currency by their depositors, and partly to a persistent flow of deposits to New York which continued in the early part of 1932, so that indebtedness of these banks rose further in January and February to above $800,000,000, the highest level since 1929. Such a volume of indebtedness at any time exercises a restraining influence on the banks, and, under present conditions when all banks are striving to attain a liquid position, it constitutes a heavy burden and has a tendency to create considerable pressure toward the limitation of credit."

The reference here is to the fact that the discount holdings of the 12 Reserve banks in the period from Feb. 17 to March 30 were reduced from $845,781,000 to $633,255,000. In its analysis of the situation the New York Reserve Bank goes on to say that "the reduction during the past month, which has amounted to about $180,000,000, may be attributed in part to the indirect effects of purchases of United States Government securities by the Reserve banks, and in part to the return flow of currency to the banks." In speaking here of the part played by purchases of United States Government securities by the Federal Reserve banks, the Reserve officials show the same fondness for reversing the order of things that has been noted many times in the past. They undertake to convey the impression that these purchases of Government securities, which have been very heavy in recent weeks, served to enable the member banks to reduce their indebtedness, which is the reverse of the truth, inasmuch as what happened has been that the member banks were able independently to contract their borrowings at the Reserve institution, and as this involved (owing to the reduction of the discount holdings of the Reserve institutions) a contraction in the volume of Reserve credit outstanding, the Reserve authorities undertook large purchases of United States Government securities with the idea of keeping close to the same amount of Reserve credit outstanding as before. Diminution in member bank borrowing preceded the huge additions to the holdings of United States Government securities. And this has proceeded week after week, the Reserve banks adding to their holdings as member bank borrowing again and again declined. The two events were concurrent, but purchases of Government obligations followed the shrinkage in discount holdings and in the holdings of acceptances (which latter were also heavily reduced) instead of the expansion in the holdings of United States Government securities having enabled the member banks to cancel their indebtedness to the Federal Reserve banks. In other words, as far as the reduction in member bank indebtedness reflected an improvement in the general banking situation, it came about independently and wholly without any relation to the purchases of United States Government securities. These purchases were made so as to prevent, as far as possible, a contraction in the volume of Reserve credit outstanding. For the benefit of the student, it is well to place the relationship of the two events in their proper juxtaposition. In continuing its narrative the New York Reserve Bank goes on to say:

"Federal Reserve purchases of Government securities necessarily were conducted largely in New York, but the funds paid out were widely distributed through Treasury transfers of funds to other parts of the country to cover payments of loans made by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, as well as ordinary Government expenditures. Through this process many member banks obtained funds with which to reduce indebtedness. The result is in accordance with the usual effect of security purchases by the Reserve banks; an increase in Government security holdings does not ordinarily increase the total volume of Federal Reserve credit, but rather helps to reduce the dependence of the member banks and of the acceptance market on money borrowed from the Reserve banks, and so to promote easier banking conditions.

"The return flow of currency to the banks has proceeded at a fairly steady rate of at least $25,000,000 in most weeks, after allowance is made for seasonal variations in the demand for currency, and in the seven weeks ended March 26 the movement totaled around $165,000,000. This flow of currency into the banks, together with the operations of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, undoubtedly has strengthened the position of many banks, and bank closings were reduced in March to the smallest number in many months. In the latter part of the month closings were nearly equaled in number, and were considerably exceeded in the amount of deposits involved by reopenings of banks previously closed."

Some weakness in the theory being still apparent, such as the fact that the deposit of member banks continued to shrink (which shrinkage, in the current discussions, had been referred to as an indication that member bank credit was in insufficient supply, whereas a considerable part at least could be ascribed to the liquidation and closing out of old accounts with the elimination of frozen and ineligible assets, and to that extent was to be regarded as a proper development in the process of adjustment to the normal and away from the unsound conditions which had grown up during the period of speculative expansion that found its culmination in the stock market collapse in the autumn of 1929), the following further explanation is vouchsafed:

"These developments have retarded, although they have not yet stopped, the decline in bank deposits. During the four weeks ended March 23, the total loans and investments of weekly reporting member banks showed a further decline of about $200,000,000, notwithstanding large purchases of Government securities on March 15, and the net demand and time deposits of these banks showed an accompanying reduction of approximately $170,000,000. The return flow of currency, disbursements by the Treasury for Government expenditures, and Reserve bank purchases of Government securities all have tended to increase bank deposits, but their influence has been more than counterbalanced by the reduction in deposits which accompanied the decline in loans and investments other than Government security holdings of the reporting banks. The March reduction in deposits, however, is considerably less than the reduction of nearly $540,000,000 in the previous month, and of $550,000,000 in January."

In the official call loan rate on the New York Stock Exchange there was no deviation at any time during March from the 2½% rate prevailing for so long, this having been the charge both for new loans and for renewals throughout the month. Outside the Stock Exchange, banking funds were all the time available at some concession from the official rate (even at the middle of the month, when often there is a considerable dislocation of funds, arising out of Government financing and the large income tax payments). The concession from the official rate during the greater part of the month was ¼ of 1%, the outside rate being generally 2¼%, while in the closing week of the month the concession increased to ½ of 1%, loans then being obtainable on the outside at 2%, and in considerable amounts, too. In the time loan branch of the market little or no business was done, there being, as in so many previous months, virtually no demand for accommodation of that kind and quoted rates for time loans were almost entirely nominal; but these nominal rates were twice reduced—first on March 2, from a range of 3½@3¾% to 3@3½%, and on March 21 to 2¾@3% for all dates.

The demand for commercial paper was active all through the month, with supplies of paper at all times inadequate to requirements. The New York Federal Reserve Bank says that dealers' sales of paper continued to be in limited volume during March, although distribution of paper became somewhat wider as the month progressed. The principal factor restricting the sales volume, it is stated, was the small amount of new paper being created by the type of concern which is able to finance through the open market. Quotations for choice names of four to six months' maturity were a trifle lower the latter part of the month at 3¼@3½%. Names less well known commanded 3¾@4¼%. Some very high class 90-day paper transactions were occasionally reported at 3%. Reports to the New York Reserve Bank from the dealers showed only $103,000,000 of commercial paper outstanding on Feb. 29, this comparing with a revised total of $108,000,000 outstanding at the end of January and with $315,000,000 at the end of February in 1931.

The growing ease in money found strongest expression in the acceptance market. Here rates were marked down several times during the month. On March 1, rates were reduced ⅛ of 1% on bills running from three to six months. They were again reduced on Friday, March 11, when 30-day, 60-day and 90-day bills were lowered by ⅛ of 1%. On March 22, there was a further reduction of ⅛ of 1% on all maturities, bringing the rates down to 2½% bid, and 2⅝% asked, for bills running from 30 to 90 days, to 2⅝ bid, and 2½% asked, for 120 days, and 2⅞ bid, and 2¾ asked, for bills running for 150 and 180 days. Immediately after the close of the month, that is, on April 1, rates were further reduced ¼ of 1% on all maturities. The acceptance holdings of the 12 Reserve banks dropped from $137,584,000, March 9 to $66,362,000 March 30, but their holdings for their foreign correspondents increased from $311,640,000 March 2, to $335,425,000 March 30. According to an announcement made by the American Acceptance Council on March 16, the volume of bankers' acceptances outstanding on Feb. 29, was smaller by $41,674,522 than the total at the end of January, that is, the amount was down to $919,391,880. Twelve months before on Feb. 28 1931, the agrgeate was $1,519,857,-484, showing a contraction during the year in the large sum of $600,465,604. The American Acceptance Council explained the shrinkage as follows:

Contributing to this decline, the total of bills drawn to finance goods stored abroad or shipped between foreign countries is now less by $259,-400,000, export bills are off $203,300,000, import bills are off $69,600,000, dollar exchange bills are off $45,000,000, domestic shipment bills are off $16,500,000 and bills to finance goods in domestic warehouses are off $6,000,000.

Thus it is clear that the two major causes of the reduced activity in the bankers' acceptance business in the past year are first, the extraordinary drop in our export trade which amounts to more than $150,000,000 for the 12 months, and second, the practical cessation, since July 1931, of dollar acceptance financing in Europe. The total reduction of bills of these two classes alone amounts to $463,000,000, or 77% of the total decline.

The New York Federal Reserve Bank in discussing the bill market said:

"During the first part of March, the investment demand for bills diminished, with the result that dealers' portfolios increased somewhat, and offerings of bills to the Reserve banks increased between March 2 and March 9. In the succeeding week, dealers' sales were stimulated by local bank buying around March 15, as well as by foreign buying through the Reserve bank, and the supply of bills was reduced as the banks retained newly created bills. Consequently, dealers' portfolios were reduced substantially, and open market rates for bills maturing within 90 days were reduced ⅛% on March 11, following a decline of ⅛% in bills of longer than 60-day maturity on March 1.

"For the balance of the month, the demand for bills was large relative to the amount of bills being released to the discount market by accepting and discounting banks, and dealers were unable to fill orders. A further reduction of ⅛% in dealers' rates for all maturities of bills was effected on March 22, bringing the offering rate for 90-day unindorsed bills to 2⅜%, the lowest since the middle of last October, and on March 25 the buying rate of the New York Reserve Bank was lowered to 2½% for indorsed bills not exceeding four months maturity. Following the increase in the first reporting week of March, Federal Reserve holdings of purchased bills declined steadily and on March 30 amounted to only $66,000,000, the smallest volume since last August."

There were no changes during the month in the rediscount rates of any of the Federal Reserve banks. When the Bank of England made the second reduction of the month in its discount rate on March 17, this time to 3½%, there were expectations that the New York Federal Reserve Bank might also make some alteration in its rate, but it was left unchanged at 3%.

THE RETURNS OF THE FEDERAL RESERVE AND MEMBER BANKS—BROKERS' LOANS.

The feature of the Federal Reserve statements during March was the diminished borrowing of the member banks, as represented by the discount holdings of the 12 Reserve institutions, with a concurrent reduction in the holdings of acceptances (dealers finding no occasion for recourse to the facilities of the Reserve banks) and the huge increase in the holdings of United States Government securities, the Reserve authorities having adopted the plan of adding to their holdings of Government securities as their discount holdings and acceptance holdings were reduced; this with a view to keeping the volume of Reserve credit outstanding pretty nearly the same as before. Between Feb. 17 and March 30 the discount holdings fell from $845,781,000 to $633,255,000, and the acceptance holdings from $146,382,000 to $66,362,000. During the same period the holdings of United States Government securities ran up from $741,342,-000 to $871,618,000.

The increase in these holdings of Government securities extended to all the different heads, though the greater part of it occurred in the holdings of certificates and bills, the amount of which rose from $347,818,000 Feb. 24 to $459,-554,000 March 30, while the holdings of Treasury notes rose from $73,497,000 Feb. 24 to $84,397,000 March 30; and the holdings of United States bonds from $319,241,000 Feb. 24 to $327,667,000 March 30. In addition, there appeared in the return for March 16 an item of special Treasury certificates for $32,000,000, these being one-day's certificates issued to the Federal Reserve banks to cover advances by the latter to the United States Treasury pending the collection of the Federal income taxes due March 15, but which usually do not reach the Treasury until a day or two later. The item, of course, appeared in only this one return; that is, on March 16. The New York Federal Reserve Bank points out that on March 15 $634,000,000 of Treasury certificates of indebtedness became due and payable, but inasmuch as nearly $500,000,000 were tendered to the Reserve banks in exchange for the new certificates issued, the excess of Treasury disbursements over receipts on March 15 was unusually small for the first day of a Treasury tax period. As a result, the Treasury found it necessary to issue to the Reserve banks a special one-day certificate of indebtedness for only $53,000,000 in order to balance its position for that day. Most of the excess of net cash redemptions of maturing certificates and interest payments over income tax collections on the 15th, and cash payments for new certificate issues occurred, it is stated, in New York and was added to the Reserve accounts of the New York City banks. Consequently, participations totaling $33,500,000 in the special one-day certificate issued to the Reserve Bank were sold to the New York banks to provide employment for part of the temporary excess of funds. The participation of the New York City banks was reduced on the succeeding day, and was finally retired on the 17th concurrent with reductions in the special certificate of indebtedness, which were effected through income tax collections and a withdrawal of funds from Government depositaries.

Notwithstanding the large addition to the holdings of Government securities, the total of the bill and security holdings (an item which reflects the volume of Reserve credit outstanding) fell from $1,763,500,000 Feb. 17 to $1,578,146,000 March 30. In the absence of any considerable amount of gold exports except from earmarked stock, the Reserve institutions were also able to enlarge their gold reserves again. These increased from $2,938,-974,000 March 2 to $3,107,757,000 March 30. The volume of Reserve notes in circulation was concurrently reduced, falling from $2,638,488,000 March 2 (and $2,664,003,000 Feb. 3) to $2,546,275,000 March 30. As a result the ratio of total reserves to deposits and Federal Reserve note liabilities combined rose from 68.0% Feb. 24 and 68.1% March 2 to 70.9% March 30. While the Reserve banks suffered a decline in their own holdings of acceptances (the amount having fallen, as already stated, from $146,382,000 Feb. 17 to $66,362,000 on March 30) their holdings for account of foreign central banks, after having fallen from $319,294,000 Feb. 10 to $311,640,000 March 2, increased thereafter and were up to $335,425,000 on March 30. The deposits of foreign banks with the 12 Reserve institutions, after the large previous shrinkage, showed further contraction, dropping from $16,392,000 March 2 to $10,874,000 March 23, but then moved up again to $31,249,000 March 30.

Brokers loans of the reporting member banks in New York City showed unimportant changes during March. The aggregate continued very small, and after increasing from $495,000,000 March 2 to $561,000,000 March 16, it fell to $524,000,000 March 23, and was $525,000,000 March 30. The New York Stock Exchange monthly figures showed borrowings by Stock Exchange members March 31 as $533,103,059, which compared with $524,663,758 Feb. 29; $512,017,942 Jan. 31; $587,159,813 Dec. 31; $730,151,908 Nov. 30, and $1,354,067,350 as recently as Aug. 31 1931.

COURSE OF STERLING EXCHANGE DURING MARCH.

The feature in the market for foreign exchange during March was the sharp rise in bills on London. On Monday March 1 the price of cable transfers on London ranged between $3.48⅜ and $3.48¾; on March 31 the range was from $3.76¾ to $3.82⅛, showing an advance of almost 34 cents in the pound sterling. This followed as the result of multiplying evidences going to show steady and very great improvement in British affairs. In the House of Commons on March 2, Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, confirmed a report current earlier in the week that the British Treasury on Friday, March 4 would pay $150,000,000 of the $200,000,000 credit supplied by 110 banks and bankers in this country to the British Treasury, the latter part of August 1931. Mr. Chamberlain also stated that the credit obtained at the same time from the Bank of France had been reduced roughly from £20,000,000 to £7,000,000. The £20,000,000 remaining section of the French credit, he stated, was represented by bills that could not be paid off until next August. At the same time he told the House of Commons that the restrictions on the purchase of foreign exchange which were imposed last September at the time of Great Britain's flight from the pound would be withdrawn the same evening (March 2). The restrictions on dealings in exchange had been designed to prevent speculative sales of sterling by British nationals and the flight of capital from England. Actually newspaper accounts said these restrictions were never enforced because the British public took the suspension of the gold standard calmly and made no general attempt to convert its money from sterling into other currency. Towards the end of the month, or on March 28, there came announcement of further repayments of the credits previously obtained. On the day named the British Treasury notified participating banks that it would pay off $30,000,000 of the $50,000,000 credit still remaining unpaid of the $200,000,000 total credit obtained the previous August. Similar repayment, the New York "Times" stated, was to be made of the remaining $20,000,000 due on April 5, though in both cases the credit line would be kept open. As further evidence of improvement the Bank of England, which on Feb. 18 had reduced its rate of discount from 6% to 5%, on March 10, reduced further to 4% and on March 17 lowered its rate still further to 3½%.

As a result of the rapid convalescence of Great Britain, made manifest in so many different ways, there was a remarkable return of confidence in the London market throughout the world. A steady inflow of funds to the London market occurred, especially from European centers. The flow from Switzerland and Amsterdam for investment in London was exceptionally heavy so that Dutch guilders and Swiss francs were at one time during the month quoted at the lowest rates prevailing since the German crisis of last June and the London crisis of September. Previously, since June and especially since September, Swiss and Dutch bankers, like almost all depositors and investors in London, had been making strenuous efforts to sell British pounds. In addition the Bank of France, as well as French private banks and investors are believed to have been heavy buyers of sterling, thereby further strengthening rates on London.

In ordinary circumstances seasonal factors serve to help sterling at this time of the year, and until towards the end of the following August. But while these factors doubtless were present, apparently the predominating influence in the recovery in the price of sterling was the quick return of confidence on the part of international bankers in the British financial position. On this side of the ocean, also, orders to buy sterling came pouring in to bankers and foreign exchange traders and it would seem that the rate was prevented from sky rocketing even further, only through persistent selling by official sources in London. Traders stated that the future market was stronger even than the spot market and stronger the premium seemed to indicate. On March 31, one month sterling was quoted at a premium of ⅞ to one cent above spot, while 90 day sterling was quoted at a premium of 2¾ @ 3c., plainly indicating a belief that notwithstanding the big advance already achieved still further advances were deemed likely. The extent of the demand for sterling and of the flow of funds to London was illustrated by the downward trend of money rates in the open market in London. On March 31, open market discounts for short bills were down to 2 @ 2⅛% and for three months bills to 2 3-16 @ 2¼% which, compared with 3⅜ @ 4⅝%, the rate for short bills on Feb. 29 and 4½ @ 5¼% the rate at the close of January, and with 3¾ @ 4¾% for three months bills on Feb. 29 and 5 @ 5¾% at the end of January.

The steady influx of gold from Indian hoards to London continued and played an important part in restoring the position of sterling, as by the sale of this gold to the Continent the Bank of England was enabled to acquire large balances with which to discharge the credits due to the Federal Reserve banks and the Bank of France and private banks and bankers in this country and in France. Other Eastern hoards of gold in the form either of coin or of treasure joined the movement begun in India last autumn to dispose of the metal for the sake of the high premium that could be obtained for the metal. A dispatch from Bagdad to the "Wall Street Journal" stated that the Arabs of Iraq had joined the rush of hoarders giving up their gold in response to the lure of the premium now obtainable. Gold coin, rings, bangles and other ornaments kept steadily streaming into the bullion brokers of Bagdad where they were melted down into crude bars for export and then sent by airplane to London for refining. It was also stated that the Bagdad broker covered himself by forward sales of francs or other gold currency while the gold was in transit. It was estimated that India had sent to London approximately £45,000,000 of hoarded gold up to the end of March. In addition, English private hoarders also continued to sell their gold ornaments and hoarded gold coins to the London bullion dealers. Nevertheless the British authorities continued to act with considerable caution and on March 11 the British House of Commons passed without a division on second reading the bill extending for another year the emergency act of last September suspending the price fixing provision of the gold standard act. The original period of suspension expired on March 21.

There were some wide and sudden fluctuations in the sterling rate on London during the month, the Bank of England apparently at times stepping in to prevent too rapid a rise, but the trend remained strongly upward throughout, and this followed from the fact that sterling was in great demand at all centers as a result of the complete restoration of confidence in the British financial position. This growth of confidence also led to considerable speculative trading in exchange to get the benefit of the further advance in the rate that appeared assuredly in prospect. As already stated, the gold arriving from India was resold in London and shipped to Paris for French and other Continental accounts. Therefore there was little or no reflection of the movement in the returns of the Bank of England which showed only slight changes from week to week. In its statement for the week ending March 9 the Bank of England showed a gain in bullion of £2,681; in the week ending March 16, a gain of £5,661; in the week ending March 23, a loss of £51,164, and in the week ending March 30, a gain of £21,878.

Canadian exchange continued to rule at a heavy discount, though the discount continued to diminish as the month progressed, the same as in the preceding month, but not in the same pronounced way. The Canadian dollar was quoted at a discount of 9¾@10% on March 31, as against 11½@11⅝% discount on March 1. The Order in Council of last October prohibiting the exportation of gold from Canada except under license expired March 1 without much comment. The Montreal "Gazette," in adverting to that fact in its issue of March 7, remarked that technically Canada was once more on a free gold basis, but actually the situation remained unchanged, as the discount of more than 10% on the Canadian dollar was bearing witness. In the Canadian market there was some mystification, it was observed, as to why the Order in Council was ever resorted to. Before it went into effect Canada had long since given up the free export of gold, effective means being found in one way or another to prevent advantage being taken of the discount in the exchange. Now that the Order had expired the Finance Ministry continued to exercise surveillance over gold movements and no exports could be made except upon express permission—so said this Canadian paper. At the Port of New York $7,000,000 of gold was received from the Dominion of Canada during the month of March.

Gold exports from the United States during March were on a greatly diminished scale, and in fact consisted mainly of gold previously earmarked for that purpose, and these exports were to a large extent offset by imports, while in addition a large amount of gold previously under earmark was released, so that altogether the result was a considerable addition to the country's stock of the metal. The New York Federal Reserve Bank summarized the gold movement in and out of the country as follows:

"During March there was a steady increase in this country's gold stock, and by the close of the month the total was approximately $36,000,000 higher than at the end of February. Exports, which were composed almost entirely of gold which previously had been earmarked, ceased by the 15th of the month; these exports in the first half of the month totaled $43,900,000, of which $37,500,000 was shipped to France and $6,300,000 to Belgium, leaving less than $100,000 of gold shipped to other countries. Gold imports at New York amounted to $13,500,000, of which $7,000,000 came from Canada, $2,700,000 from Argentina, $2,500,000 from Mexico and $1,000,000 from Brazil; and at San Francisco $2,900,000 was received from China and $700,000 from Australia. In addition to these imports, there was a net decrease of $58,300,000 in the total of gold held under earmark for foreign account, including both the amount released for export and other net releases the proceeds of which were employed in this market."

THE CONTINENTAL AND OTHER FOREIGN EXCHANGES.

Reduction in the discount rates of numerous central banks, indicative of the general improvement in foreign affairs, more particularly in Europe, were a feature of the month. This was in continuation of the same movement the previous month. We have already referred to the action of the Bank of England which on Feb. 18 had marked its discount rate down from 6% to 5% now making two further reductions during March—the first on March 10, in cutting the rate from 5% to 4%, and the second on March 17 in making a further cut to 3½%. The Bank of Norway and the Bank of Sweden which had on Feb. 19 reduced their rate, on March 2 further lowered their rates to 5%. The Bank of Lithuania on March 1 reduced from 8½% to 7½% and the Bank of Chile the same day reduced from 6% to 5½%. The Roumanian National Bank on March 3 reduced from 8% to 7%. In Germany the Reichsbank on March 8 lowered its discount rate from 7% to 6% and its Lombard rate, or rate for collateral loans, from 8% to 7%. On March 11 the Danish National Bank marked its rate down from 6% to 5% and the Bank of Japan from 6.57% to 5.84% effective on March 12. On March 18 the National Bank of Austria reduced from 8% to 7%, the 8% rate having been in effect since Dec. 11 1931. The Bank of Italy on March 21 lowered its rate from 7% to 6%, the 7% rate having been in effect since Sept. 28 1931.

Exchange on many of the Continental countries were lower the early part of March at a time when the rate of sterling on London was developing strength and this was ascribed to the transfer of balances from the Continental centers to London, induced by the revival of confidence in the pound sterling, as related in detail above in our discussion of the sterling exchange market. The latter part of the month however rates on most of the Continental centers moved upward again, more than recovering the early losses. French francs moved in a very erratic way and reports had it that the Bank of France at times undertook to control the course of exchange and then again would relax its control; also at times by its operations played an important part in affecting the course of sterling rates. The Bank of France continued to dispose of its foreign exchange holdings in all centers, including New York, but there appeared to be no longer a flight of French private banking and invested capital from either New York or London, but on the contrary a flow of French private funds to London developed. Further large shipments of gold from New York to Paris occurred, but these consisted, as already stated, almost entirely of gold which had been previously earmarked. These exports occurred entirely in the first half of the month and the amount totaled $43,900,000, of which $37,500,000 was shipped to France and $6,300,000 to Belgium, leaving less than $100,000 of gold shipped to other countries.

The French franc most of the time followed a course entirely its own and this was attributed to operations by the Bank of France. New York exchange on Paris, as already stated, moved erratically with some rather sharp fluctuations. Cable transfers on Paris, after selling at 3.94 March 2, were down to 3.91⅞ March 8, but within two days were back to 3.94⅛ March 10, only to dip to 3.91 15-16 March 24 with a quick recovery to 3.94¾ March 28 and with the range on March 31 3.92⅞ @ 3.94 3-16. The gold export point was figured by bankers as being about 3.9462-85 and it appeared as if whenever the franc closely approached the gold point the Bank of France intervened. being apparently opposed to withdrawals of gold from either New York or London by its nationals on an exchange basis. The earmarked stock was of course unaffected by the rate of exchange. Dispatches from Paris the latter part of the month said the Bank of France was believed now to have terminated entirely the liquidation of its own sterling balances and had ceased converting dollar balances into gold. Some Paris bankers expressed the view that the Bank would avoid drawing further amounts of gold from New York but argued that it was quite beyond its power to prevent hoarded British gold or Indian gold coming upon the London open market from moving on to Paris. In its statement for the week ending March 4 the Bank of France reported an increase in gold holdings of 678,455,409 francs, in the week ended March 11 an increase of 419,535 867 francs, in the week ended March 18 an increase of 351,353,134 francs, in the week ended March 25 an increase of 322,881,413 francs, but in the week ended April 1 a decrease of 45,000,000 francs.

Rates for German exchange continued largely nominal owing to the regulations imposed upon dealings by the German Government, but nevertheless the course of the German mark was much like the course of rates on the other European centers, evidencing some weakness the early part of the month, then showing recovery and finally shading off again. Cable transfers on Berlin March 31 were 23.78@23.82, against 23.79@23.82 March 1. As noted further above, the Bank of Germany on March 8 reduced its discount rate from 7% to 6% and its Lombard rate from 8% to 7%. The Reichsbank considered the reduction in its discount rate as an experiment, designed to help German trade. The low reserve of foreign exchange and the relatively small stock of gold held had made an earlier reduction inadvisable, but after the reductions in the London and other rates it was felt that a lower German rate would have no ill consequences. The large vote polled by President von Hindenburg in the German elections on Sunday, March 13, strengthened the mark as well as the other Continental exchanges, though Von Hindenburg did not succeed in obtaining an absolute majority of the votes cast, therefore necessitating a run-off election, which is to take place on Sunday, April 10. His re-election obviously will mean the continuation for the time being at least, of the Bruening Government and a strict financial program. Rumors were current the latter part of the month that a moratorium on dollar bonds would be declared, but the German Government officially denied that any change was contemplated in the transfer of interest on foreign loans. The Kreuger & Toll collapse had its repercussion in the suspension on March 23 of the Industrie und Privat Bank, which was owned by the extensive Michael interests. The suspension was attributed to a frozen condition of Berlin real estate and a drop in the prices of securities. The bank was capitalized at 110,000,000 marks. Difficulty in prolonging loans from the Kreuger interests was regarded as having brought about the bank's troubles. The bank itself was looked upon as a relatively minor institution, but its position was taken as indicating the condition of the parent Michael concern of large real estate dealers.

Associated Press advices from Berlin March 30 stated that the Boerse Committee had decided to resume official quotations on the Berlin Stock Exchange on April 12. The Boerse was closed during the financial crisis of last summer. It was re-opened Feb. 25 1932 for restricted trading after having been closed five months. Brokers, however, were prohibited from posting official prices, and the only change was that they were permitted to use the Boerse for their operations. The New York Federal Reserve Bank announced on March 4 that in conjunction with other Federal Reserve banks it had renewed for three months its portion of the $100,000,000 Reichsbank credit. Announcement was made at the same time that the Reichsbank had repaid 10% of the $25,000,000 due in this country, the extension for three months applying on the remaining $22,500,000. Newspaper accounts March 4 stated that the Reichsbank had on that day provided the $10,000,000 due to be repaid on its $100,000,000 international central bank credit in the form of New York exchange at the Federal Reserve Bank, which had participated to the extent of $25,000,000 in the credit arranged with it, the Bank of England, the Bank of France and the Bank for International Settlements.

The Bank of Germany for the first quarter of March reported 48,489,000 marks decrease in gold and 3,147,000 marks further loss in the second quarter, with 229,000 marks increase in the third quarter and 1,562,000 marks increase in the final quarter, in which latter period there was the usual large expansion in note circulation, always noted in the closing quarter of the month, the increase this time being 225,177,000 marks. This was after 89,420,000 contraction in note circulation the first quarter, 65,745,000 marks contraction in the second quarter and 107,255,000 marks contraction in the third quarter.

Italian exchange held pretty steady, though it took a downward dip the middle of the month, following the news of the Kreuger & Toll disaster, which had a disorganizing effect for the time being in the case of nearly all the European exchanges. Cable transfers on Italy were at their high for the month at 5.20 on March 8 and touched 5.17⅛ on March 17, with the range on March 31 5.17¾@5.18½, against the range on March 1 of 5.18⅞@5.19⅝. Preparations were evidently under way for bringing out a new domestic loan in the early future and in authoritative Italian circles it was stated that the Italian Government had received assurance that full subscriptions would be received at home for an issue of 1,000,000,000 lire 5% nine-year Treasury bonds to be offered in order to refund 915,000,000 lire Treasury bonds maturing Nov. 15. It was pointed out that the whole Italian policy had been directed toward making Italy independent of foreign markets for governmental needs, with the result that Italy has only one Government loan abroad, namely, the $100,000,000 stabilization loan. In commenting on this policy last year Antonio Mosconi, Minister of Finance, stated: "We decided not to depend upon any foreign loan, convinced as we were that we would be able to depend fully on the Italian investor, and that especially under the present circumstances Italy could and should carry on her own." The same policy, it was noted, had been continued since, and in banking quarters it was said that the fact that Italy had not been dependent upon foreign capital, either short or long term, to any great extent, had been of material assistance in maintaining the level of the lire in recent periods.

Associated Press accounts from Sofia, Bulgaria, March 29, stated that Premier Mouchanoff had that night announced that Bulgaria had declared a 50% moratorium on her exterior debt for six months. The Premier said the rest of the fund usually devoted to payment of the debt would be used to balance the budget. The reduction in payment, it was stated, totaled 91,000,000 levas ($655,000) monthly. Bulgaria, it was stated, would try to reach an accord with her bondholders during the six months' moratorium.

In exchange on the countries neutral during the war, the noteworthy event of course was the Kreuger & Toll collapse, which for the time being exercised a very disturbing effect on the financial markets. The details regarding this grave disaster have been set out in the earlier portion of this article and it must suffice here to say that all the Scandinavian units suffered a sharp break on Monday March 14, following the announcement of the death by suicide of Ivar Kreuger, head of the world wide Kreuger & Toll interests. Prior to this the Scandinavian currencies had fluctuated widely, though with the trend strongly upward on the steady improvement in exchange rates on London, in harmony with which the Scandinavian units usually move. The death of Kreuger was concealed until after the close of all the markets on Saturday March 12. Cable transfers on Sweden had sold up from 19.23 @ 19.25 March 2 to 19.95 @ 20.60 March 8, and was quoted at 20.21 on Saturday March 12, on Monday March 14 the Swedish crown sold down to 19.53. The Swedish Stock Exchange closed on that day as a precautionary measure. Following the announcement on Wednesday, March 16, that the Stockholm Exchange would reopen the following Monday, quick recovery ensued, and by March 19 the rate was again above 20.00. On March 28, on the continued advance in the sterling rate, the Swedish crown touched a high of 20.95 with the range on March 31 20.30 @ 20.50.

Exchange on the other Scandinavian countries followed a closely similar course; their trend was upward along with the sterling rate, except when the Kreuger disaster led to a sharp break on March 14. The Danish crown for instance on cable transfers, after having moved up from 19.18½ @ 19.22 on March 2 to 19.85 @ 20.60 on March 8, and on Saturday, March 12, sold at 20.12, dropped to 19.85 on Monday, March 14. It soon resumed its upward course again, however, influenced by the rise in sterling, and on March 29 reached a high for the month of 21.10; the range March 31 was 20.81 @ 21.00. The Norwegian crown on cable transfers after moving up from 18.89 @ 18.93 March 1 to 19.65 @ 20.40 March 8, was quoted at 19.74½ @ 19.81 the day of Kreuger's suicide but sold down to 19.64 on Monday, March 14, and touched 19.38 on March 23 but with the renewed advance in sterling sold up to 20.41 @ 20.85 on March 28 and with the range March 31 19.95 @ 20.15.

The Swiss and Dutch units were weak the early part of the month, owing to the heavily increased flow of funds from the Swiss and Dutch centers to the London market, but the latter part of the month regained their losses and were carried upward along with the further upward swing in the pound sterling, but with some shading off at the close. Dutch guilders on cable transfers as against 40.29½ @ 40.35½ on March 2 sold down to 40.12½ @ 40.16 March 8, then advanced to 40.35 @ 40.39 March 15, dropped back to 40.22½ @40.25½ March 22, but were 40.40½@40.46 March 28 @40.35@40.39½. Cable transfers on Switzerland declined from 19.37¼@19.39 March 2 to 19.30@19.31 March 8, recovered to 19.38@19.42 March 10, and moved irregularly up and down thereafter, touching a low of 19.27½ March 21 and a high of 19.45 March 28, with the close March 31 19.35@19.42½. The Spanish peseta continued its downward course, though the decline the latter part of the month was occasionally interrupted by the continued rise in the sterling rate. The high point for cable transfers on Spain was 7.69½ March 1 and the low point 7.53 March 22 and March 23, with the range March 31 7.54½@7.57.

Exchange rates on South America showed no changes of consequence, quotations being largely nominal anyway and with trading practically at a standstill. The Argentine Government arranged to pay off on April 1 $1,000,000 of the $10,000,000 short term notes due on that date and to renew the remaining $9,000,000 for nine months and it was stated that the arrangement contemplated a similar payment of $1,000,000 on July 1 in connection with the maturity on that date of the remaining $10,000,000 of short term notes. The notes were all held by banks. On March 31 the Argentine Government prohibited sales of all foreign currency drafts and explained, so said Associated Press advices from Buenos Aires, that the measure was taken to prevent speculators from obtaining exchange for private sales higher than the official rates of 3.88 pesos per dollar. The Associated Press further said that the limit on foreign exchange purchases which had been 1,000 pesos daily since Government control was imposed, several months before, had been reduced during the week to 200 pesos ($50). Cable advices from La Paz (Bolivia), March 18 to the United States stated that the Central Bank of Bolivia that afternoon had issued a statement confirming the new arrangement arrived at with exporters and importers for fixing the rate of exchange on London and New York. The statement referred to the brusque alteration in the rate between New York and London on March 7 and its effect on the Bolivian rate as an instance of the necessity of artificially fixing the rate for the Bolivian peso. Chambers of Commerce in several cities, it was stated, had agreed to the proposal of the tin miners that the rate of exchange be fixed at 15 Bolivianos per pound sterling which would make the dollar rate 4.12 bolivianos.

On March 21 the Department of Commerce at Washington announced that supplementing the existing exchange control regulations, the Colombian Government found it necessary recently to restrict further the placing of foreign exchange at the disposal of Colombian importers, according to the Commerce Department's Finance and Investment Division. The Department said:

> The new restrictions apply to obligations pertaining to imports made before the establishment of the Exchange Control Commission on Sept. 25 1931, it was stated.
> Henceforth Colombian purchasers of foreign exchange to cover payments of debts originating in imports of merchandise made prior to Sept. 24 1931 will be authorized by the Government only for periodic quotas of not greater than 20% of each debt. Moreover, the new provisions require that within 30 days following the date of the decree (March 7) interested parties must present to the Control Office a statement of such debts, duly attested by supporting documents.

Exchange on the Far East weakened considerably, in the case of the countries on a silver basis because of a sharp drop in the price of silver, but was firm in the case of the Japanese yen and the other currencies. Dispatches from Tokio stated that the Bank of Japan had resumed purchases of gold, paying prices approximating current exchange. The gold must be in bullion, be .990 fine and bear the mark of the mint. The prices were calculated by taking the average of cable quotations for the preceding week and making it the basis for the following week. This is called "market value." To this is added one-tenth of the difference between mint par value and the market value. Checks on Yokohama for the Japanese yen after declining from 32.87 @ 33.13 March 1 to 31.00 @ 31.08 March 8, developed an upward trend thereafter and touched 33.52@33.75 March 30, with the range March 31 33.02@33.13. The Hong-Kong dollar and the Shanghai tael moved lower on account of the decline of the price of silver. Checks on Hong-Kong declined from 25.41@25 15-16 March 1 to 24.09@24.70 March 22, with the range March 31 24.53@25 1-16. The tael on Shanghai for checks after dropping from 34.10@34.88 March 1 to 32.06@32.63 March 22 was 32.81@33.38 March 31. Rupees on Bombay for checks moved higher, influenced by the advance in sterling exchange. The range March 31 was 28.30@28.94 against 26.13@26.45 March 1. Indian natives continued to sell their gold hoardings of centuries in order to take advantage of the high rupee premium on gold. The metal was shipped from Bombay to London by every available steamer. Natives of other Far East countries also began to dispose of their hoarded gold coins and ornaments for the same reason. The price of silver in London March 31 was only 17 5/8 pence per ounce against 19 3/4 pence on March 1.

The tables on pages 19 to 41 furnish a complete record of the transactions on the New York Stock Exchange during March and range since Jan. 1. They need no extended introduction, as they are self-explanatory. The tables embrace every security dealt in on the Exchange. We give bonds first, using the classification adopted in the official list. The black-faced letters in the column headed "Interest Period" indicate in each case the month when the bonds mature.

In accordance with the rule adopted by the New York Stock Exchange in 1909, all quotations for interest-paying bonds are at a price to which accrued interest must be added. The exceptions to the rule are income bonds and bonds on which interest is in default. A few other bonds, like the Holland-American Line 6s, for special reasons, are also quoted "flat," but where this is the case the quotation "flat" will be found against the name of the issue. This method of quoting bonds became effective Jan. 2 1909.

For footnotes to tables see last page of bonds and last page of stocks.

General Quotations

In the earlier part of this publication complete records of the dealings on the leading stock exchanges of the country, for the latest month and for the calendar year to date, are furnished. In this department of General Quotations we combine in one comprehensive whole, securities of all classes and descriptions, not only those dealt in on the exchanges, but also leading unlisted and inactive securities. The following is an index to the different classes of securities quoted:

Quotations from all Stock Exchanges are as near as possible for the closing day of the month preceding the date of issue. As the New York Stock Exchange began with Jan. 2 1909 to quote all bond prices "and interest," we have adopted the same method and no longer employ a designating mark to indicate the fact except where there is a deviation from this rule. The reader will understand, therefore, that unless the letter "f" is prefixed to the price, he must pay accrued interest in addition to the price. This, however, does not apply to income bonds or bonds in default, in which cases the price includes the interest, should there be any.

The letter "f" prefixed to bond prices denotes that the quotation is a flat price—that is, that the accrued interest forms part of the price, and therefore the purchaser does not have to provide for it separately in making payment. As already stated in the case of income bonds and bonds in default, the price is always "flat," and no designating mark is employed to indicate the fact.

Quotations for equipment bonds are based on average maturities

Quotations for guaranteed stocks are "and dividend"; that is, the accrued dividend must be paid in addition to the price. Stock prices marked thus (d) are per share. All others are per cent except bank stock prices, which are quoted per share unless otherwise stated.

It should be borne in mind in the use of these tables that the quotations for many inactive and unlisted securities are merely nominal, but in all cases the figures are obtained from sources which are considered reliable.

The following abbreviations are often used, viz.; "M" for mortgage, "g" for gold, "gu" for guaranteed, "end" for endorsed, "cons" for consolidated conv" for convertible, "s f" for sinking fund, "l g" for land grant, "op" for optional.

The black-faced type in the letters showing the interest period indicates the month when the bonds mature.

NOTICE.—All bond prices are "and interest" except where marked "f" and income and defaulted bonds.

Industrial and Miscellaneous Securities

Under the heading "Industrial and Miscellaneous Securities" we include all issues which do not appear under the previous two headings, namely "Railroads (Steam)" and "Public Utilities." In the case of stocks, however, we put "Textile Manufacturing," "Insurance," "Mining," "Real Estate and Land," "Title Guarantee and Safe Deposit Companies" under separate heads, then follow with the rest of the "Industrial and Miscellaneous."

NOTICE.—All bond prices are "and interest" except where marked "f" and income and defaulted bonds.

United States and Municipal Bonds

In reporting below prices for State and municipal securities, we give bid and asked quotations wherever they can be obtained The custom however, is to quote municipal securities on the basis of the return they yield per annum. Therefore in most cases it will be found that instead of actual prices we have inserted in the column headed "To Net" certain figures to indicate the interest rate at which business in the bonds is being done. Thus 4.35% means that the particular security can be bought or sold at a price that will yield the purchaser or seller 4.35% per annum to the maturity of the issue. Where two figures appear, as for instance "4.25% to 4.35%," the rate of return varies according to the maturity—the shorter maturities yielding the lowest rate, and the longer maturities yielding the highest return.

In State and municipal bonds the custom has always been to quote them "and interest." That is, the accrued interest must in all cases be added on.

Note.—Owing to the present demoralized condition of the municipal bond markets, brokers and dealers find it difficult, and in many cases, almost impossible to make quotations for municipal bonds. Bid prices, especially for the smaller municipalities, are practically out of the question and sales or terms are simply a matter of bargaining between buyer and seller. In fact the absolute lack of demand often causes good bonds to be offered at almost any price.

STATE AND NATIONAL BANK STATEMENTS

Quotations in this department are given per share, not per cent, except for stocks of Canadian Institutions, and are as near as possible for the closing day of the month preceding date of issue, though often are nominal. An asterisk (*) denotes sales.

Figures of deposits, capital and profits for the national banks are from the Comptroller's last call; for all other institutions they are the latest obtainable, direct returns being procured by us where no periodic statements are required. For the Clearing House banks of New York, Philadelphia and Boston, deposits are taken from the latest weekly statement.

REVIEW OF APRIL—COMMERCIAL AND FINANCIAL EVENTS.

During April the attention of the business world was centered, as perhaps never before, upon Washington—on the deliberations of Congress with reference to tax matters and the balancing of the Federal budget and the plans of both Congress and the Administration in dealing with and devising measures of relief for the existing depression in trade, which despite all efforts kept steadily growing in intensity. The proposals emanating in Congress were many of them highly disturbing and calculated to retard business recovery rather than promote it, including among other things the Soldier Bonus proposal calling for payments aggregating in the neighborhood of $2,400,000,000 at a time when the Government was struggling with a budget deficit of about the same magnitude, besides other projects for new drafts upon the public Treasury, all of which the Administration combated, but with only indifferent success. Early the next month (May 2) the so-called World War widows and orphans bill, involving expenditures of $100,000,000 during the next five years actually passed the House of Representatives by a vote of 316 to 16 after only 40 minutes of debate. Both the administration and the leaders in Congress displayed great zeal in suggesting measures of economy and for effecting savings in expenses, but the two were at loggerheads and little was accomplished. The Revenue Bill for providing new sources of revenue had remained in a state of flux. The House passed its Bill on the evening of April 1, containing many objectionable features and then after it reached the Senate, the Senate Finance Committee gave extensive hearings on the Bill and it was not until the latter part of the month that the Senate Finance Committee began to take the bill up section by section and make changes therein.

Perhaps most important of all of the month's developments was the step taken by the Federal Reserve authorities in providing for further credit inflation by the purchase of U. S. Government securities with the idea of checking deflation and inducing the banks to pursue a more liberal policy in extending accommodation to their customers by the making of new loans as well as refraining from the calling of existing loans on account of timidity and fear. This was a step of large importance and of far-reaching consequence, involving increasing the purchases of U. S. Securities by the Federal Reserve Boards which for some time previously had been proceeding at the rate of $25,000,000 a week to a full $100,000,000 per week and even more. It was credit inflation pure and simple but was offered in part to controvert the schemes of those who were contending for a soldier bonus, not only on its own account, but because it could be made the basis for credit inflation. It was admitted that the large scale purchases of U. S. Government securities involved credit inflation, but those advocating the step argued that it would be "controlled" inflation because made under the authority of those in charge of the Federal Reserve system.

It was unquestionably the boldest step at credit manipulation ever undertaken. In its far-reaching application it was akin to the creation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation with its huge fund of $2,000,000,000 only that the latter was a constructive measure of the first rank while the embarking of the Reserve banks upon a huge scheme of credit inflation was a highly questionable proceeding.

LARGE SCALE PURCHASE OF UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT SECURITIES BY FEDERAL RESERVE BANKS.

Washington advices April 12, stated that Governors of the Federal Reserve banks, constituting the open market conference of the System, had met there on that day to adopt plans for further easing the money market through larger purchases of United States Government bonds. At the same time they had given serious thought to the effects of the agitation in Washington for cash payment of the soldier bonus certificates through an issue of currency. Following the usual custom, we were told, no announcement was made at the close of the session of the open market policy conference.

It was added that Governor Eugene Meyer of the Reserve Board had conferred with the group, and late in the afternoon Adolph Miller, member of the Board from California, had gone to the White House to discuss with President Hoover the various proposals under consideration. It was argued that by further purchases of Government securities Reserve banks could ease the credit situation. The Glass-Steagall bill provided that Government securities would be substituted for eligible paper as currency backing, and it was thought that this would induce greater purchases. A credit easing policy of that kind, it was stated, had been looked for since the last meeting of the Open Market Committee. The Washington correspondent of the New York "Journal of Commerce" said:

"Complaints have been heard that commercial banks of the country are still pursuing a tight credit policy and are not passing along to their customers the benefits derived from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the Glass-Steagall bill, both designed to ease credit conditions.

"At the time legislation for the Finance Corporation was passed, and when there was a temporary liberalization of discount privileges in the Glass-Steagall bill, it was believed that the banks would gain increased confidence and would liberalize loan policies, thus giving business the benefits. However, the complaint has been made in some quarters that this has not developed. The situation is being studied."

On Wednesday, April 13, Governor George L. Harrison, of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, appeared before the Goldsborough subcommittee of the House Banking Committee to discuss with it the question of stabilization legislation, and it was then revealed that the Federal Reserve System had embarked upon a new "easy money" policy through open market purchases of Government securities at an accelerated speed, both as to rate and volume. Governor Harrison told of the adoption seven weeks before, following enactment of the Glass-Steagall Bank Relief Law, of a program of purchases fixed at $25,000,000 weekly. This policy was now amended at the meeting of the Reserve Governors, and from what Governor Harrison said the deduction was drawn that purchases would now proceed at the rate of $75,000,000 to $100,000,000 a week.

After describing the program of the Reserve banks, inaugurated with the passage of the Glass-Steagall Bill, Mr. Harrison said: "That program has again been speeded up in rate and volume." "What will the weekly purchases be from now on?" asked Representative Goldsborough, Chairman of the subcommittee, who explained that $75,000,000 to $100,000,000 was the figure generally reported. "I can't say" replied Mr. Harrison; "perhaps I have said too much."

In his testimony, Governor Harrison pointed out that the Reserve banks had increased their holdings of Government bonds from $147,000,000 in 1929 to $1,000,000,000 at the present time in operations that had set a precedent in world finance. The "Times", in its news columns, stated that "By entering upon a policy of controlled credit expansion, designed to turn the deflation in bank credit and to stimulate a rise in prices, the Federal Reserve System has undertaken the boldest of all central bank efforts to combat the depression." And he added that in contrast to reports from Washington the understanding here was that the undertaking would involve the purchase each week by the Reserve banks of about $100,000,000 of United States Government securities. All doubt on that point was removed when the statement of the Federal Reserve System for the week ending Wednesday night, April 13, appeared after the close of business on Thursday, April 14, and showed an addition for the week to these holdings of almost exactly $100,000,000, the amount having risen from $885,014,000 April 6 to $985,024,000 April 13, bringing it, it will be seen, close to the $1,000,000,000 referred to by Mr. Harrison. Thus the Reserve banks went one step further in their policy of credit inflation. Back in 1930 the policy was designed to induce purchases of securities, with the view to arresting the decline in security values, and also as an influence to revive trade and business. It did neither. More recently the Reserve authorities deemed it incumbent to add to the volume of Reserve credit afloat in order to offset alleged hoarding, while now the purpose was to check further liquidation, which kept steadily proceeding, and now had reached, as already stated, a really acute stage, notwithstanding the forcing out of Reserve credit on the tremendous scale indicated.

Mr. Harrison himself, in his testimony, admitted that the policy in the past had been futile, he having been provoked into making some revealing statements in reply to some rasping questions. Newspaper accounts said that in reply to such questions he cited the increases in the purchases of Government securities by the Reserve banks in 1930 and 1931, saying: "No operation in the history of world finance is quite comparable." "We imported in that period $600,000,000 in gold," he added, "and reduced the rediscount rate to 1½%, the lowest it has ever been. Despite all this, we could not stop the force of the depression." That banking funds were available in unlimited amounts where no suspicion exists regarding the character of the loan was clearly shown in the sale the same week of $75,000,000 of new Treasury bills, which were disposed of on a bank discount basis of only 1.05% per annum. It was also shown in several reductions in the open market rates for bankers' acceptances.

STEAGALL BILL FOR GUARANTEE OF DEPOSITS IN NATIONAL BANKS FAVORABLY REPORTED BY HOUSE BANKING AND CURRENCY COMMITTEE—BILL WOULD OTHERWISE AMEND NATIONAL BANK AND FEDERAL RESERVE ACTS.

A bill, styled by the Associated Press as a legislative project of far-reaching possibilities in guarding banking stability by insuring deposits through a Government-regulated billion-dollar pool, was favorably reported on April 12 by the House Banking and Currency Committee. It was formally reported to the House on April 18. The bill contains four chief provisions, said the "United States Daily," viz: Creation of $1,000,000,000 in resources to guarantee bank deposits; fixing $50,000 plus a 10% surplus as the minimum capital requirement for National bank charters; elimination of double liability of National bank stockholders; a 4% maximum in interest payable on Federal Reserve member bank deposits. The "Daily" of April 20 added:

Guaranty Fund Provision.

The guaranty fund would include $150,000,000 paid into the Treasury in franchise taxes and a like amount taken from Reserve bank surpluses. A $100,000,000 assessment would be levied against member banks by the Federal Liquidating Board, created to administer the fund. The Board would have authority to levy an additional $100,000,000 annually against member banks, and is given a $500,000,000 credit on the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. State banks would participate in the guaranty provisions upon payment of double assessment.

"The bill does not provide for Government guaranty of deposits," the report said. "The fund is to be raised by the bank. The initial fund—approximately $300,000,000—is to be derived entirely from earnings of the Federal Reserve banks.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT SUBSCRIBES REMAINING CAPITAL OF RECONSTRUCTION FINANCE CORPORATION—CORPORATION ISSUES $250,000,000 SIX MONTHS NOTES—PURCHASED BY U. S. TREASURY—$25,000,000 ALLOCATED TO SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE.

The Treasury on April 13 subscribed the remaining $150,000,000 of the $500,000,000 capital stock of the Reconstruction Finance Corp. Associated Press, reporting this, said:

The corporation will now either have to provide money from repayments of loans already made or issue debentures.

The law provides that the Corporation can, if necessary, issue up to $1,500,000,000 of obligations which the Treasury may buy or which may be sold directly to the public.

The board of directors of the Corporation has not decided whether it will be necessary to issue debentures, but in all probability the repayments of loans will not take care of further loans to be made.

On April 1 between $7,000,000 and $8,000,000 had been repaid on loans made since the establishment of the Corporation in February.

The Board of Directors of the Reconstruction Finance Corp. announced on April 26 that an issue of $250,000,000 of six-months' notes had been authorized, the notes being dated April 27 1932 and bearing interest at the rate of 3½% per annum. It was further stated that the notes would be purchased April 27 by the Secretary of the Treasury and that from the proceeds of the sale the Board had authorized the allocation of $25,000,000 to the Secretary of Agriculture pursuant to the provisions of Section II of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act.

From a Washington dispatch April 26 to the New York "Times" we take the following:

The $250,000,000 of notes are the first to be issued by the Corporation. The Treasury Department has already paid in the full $500,000,000 of capital stock of the Corporation authorized by Congress. Under the Act, however, the Corporation is further authorized to issue notes up to three times the amount of its authorized capitalization, bringing the total amount of funds available to it, to $2,000,000,000.

Linked to Borrowing Program.

All the Corporation's financing to date has been done through the Treasury Department, and it was understood to-day that the borrowing of $450,000,000 by the Treasury in the issuance of Government securities of that amount on Monday was necessitated in part by the additional requirements of the Finance Corporation. The Treasury, through April 23, had paid out in advances authorized by the Finance Corporation a total of $304,857,383, of which $141,303,383 was involved in advances made during April alone.

Maintains Balances in Banks.

The Government has adopted a policy of maintaining material balances in the banks. These balances have been increased because of the large amount of deposits in postal savings, which are being maintained usually in banks in the same centres where the postal savings originate.

Deposits in special depositaries on account of sales of Treasury bonds, notes and certificates April 23 amounted to $277,014,000. Deposits in the National banks to the credit of the Treasurer of the United States were $7,458,531 and to the credit of other Government officers, $19,059,355.

During the last three weeks the Federal Reserve banks have bought $206,000,000 in Government securities, while the Treasury issued or announced $550,000,000, including the $450,000,000 in 2% one-year certificates and 3% two-year notes, which will go on to the market May 2.

SENATE PASSES BILL AUTHORIZING REDISCOUNTING OF FEDERAL INTERMEDIATE CREDIT BANK DEBENTURES BY FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM.

The United States Senate on April 25 passed the bill which would increase the facilities of the Federal Intermediate Credit banks by making the debentures of the Credit banks eligible for 15-day loans from member banks of the Federal Reserve System. The bill passed the Senate without a record vote. In its issue of April 26 the "United States Daily" said:

It is the expectation of sponsors of the bill, according to Senator Steiwar (Rep.) of Oregon, who urged immediate action on it, that it will result in a material reduction in the interest rates charged to co-operative and other farm borrowers. This end will be accomplished, Senator Steiwar stated, because it will open up new channels of money supply for the Intermediate Credit banks which at the end of 1931 had $117,935,000 outstanding in loans and discounts.

Lower Rates Foreseen.

Senator Steiwar declared the measure ought to have the effect of reducing interest rates from 1 to 1½% to the borrowers, some of whom now pay as high as 9%. This is the result of conditions compelling the Intermediate Credit banks to pay at market rates, and the allowance up to the 3% per annum which is permitted the discounting agencies for whom the Credit banks supply funds.

Sponsors of Measure.

The bill was introduced by Senator Norbeck (Rep.) of South Dakota, Chairman of the Committee on Banking and Currency, but it was drawn up at the request of the Department of the Treasury and the Federal Farm Loan Board, which have supervision over the credit bank system. It also has had the approval of the Federal Reserve Board, Senator Steiwar told the Senate.

Senator Norbeck had a letter from the Secretary of the Treasury, endorsing the bill, and which was included in a report by the Committee.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT SUBSCRIBES $63,243,740 TO STOCK OF FEDERAL LAND BANKS, INCREASING CAPITAL TO $128,605,609 — ACTS UNDER RECENT CONGRESSIONAL AUTHORITY.

Acting under the recent authorization by Congress appropriating $125,000,000 to the United States Treasury for subscription to stock in the 12 Federal Land banks, the Treasury increased the paid-in capital of the 12 Federal Land banks by almost 100%, subscribing thereto $63,243,740, making the total stock of the banks $128,605,609. Announcement of this was made April 7 by the Federal Land banks, the announcement further stating:

The Government subscription included $25,000,000 to be used to take the place of funds of which the banks might be deprived by reason of extensions granted under their mortgages, as provided by the Congressional Act. The United States Treasury has received non-voting shares of stock for the advances made to the 12 banks, and this fund must be repaid to the Treasury in the same way that the original subscriptions to stock in these banks were repaid to the Treasury.

When the Federal Land banks began business in 1917, the Treasury subscribed $8,892,130 out of a total of $9,000,000 capital stock of the 12 institutions. The Act creating the banks provided that 25% of the subscriptions to stock of National farm loan associations, through which the loans made to the banks originate for the most part, above a stipulated amount, must be applied to the retirement of Government-owned stock. Under this provision, the Government's participation in stock on the first of this year has been reduced to $204,698, of which $69,895 represented stock in the Federal Land Bank of Springfield and $107,803 in the Federal Land Bank of Berkeley.

The total subscriptions to the capital stock of the banks made by the Treasury at this time are as follows:

Springfield	$1,425,080	St. Paul	$14,905,360
Baltimore	1,512,430	Omaha	3,499,810
Columbia	8,958,770	Wichita	1,924,055
Louisville	3,000,980	Houston	3,290,965
New Orleans	8,651,070	Berkeley	1,981,490
St. Louis	4,414,185	Spokane	9,679,545

The above subscriptions include those from the $25,000,000 fund which are as follows:

Springfield	$1,117,780	St. Paul	$2,402,525
Baltimore	1,454,245	Omaha	3,499,810
Columbia	1,168,820	Wichita	1,924,055
Louisville	2,558,660	Houston	3,290,965
New Orleans	2,227,350	Berkeley	1,116,355
St. Louis	2,216,120	Spokane	2,023,315

NATIONAL CREDIT CORPORATION MAKES FOURTH REPAYMENT TO SUBSCRIBING BANKS ON MAY 2.

Announcement was made on April 22 by the National Credit Corporation that the fourth payment to subscribing banks would be made May 2. The first payment was 15% and the second and third distributions were 10% each. The May 2 payment was likewise 10%. The daily papers said:

The first redemption of notes, amounting to 15% of the $135,000,000 paid in, or $20,250,000, was made on March 28. On April 11, 10% of the remaining amount of the notes, or about $11,475,000 was repaid. The third redemption brought the repayments to about $55,225,000.

The fourth payment requires $13,500,000 and will make a total of about $60,750,000 repaid to date, leaving $74,250,000 of the Corporation's gold notes outstanding.

TELEGRAM PREDICTING "BLACK SATURDAY" IN STOCK TRADING HASTENED SENATE COMMITTEE'S INQUIRY INTO STOCK EXCHANGE DEALINGS.

The Washington correspondent of the New York "Journal of Commerce" (Clarence L. Linz), stated on April 11 that a telegram, allegedly signed by George Barr Baker, friend of President Hoover, predicting a "Black Saturday" (Apr. 9) in the stock market, was revealed as the inspiration behind the hurried calling to Washington of President Richard Whitney of the New York Stock Exchange for interrogation in a probe of Wall Street. From the same source we quote the following:

The text of the telegram was withheld, pending the receipt of permission from the sender to make it public. The Senate Banking and Currency Committee, conducting the probe, had the assistance of Claude R. Branch, Providence, R. I., attorney, as counsel.

The testimony elicited at the various hearings of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee into the question of short selling on the Stock Exchange is too voluminous to summarize here. The latter part of the month the inquiry took a new turn and began to deal with the pool manipulations of 1928 and 1929. Indicating that an assertion by Representative La Guardia (of New York) that corruption of newspaper financial writers was a routine part of "bull pool" operations was made at the hearing into Stock Exchange trading before the Senate Committee on April 26, and a Washington dispatch to the New York "Times" further reported as follows the developments at the Committee's hearing on that day:

He [Representative La Guardia] supported his contention by producing cancelled checks, endorsed with the names of writers and reporters of Wall Street activities, including a former employee of the New York "Times." He said also there had been many cash payments to writers who were too wary to accept checks.

From a trunk filled with exhibits supplied by A. Newton Plummer, now under indictment for alleged possession of forged securities, whom Mr. La Guardia identified as the publicity manager of 61 pool operations, he produced exhibits which, he said, verified all the charges he has made concerning alleged manipulation of publicity for securities in Wall Street.

Six Reporters' Names Listed.

These exhibits included the cancelled checks, which were dated in 1924 and 1925, signed by Plummer, made payable to "Cash" and endorsed with the names of six different newspaper financial reporters. Other New York papers, past and present, given as employers of the presumptive endorsers, are the "Herald-Tribune", "Evening Post," "Wall Street Journal," the "Evening Mail" and "Financial America."

The aggregate of these checks was comparatively small, but Mr. La Guardia told the Committee that Plummer would testify concerning the payment of more than $10,000 in checks and more than $160,000 in cash, of total gratuities of this type of $286,279, paid out in a promotion career lasting between 10 and 15 years.

Mr. La Guardia declared Plummer was "hounded down and indicted" last fall. He said Plummer was using securities for the possession of which he was indicted in connection with the writing of an expose of financial publicity methods under the title of "The Great American Swindle."

"If our friends say he is not a reputable, honest man," Mr. La Guardia exclaimed, "they used him for some 15 years."

In addition to Plummer, Mr. La Guardia also offered to produce the unnamed "pay-off" man, who, he said, "gave out money to financial writers who were ticklish about taking checks."

The only alleged deals of this nature which Plummer did not describe, the Committee was told, are those involving "men who are dead or who are now unemployed."

The New York City Representative told the Committee that Plummer was only one of many "high-powered publicity specialists," and that he assumed that many others operated in the same way, paying out very large sums of money.

Tells of Publicity Operations.

Representative La Guardia listed two stock market operations in which he testified that newspaper men were shown, by endorsement on checks, to have received money to "boost" the stocks. Mr. La Guardia said that $286,279 had been paid out in this manner for the promotion of 61 stock "booms." Of this total, he said, Plummer is ready to testify to payments of $161,300 in cash and $10,837 in checks. The rest, he added, will not be put in public records because the recipients of the money either are dead or are now unemployed. Of the $161,000, Mr. La Guardia testified, the sum of $10,837 was disbursed in checks, many of which were inserted into the record to-day.

ATTACK ON AMERICAN DOLLAR BY PARIS NEWSPAPERS—APOLOGY AFTER FALSE REPORT OF CLOSING OF NATIONAL CITY BANK.

Indicating that the State Department at Washington would consider carefully the protest of the Paris branch of the National City Bank of New York against a false report published in Paris on April 7 that the Bank had suspended payments, a Paris dispatch (April 7) to the New York "Times" stated:

Attacks on the American dollar, which have been occurring sporadically in recent months, reached a climax to-day in the publication in the Parisian newspaper "L'Ordre" of a false report that the National City Bank of New York had suspended payments. The National City directors have lodged official protests with the State Department at Washington and with the French Government. It is believed these protests will have far-reaching results.

The publisher of "L'Ordre" went to the National City branch here this afternoon and, it is said, offered full apologies, stating that the article was printed without his knowledge and promising a complete retraction to-morrow.

Other Attacks Made.

American financial circles are deeply stirred and feel the time has come to put an end to such attacks whose sole object is said to be speculation against the dollar. To-day the dollar closed at 25.32 francs, which is well below the gold point and two points below yesterday's closing, when the dollar also had been subjected to heavy pressure.

It is noteworthy that the report on the bank was only one of many attacks on the American financial and economic structure in the Paris press to-day. The "Journal du Commerce" devoted its three first pages to editorials and articles intended to show weakness in the United States financially and industrially, as well as to prove that American business seeks to thrive at the expense of Europe.

Other papers, such as the "Journal des Debats" and the "Paris-Midi," also attempt to demonstrate that the United States is in serious condition.

The French Government, the Bank of France and the whole body of reputable French private banking interests are wholly in sympathy with the American efforts to stop this subversive campaign. National City officials expressed gratification to-day at the reaction of French banks and it is beyond dispute that the French officially and privately hold no fears for the present essential soundness of American finances. It is true there is disappointment over the budget situation and the continued weakness of Wall Street, but as yet no one here is worrying very much.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS—THE KREUGER & TOLL DISASTER.

European financial centers, like our own, were not a little unsettled during the past month by revelations in Stockholm regarding the affairs and activities of Ivar Kreuger, who committed suicide in Paris on March 12. A committee which is conducting an official investigation into the present status of the Kreuger & Toll Co. and its many subsidiaries issued a preliminary report April 5, in which charges were made of "gross misrepresentation" in the last published balance sheet of the parent concern of the vast international combination built up by the Swedish financier and industrialist. After a survey by qualified accountants, it was indicated, it has been found that the balance sheet dated Dec. 31 1930, as well as the consolidated balance sheets accompanying it, are in agreement with the balances appearing on the books. Such figures, however, were said to diverge materially from the true financial condition of the company. "Under the personal direction of the late Mr. Kreuger," the report stated, "entries were made in the books which on the one hand eliminated substantial balances shown to be owing to the parent company by him and by subsidiary and affiliated companies, and on the other hand entirely eliminated liabilities to other subsidiaries purporting to represent assets of substantial sums."

Such evidence as is available is indicative that the balance sheet showed a much better position than the real one, the committee stated. In some instances there is reason to believe, it was added, that the assets so set up in the books were either greatly in excess of the items they purported to represent, entirely fictitious, or a duplication of assets belonging or appearing on the books of the associated companies. Even if some substance should lie behind these book assets and accounts, instances were said to exist where the description and classification in the balance sheet are entirely misleading. The report concluded with the statement that the Committee and the Board of the Company "are trying to find some way in the first place to liquidate the company in such manner that the interests of creditors will be looked after to the greatest possible extent, and in the second place to continue in some form the business of the industrial undertakings belonging to the Kreuger concern."

The revelations in this preliminary statement were only the beginning of a series of charges which became steadily of a graver nature. Together with almost daily reports in the press of further disclosures, they contrived to keep important sections of the various markets in a state of unsettlement. Of exceptional interest was an allegation that Mr. Kreuger forged securities with a face value of $100,000,000 to support his operations. It would also appear that he made substitutions in the collateral behind Kreuger & Toll debentures. Although these charges and disclosures are felt with peculiar intensity in Sweden, they are, of course, of world-wide interest, since the Kreuger & Toll securities were distributed in all capital markets. In responsible Stockholm circles it is estimated that Sweden will lose $60,000,000 in the crash of the Kreuger companies.

THE BRITISH BUDGET—THE £150,000,000 EXCHANGE EQUALIZATION ACCOUNT.

Several statements of unusual significance on outstanding problems of international finance and diplomacy were made by the British Chancellor of the Exchequer, Neville Chamberlain, in the course of his budget presentation to the House of Commons, April 19. He disclosed that the budget for the fiscal year beginning April 1 1932 contains no provision for debt payments due the United States Government in the period covered, even though the end of the Hoover moratorium year occurs on June 30 1932. The Chancellor likewise revealed that he was leaving out of his accounts the equivalent amounts due Great Britain from German reparations and from French, Italian and other war debt payments. This procedure, he carefully explained, does not imply any fresh decision on intergovernmental debts by the British Government, and merely means that the accounts will be kept in suspense until after the conference of governments at Lausanne, in June. Notwithstanding this warning, the action of the Chancellor occasioned the liveliest interest in all countries and increased the belief now prevalent in many quarters that a general revision of reparations and war debts will soon take place.

Almost equally important was a proposal by Chancellor of the Exchequer Chamberlain to undertake operations on a vast scope for the purpose of stabilizing the exchange value of sterling. International uncertainties make it impossible for Great Britain to return immediately to the gold standard, he said. Mr. Chamberlain also disclaimed any attempt to predict the time of ultimate stabilization or the rate. In the meantime, uncontrolled fluctuations of sterling exchange entailed considerable risks to British trade and finance, he declared, and he proposed, accordingly, to establish an "Exchange Equalization Account," using the assets still remaining in the old exchange account as a nucleus for the new one. Power to borrow up to £150,000,000 for the account was requested.

With the exception of these items, the budget proposals contained few surprises. Revenue for the current British fiscal year was estimated by the Chancellor at £766,800,000, and expenditures were calculated at £766,004,000, leaving an estimated surplus of £796,000. In view of the need for achieving a balance, Mr. Chamberlain announced, regretfully, he would be unable to effect any reductions in taxation even though some imposts are admittedly at the saturation point. The basic income tax rate of 25% was maintained, but the estimate of yield was lowered by £30,000,000 because of the business depression and its effects. A new source of revenue was provided in the restoration of the tea tax, the rates being 4d. a pound on foreign teas and 2d. on teas from India, Ceylon and other parts of the Empire. From the general 10% import tax and from other import duties under consideration a yield of £32,000,000 will be received during the fiscal year, he estimated. In explanation of the lack of any relief to the hard-pressed British taxpayer, the Chancellor remarked that he did not dare gamble on a too marked trade revival or too sudden return of prosperity.

A more extended explanation of the proposals regarding exchange stabilization was made by the Chancellor. During recent weeks the British exchange position had been one of considerable difficulty, he said, as loss of confidence in other countries had occasioned a heavy flow of short-term funds to the London market. Although flattering to British vanity, the movement is a serious embarrassment to British trade, it was remarked. It may also give rise to dangerous developments, in so far as the transfers are not representative of genuine and permanent improvement of the balance of trade, as an ebb might set in presently. In order to avoid violent and perilous fluctuations of British currency and in order to enable the country to function effectively as a main international center of the world, it is essential that Britain hold adequate reserves of gold and foreign exchange, Mr. Chamberlain said. Such reserves could be used for meeting sudden withdrawals of short-dated capital and for repelling speculative operations, he added. The text of Mr. Chamberlain's explanation of the new exchange-equalization account and his reasons for establishing it follows:

During recent weeks the exchange position of this country has been one of considerable difficulty. There has been a loss of confidence abroad, and that led to large accumulations of liquid capital. This can be conveniently moved from one financial centre to another and therefore materially assists the operations of speculators. Its transfer exercises a disturbing effect on exchange, particularly sterling, which is no longer linked to gold.

Since we were so successful in repaying credits abroad last year and in balancing the National account, a tide of liquid capital has set in toward these shores. That is flattering to our vanity, but sometimes is a serious embarrassment to our trade. Moreover, in so far as it does not represent a genuine permanent improvement of the balance of trade it is apt to give rise to dangerous developments.

In such circumstances we cannot say certainly that an ebb might not set in presently. Therefore I have been driven by the force of events to the conclusion that to avoid violent and perilous fluctuations of our currency, especially those due to speculative operation, if we are to enable the country to function effectively as a main international centre of the world, then it is essential for us to hold adequate reserves of gold and foreign exchange in order that we may meet a sudden withdrawal of short-dated capital and repel speculative operations.

To Borrow Up to £150,000,000.

I propose to wind up the old exchange account, using the assets as the nucleus for a new account called "the exchange equalization account." I propose to request power to borrow up to £150,000,000 for this account. The details of the assets account will not be published but they may take various forms, either gold or sterling securities or foreign exchange.

Purchasing Power Increased.

That will give us a very large extended power for purchasing exchange. The new powers, combined with the powers already possessed by the bank—on which the main responsibility of the management must continue to rest—will enable us to deal more effectively than hither to either with the unwanted inflow of capital or, if the alternative should again arise, with the outflow of capital from this country.

With the pound divorced from gold, the accounting arrangements of the issue department of the Bank of England present some difficulties. Its liabilities for the note issue are in sterling. Those of its assets which may consist of foreign currencies fluctuate in terms of sterling but as far as its assets consist of gold—including any gold it may hereafter acquire—the law requires that the gold be valued at the old par.

Thus the issue department cannot, with the exchange at say $3.80, add £100 to its gold holding without showing an apparent loss of £28, and in the same way it cannot sell £100 of its gold holding without showing an apparent profit of £28, while its holdings in foreign exchanges fluctuate in value every week. Our currency authorities ought to be free to hold such an amount of gold and foreign exchange in the issue department as may be required without being hampered by technicalities of this kind.

There is another question: "Will these transactions involve the Exchequer in any considerable loss?" I think the answer to that must be that it is a very conceivable possibility. We do not know what is going to be the future of gold prices. We do not know what settlement will be reached as regards reparations, war debts and other matters which are now disturbing the world.

No Early Return to Gold.

These uncertainties rule out any possibility of our being able to return to gold immediately. We do not know when or in what circumstances we may return to gold or at what level. If in the long run we returned to gold in such a way that the pound stood at a higher gold value than the average level at which purchases of exchange had been made the transaction would inevitably show a loss. This is a possibility but not one that should deter us.

If we are merely seeking safety from the accounting point of view, then, of course, we can proceed exactly as we did during the earlier period of the suspension of the gold standard between the years 1919 and 1925. The pound would be allowed substantially to take its own course, liable to fluctuations with every seasonable movement of trade and every outburst of speculation or change in sentiment caused by developments abroad.

The problems at the present time are altogether different from those which faced us immediately after the war. In my judgment the risks entailed by uncontrolled fluctuations of currency to-day outweigh those of possible losses on the transactions I have mentioned. On the other hand, we must be very careful to keep our full coverage against the note issue. I consider that at all times and in all conditions the assets of the issue department, that is to say, the backing of currency, should consistently and conservatively be valued so that gold should continue in each return to be valued at the old par and the foreign exchange assets ought to be valued at the current rate of exchange irrespective of their purchase price. In order that accounts may at all times precisely balance on this basis, my proposals provide that when the valuation on this basis shows deficiency, resources to a corresponding amount shall be passed from the exchange equalization account to the issue department of the bank, and when a surplus is shown a converse operation shall take place.

I may be asked: "Supposing these powers are given to the government, will that be the final end to fluctuations of exchange?" I am not going to give any such assurance. When you consider that economic disturbances are still occurring in the world and of which we probably have not even now felt the worst, it is perfectly useless to pretend that we can hold our position where we like independent of anything which is going on around us. On the other hand, we can say this, that those who are charged with the conduct of our currency will be much better equipped in the future with these powers to maintain that currency steadier than they have been in the past, and to that extent we shall see a great advance.

THE GERMAN AND FRENCH ELECTIONS—VON HINDENBURG CONTINUED AS PRESIDENT.

Although marked progress was thus apparent in Great Britain, last month, much of the Continent was in a highly unsettled state owing to the national election campaigns in Germany and France. There was a run-off election for the German Presidency on April 10, wherein the re-election of Field Marshal Paul von Hindenburg for a further term of seven years was confirmed. He received in this plebiscite more votes than were received by all his opponents together. This favorable result was anticipated in view of the slim margin by which the venerable German President failed of re-election in the first voting on March 13, when an absolute majority was required. The strenuous efforts to bring out the voters resulted in an aggregate of 36 491,694 ballots, or somewhat less than the total of 37,658,036 in the first election. The vote for President von Hindenburg was 19,359,642 against 18,654,690 on March 13, a gain of 704,952. Adolph Hitler, leader of the National-Socialist, or Fascist party, received 13,417,460 votes against 11,341,360 on March 13, a gain of 2,076,100. Ernst Thaelmann, Communist candidate, received 3,706,388 votes in the final election compared with 4,982,939 in the earlier plebiscite, or a loss of 1,276,551. The gains recorded by the two chief candidates were accounted for largely by the withdrawal of Theodor Duesterberg, Nationalist, who received 2,558,939 votes last month. Despite the handsome victory of President von Hindenburg, great gains were made by the Fascist leader, Adolph Hitler, and it was evident that the National-Socialists would increase their power in German affairs to no small degree as a result of the election. This was confirmed in elections of Diet members in the various German States, April 24. The State election of greatest interest was that in Prussia, which comprises two-thirds of Germany. Although represented in the present Diet by only a handful of Deputies, the National-Socialists conducted a vigorous campaign and rolled up the surprising aggregate of more than 8,000,000 votes, securing 162 seats in the Diet against only 5 in the old Diet. The gains were made chiefly at the expense of other Right or Nationalist groups, but these allied parties will have 41 seats and the so-called Herzburg bloc will thus have 203 Deputies in the next Diet, as against 162 for the Weimar coalition of Socialists, Center and State parties. The Fascists and Nationalists together, however, remain eight votes short of a majority, owing to the election of 57 members of various small parties antagonistic to their aims. Total membership is 422. Premier Otto Braun, who has headed the Prussian Government for 12 years, announced his resignation on April 26. In Bavaria, Wuerttemberg, Hamburg and Anhalt the Fascists also made great gains, but in no State did they achieve a majority of the votes cast. Provincial and municipal elections were likewise held in Austria last Sunday, and they disclosed a similar drift toward the Fascist groups.

France was in the throes of a national election campaign all through the past month, as a new Chamber of Deputies was elected May 1. The complexion of the French Chamber for the next four years was determined largely at the May 1 election, and a run-off ballot on May 8 will determine any doubtful results. The campaign was a conflict, to a great degree, between the Right groups, led by Premier Tardieu, and the Left Center and Left groups, led by Edouard Herriot. It was generally assumed in advance that a trend to the Left would be evident, and as Premier Tardieu now has only a slim margin of support in the Chamber, a movement of this nature might easily upset the balance of power and bring M. Herriot into the Premiership. The actual voting on May 1 confirmed these expectations in part, as the Left parties made important gains in ballots, if not in seats. Results were close and in a surprisingly large number of cases indecisive, as about two-thirds of the 615 seats will be subject to the run-off election May 8.

GRAIN PRICES ENJOY A BRISK TEMPORARY RECOVERY ON UNFAVORABLE REPORT OF THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE REGARDING THE CONDITION OF THE GROWING WINTER WHEAT CROP, BUT RECOVERY FAILS TO HOLD—SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE HYDE SAYS HIS DEPARTMENT IS "PRIZE BOOB IN HISTORY OF FINANCE."

A sharp upward impulse was given to the grain market, and especially the price of wheat, during April, after the break in the market in March. The rise was occasioned by the appearance after the close of business on April 8 of the report of the condition on April 1 of a number of the leading crops. This report placed the condition of winter wheat on April 1 at 75.8%. On April 1 of the previous year the condition was put at 88.8%, and the 10-year average was 80.9%. Based on these figures the Department said that a winter wheat crop of 458,000,000 bushels was indicated for 1932, which was 42% below the very large crop of 787,000,000 bushels harvested in 1931 and 17% less than the average of 551,000,000 bushels produced during the five-year period of 1924-1928. Besides this, the Department said that the April 1 condition and preliminary reports from correspondents pointed to an abandonment of acreage sown last autumn of nearly 14% for the United States as a whole as against a 10-year average abandonment of 12%. The condition was below the average, it was stated, in the Great Plains area and in the South Atlantic States and Gulf States, though above the average in all other sections from the Rockies to the Atlantic Coast. In the Great Plains area there had been a marked shortage of moisture during the fall and winter, and in portions of this area the drouth still persisted and a rather heavy abandonment of acreage and relatively low yields appeared in prospect. While April 1 was too early for an accurate forecast of final production the Department observed an analysis of condition, and weather reports seemed to foreshadow a large reduction in the prospective yield. The probable production of hard red winter wheat was reported at about 266,000,000 bushels compared with 501,000,000 bushels in 1931; soft red winter wheat 155,000,000 bushels compared with 246,000,000 bushels, and autumn sown white wheat of 37,000,000 bushels compared with 41,000,000 bushels in 1931. The outlook for some of the other crops was also reported as rather poor. The condition of oats in 10 Southern States was put at an average of 67.7% compared with 83.3% in 1931 and an average of 76.5% for the previous six years. The condition of rye on April 1 was given as 79.0% compared with 81.6% in 1931, and an average of 84.1% for the previous five years. The reported condition of the early potato crop in 10 Southern States on April 1 was 63% of normal compared with a condition of 79% on the same date in 1931. The condition of 63%, it was stated, was the lowest recorded during the nine years that this early crop information has been gathered. The sharp freezes and prolonged cold spell during March had damaged and delayed the crop throughout the South. The crop in many of the most southerly sections was unusually well advanced when the freezing weather came.

The prospective reduction of over 300,000,000 bushels in the size of the 1932 winter wheat crop as compared with 1931 naturally had an electric effect on the price of wheat. The May option for this grain, after advancing from 53⅛c. a bushel April 1 to 57⅞c. April 4, had dropped back to 53⅞c. on April 8, but the following April 14 touched 62c. After that, however, the price steadily weakened on the occurrence of rains in most of the sections which had suffered from drouth and also on favorable weather conditions in the spring wheat sections of the Northwest, where the probabilities pointed to a larger acreage and increased yield as compared with the very poor production of the previous year. By April 29 the price was down to 52⅞c., with the close on April 30 at 54⅝c. compared with the opening price April 1 of 54⅛c. The July option for wheat in Chicago reached a high of 64⅞c. on April 14 and then declined to 55¾c. April 29, with the close April 30 at 57⅝c. against the opening price of 56⅛c. April 1. Corn derived only momentary benefits from the sharp upturn in wheat, and the latter part of the month dropped to new low levels. May corn at Chicago on April 30 touched 28⅝c. and closed on that day at 29c., the lowest point reached since 1898, and comparing with the opening price on April 1 of 36¼c. The July option for corn in Chicago touched 32⅜c. April 30 as against an opening price on April 1 of 39⅛c. May oats at Chicago got down to 20⅞c. April 29 and closed April 30 at 21⅝c. compared with 23¾c. the opening price on April 1. July oats at Chicago, after selling at 24¾c. April 4, touched 21½c. April 29, and closed April 30 at 22c. compared with the opening price on April 1 of 24¼c. Wheat prices at Winnipeg followed much the same course up and down as at Chicago, only at higher levels. May wheat at Winnipeg advanced from 60¼c. April 1 to 65¼c. April 12, and then touched a low for the month on April 29 of 58¾c., with the close April 30 at 59⅞c. July wheat at Winnipeg advanced from 62¼c. April 1 to 67½c. April 14, and then dropped to 61c. April 29, with the close April 30 at 62¼c.

Notwithstanding the renewed weakness of wheat, there were a number of developments of a favorable nature with respect to the takings of wheat by foreign countries. Cable dispatches from Berlin, April 29, stated that to cover Germany's wheat shortage the duty on foreign wheat had been reduced from 250 marks to 180 marks a ton until June 20 for 15 flour mills out of the 100 which are permitted to grind imported wheat. The duty was reduced to 180 marks a ton for a quantity of wheat equal to 15% of all the wheat milled from April to June 1930 by flour mills which used foreign wheat during that time. American officials estimated that the amount involved on this occasion would be about 100,000 tons. The decree confirmed the present milling quota of 97% domestic wheat, but permitted reduction of the quota to 70% in the case of foreign wheat imported under the new provision. It was added that a milling quota section permitting up to 30% foreign wheat would be effective until Aug. 15. Somewhat earlier in the month it was reported that the German Government had granted permission to millers to import 7,360,000 bushels of feed wheat for poultry duty free. The previous import duty had been 25 marks per 100 kilos. The Italian Government issued a decree, effective April 26, increasing the amount of bread and durum wheats of fine grades permitted entrance into that country 10% to 25%. This, it was stated, was the third successive upward revision of the quota system during the current season. The maximum proportion of foreign wheat permitted to be used in the milling of flour in France was increased from 40% to 45% by a decree published in the French "Journal Officiel" for April 2 1932, according to a radiogram from Commercial Attache Fayette W. Allport, Paris, to the Department of Commerce. The proportion was increased from 3% to 10% by a decree published Jan. 31 1932; it was further increased to 15% under a decree of Feb. 10 1932; from 15% to 20% on Feb. 13; later to 30%, and was raised March 20 from 30% to 35%; three days later (March 27) the proportion was advanced to 40%. United Press advices, April 16, stated that France would need to import about 25,000,000 bushels more of wheat before the new French crop was harvested, according to the estimate of statisticians. The Spanish Government authorized the importation of 50,000 metric tons of wheat, this amount being subject to amplification in accordance with consumption requirements, it was stated in a radiogram from Commercial Attache Charles A. Livengood, Madrid, dated April 14. Under date of April 15 the Department of Commerce also said:

"Until April 20 1932 the import duty on wheat is 8.50 gold pesetas per 100 kilos. Thereafter the duty is to be adjustable each 10 days to result in an internal price of 53 pesetas per 100 kilos. Express authorization must be obtained by the importer for each shipment.

"The importation of wheat into Spain had been definitely prohibited since May 1930. (Peseta equals 19.3c. at par.)"

Secretary Hyde of the Department of Agriculture was stung into making some caustic replies in dealing with the numerous proposals for extending aid to the farmers and the complaints that the Department was not making loans as freely as demanded by the farm situation. In one of his replies he was led into declaring that the Agricultural Department was the "prize boob in the history of finance." The statement was made toward the close of the previous month. According to Associated Press accounts from Washington, March 29, Government loans which serve to increase the farmer's surpluses and keep down his prices drew the fire of Secretary of Agriculture Hyde on that day. The Associated Press also said:

Any crop loan which is not based on an actual need in a drouth or storm disaster was called "unjustified" by the Secretary of Agriculture.

He termed his department—the lending agency for the $50,000,000 now available for 1932 loans—the "prize boob in the history of finance" and said it was "lending more money on thinner security and sustaining more losses than ever before in the history of money lending in the world."

Soon afterward Senator Robinson, Democratic leader, said Mr. Hyde was "manifestly not in sympathy with the relief which the law provides should be administered through his Department."

Crop loans are now being made through regional offices at the rate of $1,000,000 daily—the total from the $50,000,000 fund being in excess of $6,000,000 to date. Last year the Department loaned approximately $48,500,000 and has collected approximately $27,000,000—almost half represented by commodities held as collateral.

"What farmers need most," Mr. Hyde said, "is a market. Fundamentally, it is a question of balancing production and demand.

"My attitude toward crop loans can be expressed in the words of a South Dakota woman who wrote the Department: 'Lending money and mortgaging the future of farmers and their children will never restore prosperity'."

Answering the Secretary, Mr. Robinson said in an interview:

"Advances to aid agriculture are an essential if not an indispensable feature of emergency legislation. Of course loans of the character contemplated to aid in agriculture production by their own nature cannot be made on the basis of commercial loans, either as to security or time of payment."

Explaining why he considers his Department the "prize boob" in finance Mr. Hyde pointed out that rural bankers, Agricultural Credit Corporations and Federal Land banks lend on a "selection basis"—knowing the individual needs of each borrower.

"We have to lend regardless of the farmer's economic position. Inevitably we incur losses."

Secretary Hyde was further reported as follows in Associated Press accounts on March 29, published in the New York "Evening Post":

"There isn't any way of getting out of it," Mr. Hyde said, "but face the fact that we have gone into business over at the Agriculture Department. I don't know what we are going to do with all this wheat and cotton. Nobody seems to want wheat and cotton any more, and everybody seems to be raising it."

Mr. Hyde said the Department has on hand warehouse receipts for about $16,000,000 in cotton and wheat taken in repayment of seed loans over the last two or three years.

Still Collecting 1921 Loans.

Last year Congress appropriated $67,000,000 for relieving farmers who suffered drouth, storm and hail losses.

About $48,000,000 was loaned for crop production and millions more for feeding livestock in dry areas.

Most of these loans were due last fall. To date the Department has collected 55.4% of the 1931 loans, including the farm commodities taken as collateral. The total is approximately $25,000,000.

Meanwhile, the Department still is collecting loans made as long ago as 1921.

It now has available $50,000,000 from Reconstruction Finance Corporation funds and $25,000,000 more will become available in June.

A sum of $200,000,000 was set aside in the reconstruction bill for agricultural loans. Senator Smith of South Carolina is sponsoring a bill—now before the House Agricultural Committee—to make the remaining $125,000,000 available immediately.

Mr. Hyde believes $75,000,000 more than ample for farmers' credit loans and, acting for the Administration, is seeking to have the $125,000,000 appropriated for use in financing foreign sales of Farm Board wheat and cotton.

SUGAR PRICES DROP STILL LOWER.

No relief was experienced from the collapse in the sugar market, and, as a matter of fact, sugar prices dropped still lower. Cuban raw sugar, as against 0.74c. on March 30, touched a price of 0.61c. on April 11, and the recovery was only to 0.65c. on April 15. The wholesale price of refined sugar in the New York market was marked down to 3.90c. on April 5 by all the leading refineries, this comparing with the previous price of 4.00c. fixed on March 14. The New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange, in noting the decline in May sugar to 0.61c. a pound, said that it was the lowest price in the history of the Exchange, adding: "Raw sugar was being offered in the cost and freight market at 2.60c. a pound, duty paid. This is equivalent to 0.60c. a pound for Cuban raw sugar, which is subject to a duty of 2c. a pound. At a price of 0.60c., which is the lowest in the history of sugar, Cuban producers cannot afford to sell. It is estimated that the cost of putting the raw sugar into bags and transporting it to New York is .49c. a pound. This leaves about one-tenth of a cent to the producer to pay him for the season's work, the paying of his labor, the cost of grinding the cane into raw sugar, his investment and financial charges, and all the other producing expenses. Sales of raw sugar in recent days have been chiefly the pressing of distress cargoes of duty-free sugars from the Philippines and Porto Rico. The weakness in the stock market during the week was an important contributing influence on sugar prices."

Coffee prices, on the other hand, showed growing firmness. The New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange reported the latter part of the month that the amount of coffee destroyed since June 1931 had reached 4,659,000 bags, not including 479,000 bags burnt by the Sao Paulo Coffee Institute. No. 7 Rio for spot delivery was quoted at 7¾@7⅞c. April 30 against 7¼c. March 31; 7¼c. Feb. 29; 7⅛c. Jan. 30; 7@7¼c. Dec. 31; 6½@6⅝c. Nov. 30; 5¾@6c. Oct. 31; 5½c. Sept. 30; 5½@5¾c. Aug. 31; 5⅞@6c. July 31; 6⅞@7c. June 30; 6⅝c. May 29; 6½@6¾c. April 30; 5½c. March 31; 5½@5⅝c. Feb. 28; 6¾c. Jan. 31, and 7¼@7½c. Dec. 31 1930. No. 7 Santos was 9c. bid April 30 against 8½c. bid March 31; 8½c. Feb. 29; 8⅝c. Jan. 30; 8@8¼c. Dec. 31; 7¼@7½c. Nov. 30; 7¼c. bid Oct. 31; 6⅞@7c. Sept. 30; 6⅝@6⅞c. Aug. 31; 7½@7⅞c. July 31; 8½@9c. June 30; 8½@8¾c. May 29, and the same figures for April 30; 7¾@8c. March 31; 7¾@8c. Feb. 28; 8¾@9c. Jan. 31; 8¾@9¼c. Dec. 31 1930, and 11¼c. Oct. 31 1930.

THE TEXTILE MARKETS AND THE COURSE OF SILK AND RUBBER—JAPAN ABANDONS SILK CONTROL PLAN.

The textile trades remained dull, with little indication that the advent of a fairly well sustained period of warm weather had resulted in much acceleration of retail buying, though cotton dress goods were in very good demand, leading to the receipt by wholesalers of a substantial quantity of re-orders. In the woolen and worsted markets pronounced dullness continued to be the feature. It was estimated that the woolen industry was operating at under 30% of single shift capacity inasmuch as only a very few mills were producing on full time and the number of those which were shutting down entirely was increasing. The American Woolen Co. was reported on April 20 as offering men's wear fabrics at concessions in prices which competitors appeared to be slow to meet. On a number of its men's wear fabrics the reductions ran, it was stated, from 2½c. to 7½c. a yard, and in a few instances 10c. from the tentative prices named some time previously, according to buyers, who stated that the readjustment applied chiefly to those cloths which were a bit above the market and that cloths in line with general market values were unchanged. The reductions seemed to apply chiefly to worsted suitings and apparently did not affect staple suitings or coatings to any extent. The New York "Journal of Commerce," in its issue of April 21, in referring to the price concessions, said that the attitude taken by many mills toward the competition in prices was interesting. Some sellers were indifferent to the stand taken by competing mills to secure business and pointed out that price cutting at this time would accomplish nothing except to disrupt the plans of buyers about to place initial business. Others stated that a difference of 5c. was nothing to a buyer where style was concerned, and that clothing manufacturers gladly paid 5c. to 10c. more for a style or color that appealed to them. Representatives of a large selling organization stated that buyers were not holding back purchases because of prices, but that the chief deterrents to increased orders were general trade conditions, a slow and unsatisfactory spring business, slow collections from retailers, and a rather cloudy outlook for autumn trade.

In the silk trade the feature was the abandonment by Japan of its Silk Control Plan. Tokio advices, April 25, to the New York "Times" stated that the Japanese Government had ended its unlucky experiment in State control of the price of products by selling 107,380 bales of raw silk to Paolino Gerli, President of the Silk Association of America. The advices went on to say:

The deal is the largest and the price the lowest ever recorded here. The exact price paid is not disclosed but it is understood to be between 430 and 440 yen a bale. When the experiment began the price approximated 1,000 yen a bale, so that the Government agency was involved to the extent of more than 100,000,000 yen ($32,500,000 at Saturday's exchange) and shows a loss on the entire transaction of about 60,000,000 yen ($19,500,000).

At the beginning of the attempt to control prices the Government guaranteed an identity fund of 30,000,000 yen. By new legislation when the Diet meets next month it is expected that this amount will be increased to 50,000,000 yen. The remainder of the loss will be borne by the bankers and reelers who are concerned in the plan.

The April 26 issue of the "Times" said:

E. Gerli & Co. will pay $16,320,000 to the Japanese governmental agency which has just sold to them 14,144,000 pounds of silk and terminated its efforts to stabilize the market. This is at the rate of $150 a bale of 130 pounds each, and substantially below the price quoted here for crack double extra, the highest grade. This grade was quoted at $187.20 a bale on the National Raw Silk Exchange yesterday and sold at $178.75 in outside markets.

Yesterday's prices represented a decline for spot quotations, but trading in raw silk futures resulted in gains of from 2 to 3 points on the Exchange, even though the news of the abandonment of the stabilization efforts, if not the price, was known at the opening. The trade was somewhat relieved to know that the large Japanese block which had been hanging over the market would now be distributed.

The plans of the buyers, who have 12 months in which to distribute the commodity, are to sell about 50%, or the lower-grade half, of their lot in Japan or in the Orient, and to distribute the remaining half, all the higher-grade silk, in this country and Europe.

Here in New York prices of raw silk continued extremely depressed, though the tone was somewhat better at the close of the month. The National Raw Silk Exchange, in its weekly summary, on April 15, stated that on April 14 the October 1932 delivery on the Exchange had sold at $1.31 a pound, a new low, and that the outside market in Japan was at the lowest level in its history, 80% Seriplane raw silk being quoted at 500 yen to the bale. Also that prices on both the Yokohama and Kobe Bourses had declined below the 500 yen level for the first time in the history of those markets, as far as available records showed. Raw silk for delivery during the current month was quoted at 494 yen in Yokohama and at 475 yen at Kobe at the close of the day.

The market for crude rubber continued depressed and prices further declined, several of the nearby options actually selling below 3c. a lb., this being true of the April, the May and the June options. The closing price April 30 for the May option was 2.92c. which compared with 3.06@3.08 on Mar. 31. The low price, however, served to cause a shrinkage in Eastern rubber shipments and likewise led to a cessation of production in many cases. Thus a cable message from Batavia, Java, dated April 22 and relayed by London to the Rubber Exchange in New York stated that tapping had ceased on 212 rubber plantations in the Dutch East Indies, involving a producing area of 70,235 acres. Tapping of rubber trees on 121 other plantations, representing 43,672 acres, was being restricted voluntarily by the owners. This curtailed movement, the cable added, represented an untapped area of approximately 12% of the total rubber land under cultivation in 1931 or an annual output of about 20,000 tons. Another cable to the Exchange Apr. 23 giving the results of the Far Eastern Census for March showed that rubber production on small estates under 100 acres in size in British Malaya had declined from 14,241 tons in February to 11,434 tons in March. Production of large estates, over 100 acres in size, declined from 18,731 tons in February to 18,462 tons in March. Ribbed smoked sheets for spot delivery in New York were quoted April 30 at 3 1-16c. asked as against 3 1-16c. bid and 3 3-16c. asked Mar. 31; 3⅝@3 11-16c. Feb. 29; 4 5-16@4 7-16c. Jan. 30; 4 13-16c.@4 15-16c. Dec. 31; 4 5-16@4⅜c. on Nov. 30; 4 9-16@4⅝c. Oct. 31; 4½@4⅝c. Sept. 30; 5@5⅛c. Aug. 31; 5⅝@5¾c. July 31; 6 13-16@6 15-16c. June 30; 6½c. bid May 29; 5⅞@6c. The price of cotton suffered another severe break during April. Here in New York the quotations for spot cotton on April 30 were 5.60c. against 7.20c. on March 2. and 6.30c. on April 1. Print cloths at Fall River for 28 in. 64x64 were marked down on April 25 from 3c. to 2⅞c., on Apr. 28 to 2¾c. and on April 29 to 2⅝c. The report of the Census Bureau at Washington April 14 for the month of March showed that the consumption of lint cotton in that month the present year had been 488,655 bales against 490,509 bales in March 1931 with the consumption of linters 54,229 bales compared with 64,003 bales. The Association of Cotton Textile Merchants of New York in giving its customary monthly statistics stated that the figures for March (made public April 14) confirmed recent trade comment on the hand-to-mouth character of buying in that month. Shipments were 265,675,000 yards, equivalent to 93.1% of production for the 5-week period, production having been 285,252,000 yards. Sales were only 165,850,000 yards or 58.1% of production. Unfilled orders during the month declined from 377,988,000 yards to 278,163,000 yards. For the first quarter of 1932, covering 13 weeks, the comparisons were much more favorable. The production for the 13 weeks was 762,301,000 yards, while the shipments were 793,318,000 yards, or 104.1% of production. The sales were 749,442,000 yards or 98.3% of production. The unfilled orders fell from 322,039,000 yards to 278,163,000 yards and stocks on hand were reduced from 290,248,000 yards to 259,231,000 yards.

FEDERAL FARM BOARD ANNOUNCES POLICY ON COTTON DISPOSAL.

Carl Williams, member of the Federal Farm Board, announced on April 5 that a broad policy for the disposition of stabilization stocks of cotton would be made public in six weeks providing Congress in the meantime did not frustrate such plan, and on May 3 announced it would authorize sale of Government-owned stabilization cotton, not to exceed 650,000 bales, during the fiscal year beginning Aug. 1. The proposed liquidation represents about one-fifth of the cotton bought by the Farm Board and held in an effort to bolster prices. The Government owns only 1,310,000 bales, but through loans it has enabled cotton co-operative organizations to hold another 2,100,000 bales off the market. The marketing of the cotton will be done, it was stated, in an orderly manner and in such a way as not to depress prices further. Before deciding on the liquidation program the Government agreed to finance the cotton held by the co-operatives until Aug. 1 1933, at least. Though the Farm Board has sold no cotton since September 1930, its new policy has been expected for a month. It is directly in line with the recommendation of the Board's cotton advisory committee —an organization representing cotton growers, co-operatives and manufacturers—made the previous week but not then announced.

THE STEEL TRADE—LACK OF ANY DECIDED INDICATIONS OF IMPROVEMENT AND ABSENCE OF ANY SEASONAL INCREASE OF CONSEQUENCE.

The steel trade reflected accurately the course of general trade in showing a complete absence of any positive signs of improvement, though the trade publications were inclined to take a more favorable view of the promise for the immediate future. The whole trade appeared to be anxiously awaiting for the customary spring orders of the automobile concerns. The "Iron Age" in its issue of April 21 remarked that the determined campaign of the motor car industry to overcome the buying resistance of a depression-scared public was making steady, if gradual, progress which was reflected in improved steel specifications. Tin plate releases had gained, pushing tin mill operations above the 50% mark for the first time in 1932. However, a week later in its issue of April 28 that publication was prompted to say that at a time when quarterly earnings statements were accentuating the gloom pervading the iron and steel industry, indications of better business were likely to be discounted, but that nevertheless the immediate outlook was for further improvement, although the extent of that betterment would depend in the last analysis on public confidence as reflected in finance and in consumer buying. The upward trend in automobile production, slow as it was, was having its effect on the operation of mills, foundries and parts manufacturers. Steel ingot production now averaged 23% of capacity, compared with 22½% in the preceding week and 21% two weeks before. Further expansion of motor car output in May was a certainty and it now seemed probable that the increased flow of business from that quarter would be supplemented by liberal lettings of structural steel, mainly for public works. Tin plate operations remained a bright spot in the steel industry, although further increases above the present production rate of 50% of capacity were being delayed pending the more accurate estimate of the vegetable pack. Although demand seemed to be on the mend, steel companies were faced with present realities rather than hope which had been so frequently dashed in the past. Their heavy losses in the first quarter had again focussed attention on costs and a second wage cut now seemed inevitable, much as the producers would like to avoid it. Ford's objective was to manufacture a half million cars as rapidly as possible. Operations were likely to be heavy in July and August, usually dull months in the motor car trade. The "Iron Age's" composite price of finished steel April 26 remained unchanged at 2.087c., which compared with 2.128c. at the corresponding date the previous year. The price of pig iron, however, declined during the month from $14.43 per gross ton to $14.35, as against $15.79 at the same date the previous year, and scrap steel dropped further from $8.21 to $8.04 per gross ton, as against $10.67 one year before.

The non-ferrous metals continued depressed and developments in the business world, "Metal and Mineral Markets" observed in its issue of April 28, had not been such as to inspire traders in non-ferrous metals to extend their operations. The price of copper held at 5.75c. delivered in Connecticut most of the month. At New York Lake copper was marked down April 6 from 6⅛c. to 6c., while electrolytic copper was reduced on April 6 from 5¾c. to 5⅝c. on April 7 to 5½c. Lead at New York remained unchanged at 3c. Tin at New York sold down from 19.95c. April 1 to 18.30c. April 14, a new low price for the century, but then advanced to 20⅛c. on steady curtailment of output and with the price April 30 at 19.00c. At the meeting of the International Tin Committee on April 22 it was decided to cut production 20,000 tons, bringing the annual production down to less than 90,000 tons, which was regarded as considerably below current consumption.

PETROLEUM AND ITS PRODUCTS—CONTINUED RISE IN PRICES.

The record in the petroleum trade during April was one of almost uninterrupted advances in price, both in the case of crude oil and in the refined products. This was despite the fact that crude production in the East Texas field mounted rapidly, notwithstanding the cut in the per-well allowable to 67 barrels per day and notwithstanding also that voluntary restriction to 62 barrels a day became effective with many of the leading producers. The Texas Railroad Commission had a hearing on April 28 to establish a new per-well basis, the per-well output being fixed at 61 barrels per day. At this meeting a proposal was made to the Commission that the East Texas allowable be increased to 350,000 barrels daily, with the warning that if this was not done the per-well allowable would have to be further reduced to an output of 50 barrels per day. In the following we will show the important changes during the month of April in prices, both for crude oil and the refined product:

Crude Oil.

April 1.—Magnolia posts 15c. advance in east Texas, west Texas, Mirando, Luling, Corsicana, Darst Creek and Lytton Springs. 10c. advance in Carson and Hutchinson counties. Sinclair posts same range

BUILDERS IN NEW YORK CITY CUT PAY OF 115,000 WORKERS—EMPLOYERS POST NOTICE OF NEW SCALE, DOWN 20 TO 35%, TO GO INTO EFFECT ON MAY 1.

By order of the Board of Governors of the Building Trades Employers Association of New York City the executives of 30 trade groups in the association began posting notices on April 18 announcing wage reductions of between 20 and 35% for 115,000 building trades workers beginning May 1. The New York "Times" authority for the foregoing, further said:

The notices constitute the final statement of the employers to the 30 unions that the new scale of wages will be in effect on May 1 and continue until Dec. 31 1933.

The last compromise offer made by the executives of the Building Trades Council, led by John Halkett, President, was an offer of a 15% reduction for a limited period. This the employers refused. The union officials will hold another meeting to-day with the executive committee of the Building Trades Employers Association.

No Change in Policy Likely.

To-morrow the board of governors of the employers' association will hold its monthly meeting and whatever appeal may be made by the mechanics to-day will be passed on to the governors to-morrow. At the offices of the employers' association, 2 Park Avenue, it was said that there was no likelehood that there would be any change in the policy already determined upon, which has been the subject of negotiations since last February.

In effect the new wage scale is a return to the terms of the agreement which was in effect in 1923. While only a few unions are in the group whose wages are being lowered the minimum 20 or the maximum 35%, most of the unions will be paid about 25 to 30% less than the prevailing scale.

The present wage scale for most of the trades went into effect on Aug. 24 1929, when the five-day week was adopted for the majority of mechanics and their helpers.

The first announcement of the proposed wage reduction was made by C. G. Norman, Chairman of the employers' board of governors, at a meeting of the New York State Association of Building Employers held in this city late in January.

Much Wage "Bootlegging."

Mr. Norman explained that the employers were of the opinion that the scales adopted by them would do much to stabilize conditions in the industry and to eliminate the "bootlegging" which has been going on in the last year. He declared that in the last year wage scales lower than the announced ones have been paid and that many carpenters and bricklayers have been glad to work for $7 or $8 a day.

While the Building Trades Council, through President Halkett, has announced that it would "resist" the wage reductions, it was believed in employers' circles that there would be no strike on May 1. It was regarded as likely that the unions would accept the reduction but would not sign an agreement for the time being, in the hope that they might be in a more advantageous bargaining position if employment conditions became better.

The principal trades affected, their present daily wage scale and the new scale are as follows:

Bricklayers, $15.40, reduced to $12; plasterers, $15.40 to $10; carpenters, $13.20 to $10; painters, $13.20 to $10; iron workers, $15.40 to $12; plumbers, $13.20 to $10; electrical workers, $13.20 to $10.

Many strikes resulted on Monday May 2 as the outcome of this lowering of wages.

WAGE STAND OF PRINTING TRADES UNIONS CRITICIZED BY AMERICAN NEWSPAPER PUBLISHERS ASSOCIATION—REPORT SAYS THEY ALONE REFUSE TO AID NEEDED ECONOMIES—20 TO 25% CUT VITAL—NEWSPAPERS ADVISED TO FIGHT FIVE-DAY WEEK.

Strong criticism of the printing trades unions in the larger cities for failure to co-operate with newspaper publishers in a necessary reduction of expenses during an era of declining revenues, and a declaration that wage cuts of 20 to 25% are imperative were contained in the report of the special standing committee, accepted by the American Newspaper Publishers' Association at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York on April 29. The New York "Herald Tribune" of April 29, from which we quote, added:

"In recent months it has become increasingly apparent that we are not dealing with an ordinary cyclical depression, but with a depression of unusual intensity and scope. Budgets must be balanced. Expense must be brought within the limits of revenue. Relief commensurate with the emergency is an immediate and imperative necessity for the newspaper publishing industry. Relief can come only through two courses, or a combination of the two: First, abolition of all wasteful and costly rules enforced by printing trades unions; second, wage cuts of 20 to 25%; third, a combination of a modified one and two.

Other Employees Found Aiding.

"In all the larger cities at the time this report goes to press, the unionized departments of the newspapers have refused to co-operate in the necessary adjustments despite the obvious emergency and despite the fact that all other employees are co-operating."

The report declares union officials "endeavor to justify these obstructionist tactics" because of union assessments to support out-of-work members, but shows unemployment in the newspaper to be negligible. The newspaper industry, it says, has no obligation to unemployed printers in the commercial printing industry. Therefore, maintenance of newspaper workers' wage rates "at an artificial level not justified by the income of the industry" is transferring the burden of unemployment relief in the commercial printing trades to the newspaper publishing industry.

A declaration that the unions' demands for a five-day week could only be construed as a demand for five days of work with six days' pay, inasmuch as the universal practice of the industry permits a union worker to lay off as many days a week as he will, provided a satisfactory substitute is furnished. It recommended that no member of the association enter into a contract providing for the five-day week.

The following regarding the report is from the New York "Times" of April 29:

After reporting that the members of the A. N. P. A. had negotiated 82 contracts in the year ended March 10 1932, the report continued:

"Fifty-three of the 82 contracts made no change in wage scales. Twenty-three of the 82 contracts provided a decrease in scale. In addition to the new 82 contracts, there were 104 old contracts continued in effect without change in wages or working conditions.

"Publishers of 30 cities furnished the special standing committee with data on number of men involved in union demands for increased wages and decreased hours or both. Between the union demands and the settlement in these 30 cities alone is a saving to the publishers concerned of $580,819.12 in money and 281,752 man hours which the unions sought to take off of the present working schedules.

"The total number of contracts on file in the Indianapolis office, March 10 1932, was 563. Of this number 441 will expire before April 1 1933. In addition to the foregoing there were 48 verbal understandings between local publishers and local unions.

"No member of the A. N. P. A. has yielded to high-pressure union demands for contract recognition of the five-day week."

THE APRIL FINANCING OF THE U. S. TREASURY.

The United States Treasury did a large amount of financing during April, and had remarkable success in carrying it through—thanks in great part to the easy money policy of the Federal Reserve banks in indulging in large-scale purchases of United States Government securities. The Treasury on April 18 gave preliminary notice of a forthcoming new offering, and on Sunday night, April 24, there came the offering announcement itself. It proved much larger than current reports had foreshadowed. Instead of taking the form of an issue of certificates of indebtedness for $200,000,000, as reports in the daily papers had intimated would be the case, the offering comprised an issue of $225,000,000, "or thereabouts," of one-year certificates of indebtedness, dated and bearing interest from May 2 1932, in addition to an issue of two-year Treasury notes for another $225,000,000, also dated and bearing interest from May 2 1932, making $450,000,000 altogether. Both issues represented distinctly new borrowing and were not meant to take up maturing issues. As the Treasury had in March disposed of $994,146,000 of certificates of indebtedness ($333,492,500 being certificates running for seven months and $660,653,500 being certificates running for a year), of which it was figured $370,000,000 would represent new money, the further borrowing in amount of $450,000,000 came somewhat as a surprise. However, this made not the slightest difference as far as the inpour of subscriptions was concerned, which proved of huge magnitude just as was the case with the large offering of certificates in March. It should also be noted that a statement in the current offering circular volunteered the information that "the present offering of certificates and notes is made in accordance with the financial program of the Treasury projected in January when it was estimated that the amount which would be required to be borrowed during the remainder of the fiscal year, in addition to amounts for refunding, would be approximately $1,500,000,000. The estimate then made appears to have been substantially correct." At the same time the "United States Daily" at Washington, in "additional oral and statistical information," reported that already the Treasury had engaged in new borrowings totaling $1,230,000,000, leaving apparently $270,000,000 more new borrowing to be done during May and June before the end of the fiscal year on June 30.

The rate of interest in both the offering of the two-year notes and the one-year certificates of indebtedness was exceptionally low, being 3% in the case of the former and only 2% in the case of the latter. Both issues, according to the offering circular, are exempt from income taxes of every character and description, even the surtaxes. Both the certificate issue in the current offering and the note issue contained the express declaration that they "will be exempt, both as to principal and interest, from all taxation (except estate or inheritance taxes) now or hereafter imposed by the United States, any State, or any of the possessions of the United States, or by any local taxing authority." It was furthermore stated that banks subscribing for the new issues and acting as qualified depositories would "be permitted to make payment for Treasury certificates of indebtedness and Treasury notes of these issues by credit to 'War Loan Deposit Account,'" and "in this connection," so the offering ran, "the attention of qualified depositories is called to the fact that as stated in Treasury Department Circular No. 92 (revised Feb. 23 1932), each depository will be required to pay interest at the rate of ½ of 1% per annum on daily balances in the 'War Loan Deposit Account.'"

Thus the new issues had many distinctive advantages apart from the fact that as a result of the Federal Reserve easy money policy, pursued with such diligence and on such an overwhelming scale, all the banks in the larger cities, and in particular at the financial center at New York, are being flooded with funds for which no employment can be found. The exemption from the surtaxes in the case of a Government obligation running for two years in particular was an advantage of no mean order at the present moment. Mr. Mills, the Secretary of the Treasury, has long had a penchant for issuing Government obligations exempt from the surtaxes as well as the normal taxes, and such exemption assumed additional value and importance in view of the fact that Congress has been considering proposals for raising the normal tax to 9% on amounts of income in excess of the low figure of $8,000, and has been entertaining proposals to impose surtaxes running all the way from 45% to 65% as a maximum on large incomes, or, say, on incomes between $100,000 and $1,000,000. Full income tax exemption in such a state of things becomes in the highest degree desirable and constitutes a privilege of no insignificant consequence. For the same reason municipal securities of the highest and best type have latterly been in great demand, as witness the sale on April 27 by the State of New York of $75,000,000 one-year notes bearing only 2¾% interest to 75 New York State banks and banking houses in amounts ranging from $2,000,000 to $100,000. With total subscriptions for the loan amounting to approximately $200,000,000, the maximum allotment in any case was 40% of what was asked. In most instances, we are told, purchases were made for investment, so that only a few blocks of the notes were available in the open market, and although sold at par on a 2¾% basis, the notes were almost immediately quoted on a 2¼% basis asked and 2⅜% freely bid.

In these circumstances it was a foregone conclusion that the certificate offering and the note offering of the United States Government would be not only a success, but an overwhelming success. And this proved to be the case. Subscription books were opened on Monday morning, April 25, and were closed at the end of the same day, subscriptions having poured in in such great numbers and on such a large scale. Very possibly, also, there was some padding of the subscriptions, subscribers asking for more than they really wanted, since they felt certain that in making allotments the Treasury would have to scale them down anyway. The rates of interest, as already noted, were extremely low, namely, 3% in the case of the two-year notes and no more than 2% in the case of the one-year certificates of indebtedness, which compares with 3¾% interest offered in the one-year certificates and 3⅛% in the seven-month certificates placed in March, to which reference has already been made. The subscriptions to 3% two-year notes reached no less than $2,496,928,700, and those for the $225,000,000 of 2% one-year Treasury certificates $1,699,868,000, making the combined subscriptions total $4,196,796,700. The allotments in the case of the 2% certificates were $239,197,000 and in the case of the 3% notes $244,234,600, or $483,431,600 together.

The United States Treasury was equally fortunate in its sale of Treasury bills offered on a discount basis. Three blocks of these Treasury bills were sold during the month. On April 6 the Treasury Department invited tenders for an offering of $75,000,000, "or thereabouts," of 91-day bills, the proceeds to be used to retire $50,175,000 bills maturing April 13. The new bills were dated April 13 1932 and are to mature July 13 1932. Tenders were received at the Federal Reserve banks up to 2 p. m. Eastern Standard time on April 11. This offering brought total bids of $399,374,000. The amount accepted was $76,200,000. The average price received was 99.735, the rate on a bank discount basis being about 1.05%. This compared with the last previous sale made on March 23, and which comprised $100,000,000 of 91-day Treasury bills, and resulted in tenders of $360,198,000, of which $102,169,000 were accepted at an average price of 99.474, the equivalent of 2.08% on a bank discount basis. The remaining two sales of the month were on a still more favorable basis. Notice of another issue of 91-day Treasury bills to the amount of $75,000,000 was given on April 13, and it was stated that this issue would not take the place of a maturing issue, but would be an addition to the public debt. Of the previous issue, $25,000,000 represented now indebtedness. Tenders for the second issue were received up to 2 p. m. Eastern Standard time on Monday, April 18; these bills were dated April 20 1932 and are to mature July 20 1932. This offering brought total bids of $289,740,000, of which tenders for $75,600,000 were accepted. In this instance the average price realized was 99.843, equivalent to 0.62% on a bank discount basis. Yet another offering of 91-day Treasury bills, this time to amount of $50,000,000, came on April 20. These bills were dated April 27 1932, and are to mature July 27 1932. They replace $50,937,000 maturing on April 27. The tenders in this case aggregated $241,451,000, and the amount accepted was $51,550,000. The average price realized was 99.841, equivalent to an average rate on a bank discount basis of about 0.63% per annum.

In announcing, on April 11, that subscription books for the recent offering of 2% Treasury certificates—the so-called "Baby Bonds"—would close at the close of business April 13, Secretary of the Treasury Mills indicated that the total sales of these certificates up to March 31 amounted to approximately $28,000,000. The issuance of these certificates was in furtherance of the anti-hoarding campaign of the Citizens' Reconstruction organization under the leadership of Colonel Frank Knox. The announcement, April 11, of Secretary Mills follows:

Secretary of the Treasury Mills to-day announced that subscription books for the offering of 2% United States Treasury certificates, first series, dated March 15 1932, maturing March 15 1933, will close at the close of business Wednesday, April 13 1932.

These special 2% Treasury certificates were offered on March 5 1932, in connection with the campaign to put idle funds to work conducted throughout the country by the Citizens' Reconstruction organization.

THE COURSE OF THE STOCK MARKET DURING APRIL.

The stock market suffered further severe collapse during April, and the demoralization was virtually uninterrupted from beginning to end of the month, and prices dipped to such new low figures as would have been deemed out of the question even 12 months ago. The industrial list and the railroad shares suffered alike in the further general breakdown of the price level, though the railroad stocks appeared to be especially weak at times. Industrial conditions showed no improvement—no signs of trade revival being in evidence anywhere, and the monthly returns of the railroads continuing to make very poor comparisons with the results of the previous year, already so heavily reduced from 1930 and 1929. This last was perhaps the most serious disappointment, inasmuch as the great majority of people had counted upon railroad conditions showing a sharp change for the better as a result of the 10% reduction in the wages of union railroad labor and the slight increases in freight rates permitted by the Inter-State Commerce Commission. Both favorable factors were in operation for a full month the first time in February, but a further shrinkage in the volume of traffic occasioned by the growing intensity of the business depression more than overbalanced the gains from the advantages referred to. Nor did large-scale buying of United States Government securities, with the concurrent expansion in Federal Reserve credit (the Federal Reserve institutions increasing their purchases of United States Government securities from an average of $25,000,000 a week to $100,000,000, beginning with the second week of April) prove the stimulating agency that had been hoped for. The large purchases of Government securities did cause a very notable rise in the value of all classes of United States obligations, but the rise did not extend to the bond market generally, rather did the bond list register further declines, the amount of the decline varying with the character of the issue, with the low-priced bonds tumbling badly in many cases—all of which were circumstances that militated against any improvement in the stock market, and, indeed, left stocks the prey of every new adverse development which unfortunately then came in seemingly unending numbers. Further reductions or suspensions in corporate dividend declarations continued numerous and included some exceptionally prominent companies.

Taking the stock averages compiled by the New York "Times," and covering 50 stocks, these dropped from a high of 65.30 April 1 to a low of 48.79 on April 30. On Jan. 14 the average of these 50 stocks was 80.88, and it seems almost incredible, but is a fact, that on Sept. 19 1929 the average of the same 50 stocks was 311.90. The 25 industrial stocks included as part of the 50 fell from a high of 107.56 on April 1 to a low of 80.79 on April 30, with the close on this latter day at 81.73. The high for these 25 industrial stocks on Sept. 19 1929 was 469.49. The 25 railroad stocks tumbled from a high of 23.04 April 1 to a low of 15.81 on April 14, with the close on April 30 at 16.97. The average of these 25 railroad stocks was at a high of 158.71 on Sept. 3 1931. It is necessary to go back 18 years, beyond 1914, to find averages lower than those recorded in the month under review in the case of the railroads and the combined averages. And indeed in the case of many of the separate stocks the low figures recorded in April 1932 are the lowest in all time.

Looking over the record for the month, day by day, it is found that a succession of unfavorable events coming one after another added their weight to force prices downward. At the opening of the month the character of the tax bill which the House of Representatives at Washington finally put through on Friday evening, April 1, with the heavy tax levy proposed on stock transfers or sales, proved an important factor in causing a new downward splurge. The break at the half-day session on Saturday, April 2, was particularly violent. A large number of prominent stocks then sold down to new low records (up to that time). New York Central, for instance, dropping 2½ points to the lowest price in its history; Atchison selling down nearly 3 points to its lowest level since 1905; Union Pacific falling 4 points to its lowest price since 1903—all to sell still lower, however, later in the month. The rails were depressed on rumors as to the policy to be pursued by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in dealing with future applications for loans, the Inter-State Commerce Commission having indulged in some savage criticism of the applications for new loans. The downward movement continued for several days, but with somewhat of a rally on Wednesday, April 6, after further declines early on that day. The downward movement, however, was soon resumed. One of the unfavorable features at this time was the further reduction on Tuesday, April 5, of the dividend on the stock of the Atchison Topeka & Santa Fe RR. The quarterly payment was reduced from 1½% to 1%, accompanied by an announcement saying: "The earnings statement shows a continuing decline. The continuance of dividends on common stock must depend upon an improvement in the corporation's earnings." On March 1 the quarterly dividend had been reduced from 2½% to 1½%. In other words, the dividend was now down to a basis of 4% per annum against the previous 10%, with future dividends depending upon earnings. Another feature about that time was the weakness of numerous public utility stocks, and as bearing on the utility situation a conference held here in New York on April 7 between Samuel Insull and Owen D. Young regarding Middle West Utilities affairs attracted a good deal of attention. The property subsequently was put in the hands of receivers. Another unfavorable development was cablegrams from Stockholm, Sweden, April 5, from the accountants engaged in investigating the affairs of Kreuger & Toll, saying that the company's balance sheet of Dec. 31 1930 "grossly misrepresented the true financial position of the company."

At the half-day session on Saturday, April 9, the market quite unexpectedly enjoyed a sharp turn upward after several days of weakness. This appeared to be due to the sudden decision of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee to start its delayed Stock Exchange investigation the following Monday (April 11), having been induced thereto by a telegraphic report that bear operators contemplated a raid upon the market of such dimensions that the day would ever thereafter be known as Black Saturday. President Whitney of the Stock Exchange had been notified to be ready to testify at the Monday meeting of the Committee, and at the same time had been asked to bring with him a large mass of information regarding current short sales, as a result of which the members of the Exchange were in turn called upon for the needful data with which to compile the information sought by the Committee. This seemingly led to a sort of scare among the shorts, who, as a precautionary measure, began to cover some of their outstanding short contracts. The market moved sharply upward as a consequence, though losing a portion of the gains again before the close of the session at the noon hour. A further contributing influence in the rise on Saturday (April 9) was the upward spurt in the price of wheat caused by the Agricultural Bureau's report issued after the close of business on Friday (April 8), indicating that the winter wheat crop had suffered serious damage from winter killing and that the prospect was for a crop of only 457,970,000 bushels of winter wheat in 1932 against 787,465,000 bushels in 1931, when the winter wheat yield was of exceptional proportions.

On Monday, April 11, however, stocks again plunged downward, notwithstanding von Hindenburg's success at the German elections, and notwithstanding also a further rise in the price of wheat, and the same remark applies with reference to the course of stocks on Tuesday, April 12, on which day May wheat in Chicago touched 61½c. against 53⅞c. the previous Friday. On Thursday, April 14, and Friday, April 15, the market enjoyed quite a rally, influenced by the sharp reduction in the rates of bankers' acceptances and the testimony of Governor Harrison of the New York Federal Reserve Bank before the subcommittee of the House Banking and Currency Committee, in which he revealed the fact that the Federal Reserve banks had decided greatly to enlarge their purchases of United States Government securities with a view to checking further liquidation in the security market—increasing their purchases of Government securities which had been running at an average of about $25,000,000 a week to $100,000,000 a week. A buoyant rise in United States Government bonds proved a further stimulating influence. On Friday, April 15, the market developed strength, notwithstanding news from Chicago that application had been made for the appointment of a receiver for the Middle West Utilities Co., dominated by Samuel Insull of Chicago.

At the half-day session on Saturday, April 16, pressure on American Tel. & Tel., Auburn Automobile, United States Steel, American Can and Consolidated Gas, and two or three other weak points served to cause the whole market to sag. On Monday, April 18, a sharp decline again occurred all around, with American Tel. & Tel., United States Steel, Eastman Kodak, Western Union, American Can, International Business Machine, Allied Chemical, and Air Reduction especially weak features. The annual meeting of the stockholders of the United States Steel Corp. took place on that day, and the remarks of Chairman Myron C. Taylor were not particularly encouraging, indicating that the corporation was working at only 20% of capacity and that the prospects regarding the dividend on the common shares were not particularly bright. On Tuesday, April 19, there were further large and general declines. United States Steel common reached a new low on the downward movement at 29⅝; American Tel. & Tel. fell below par, touching 97¾, with a still lower dip to 97¼ the next day, April 20. Allied Chemical on the same day dropped to 57¾, the lowest price level since 1924. In the bond market speculative utility issues were one of the weak features, with larger or smaller losses in such issues as American & Foreign Power 5s, Columbia Gas & Elec. 5s, Federal Light & Traction 5s, International Tel. & Tel. debenture 4½s, Postal Telegraph 5s, and Utah Power & Light 5s. Many of the high-grade utility issues were also lower, while railroad bonds of the better description were likewise soft. On Thursday, April 21, the market revealed the first indication of a general recovery, being doubtless favorably influences by the news that the Bank of England had further reduced its discount rate from 3½% to 3%. Many stocks previously under pressure, such as American Tel. & Tel., American Can, Allied Chemical and others in the same class scored advances running from 1 to 4 points. On Friday, April 22, however, the course of stocks was again downward, but with a rally later in the day. Thereafter for several days the market showed a slowly rising tendency. The revelations in connection with the Senate investigation of the Stock Exchange had a quieting effect and also tended to repress dealings in the absence of definite knowledge of the turn the investigation would take. Testimony at the hearings on Friday, April 22, when Percy A. Rockefeller appeared as a witness, seemed to indicate that the investigation would not be confined to bear operations, but might go into the whole question of pooling operations designed to boost prices which were so conspicuously in evidence before the collapse of the unbridled speculation which occurred in the autumn of 1929.

There was at this time considerable discussion as to what action would be taken on Tuesday, April 26, by the United States Steel Corp. with reference to continuing or discontinuing the dividend on the common stock of the corporation. On Monday, April 25, prices showed considerable steadiness in face of a number of adverse features. The Hitler victory in the German State elections had an adverse influence at the opening on German Government bonds, while a big decline in the pound sterling in the foreign exchange market also was an adverse influence, without, however, exercising any great effect on the course of prices. The news that the United States Government was offering altogether $450,000,000 of new securities, instead of a much smaller amount as had been supposed, occasioned a mild surprise, but nothing more. United States Government securities steadied after a mild downward reaction. On Tuesday, April 26, there was a further break in sterling exchange on London, but, on the other hand, the instantaneous success attending the offering of $225,000,000 of 2% one-year Treasury certificates of indebtedness and $225,000,000 of 3% two-year Treasury notes had a strengthening influence on the Government bond market, and also on the course of stock prices. A feature on that day was a sharp advance in the securities of the New York Rapid Transit companies, more particularly Interborough Rapid Transit 6% and 7% notes, on news that the city had failed to receive any bids for the private operation of its independent subway system. In the absence of selling pressure the market seemed in a position to rally after definite knowledge with regard to the action on the dividend on U. S. Steel common shares was forthcoming. This did not come until after the close of business on that day, and proved to be in accord with general expectations, payment of a dividend on these shares being entirely suspended and a very poor statement for the March quarter being submitted, this showing that the company had failed to earn even ordinary operating expenses let alone fixed charges and dividends, though the directors, nevertheless, declared the usual quarterly dividend of 1¾% on the preferred shares out of accumulated surplus. On Wednesday, April 27, the unfavorable news regarding the steel dividend and steel earnings exercised no ill effects on the general stock market, it having evidently been discounted in the break in the market the previous week. News that the Pennsylvania RR. had decided to defer action on the quarterly dividend was almost entirely ignored, though many of the low-priced railroad issues were weak and were influenced, it was thought, by the fact that the returns of railroad earnings for the month of March continued to make poor exhibits. In some instances the exhibits were better than for the month of February, though virtually all of them made unfavorable comparisons with the same month of last year, which, in turn, had shown poor comparisons with the year preceding.

On Thursday, April 28, the market completely reversed its course, and again plunged downward, and on this and the remaining days of the month it was decidedly weak, with the lowest prices as a rule recorded on the closing day, April 30. This was mainly caused by depression in the commodity markets. Grain prices, in particular, were weak, and May corn in Chicago touched 29½c. a bushel, April 29, which was said to be the lowest level since September 1898, when the price got down to 29c., and on April 30 dropped still lower, or to 28⅝c. Considerable dissatisfaction was also felt over the action of the Economy Committee of the House in slashing the Omnibus Bill designed to reduce Federal expenditures. Among the issues particularly pressed for sale were the farm equipment shares, owing to the low prices prevailing for grain, and several of the specialties like Union Carbide, Eastman Kodak and Auburn Auto. Alaska Juneau, which was one of the stocks mentioned in the Senate investigation as having been the subject of pool manipulation back in 1929, also suffered a big break. The railroad list was likewise under selling pressure. The market on Saturday, April 30, as already stated, touched in many cases the lowest figures of the month and of the year.

The volume of business on the New York Stock Exchange was of only moderate size, the share sales for the month aggregating 31,470,916 shares, which compares with 54,346,836 shares in April 1931; 111,041,000 shares in April 1930, and 82,600,470 shares in April 1929. On the New York Curb Exchange the sales were only 4,716,980 shares as against 11,526,810 shares in April 1931; 32,331,400 shares in April 1930, and 24,931,700 shares in April 1929. No less than 890 stocks recorded new low levels for the year during the month on the New York Stock Exchange, while on the New York Curb Exchange 466 shares dropped to the lowest level of the year during the month. As far as the separate stocks are concerned the declines in the great majority of cases were exceedingly heavy, with the highest prices as a rule recorded at the opening of the month and the lowest prices at the close, as would be supposed must have been the case from the course of the general averages as referred to above. United States Steel dropped from 40½ April 1 to 27¾ April 29; American Tel. & Tel. from 112¼ April 1 to 96⅝ April 29; American Can from 62¼ April 1 to 38⅞ April 30; J. I. Case from 33¾ April 1 to 20⅝ April 29; Borden from 38⅞ April 1 to 26⅜ April 26; Western Union Telegraph from 36¾ April 1 to 23⅞ April 30; Public Service of N. J. common from 51½ April 1 to 38¼ April 11, with the close April 30 at 41⅝; North American from 30⅝ April 1 to 22½ April 20; Auburn Auto from 73¼ April 1 to 31¼ April 29; Allied Chemical & Dye from 75½ April 1 to 52¼ April 30; Eastman Kodak from 73 April 1 to 47½ April 30; International Business Machines from 96¼ April 1 to 75½ April 20, with the close April 30 at 80; Air Reduction from 51 April 1 to 35¾ April 30, &c., &c. The railroads suffered in a similar way. New York Central sold down from 26½ April 1 to 17 April 30; Atchison from 64¾ April 1 to 36⅞ April 30; Delaware & Hudson from 68 April 1 to 50¼ April 14, with the close April 30 at 56½; Norfolk & Western from 108½ April 1 to 72 April 14; Pennsylvania from 15½ (half shares) April 2 to 11½ April 30; Union Pacific from 69¼ April 1 to 46½ April 14, with the close April 30 at 49⅜, and Southern Pacific from 18¼ April 1 to 11¼ April 14, with the close April 30 at 12¼.

In the bond market the feature, as already stated, was the rise in United States Government securities as a result of the large-scale buying of these obligations by the Federal Reserve banks. The advance did not, however, extend in any considerable degree to the bond market generally, and, as a matter of fact, the low-priced bonds all took a sharp tumble, especially when the announcement came at the very close of the month that the Inter-State Commerce Commission would approve further loans to the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation only on condition that the road present a reorganization scheme by the 1st of July reducing the company's fixed charges. In the following table we show the fluctuations during April in the different issues of United States obligations, and also in a large list of railroad and industrial bonds and a considerable number likewise of foreign bond issues:

THE MONEY MARKET DURING APRIL 1932.

There was further intensification of ease in the N. Y. money market during April, and in a most pronounced fashion, due entirely to large-scale purchases of U. S. Government securities by the Federal Reserve banks through their open-market operations. The Federal Reserve institutions, after having for quite some time been making purchases of U. S. Government securities at an average of $25,000,000 a week, the early part of April suddenly decided to increase these purchases to $100,000,000 per week. The steps by which the determination was reached to augment purchases in such a drastic manner have been narrated in the early portion of this article, and it will suffice here simply to record the fact itself, besides noting what the Reserve authorities contend has been accomplished thereby. The N. Y. Reserve Bank in its "Monthly Review," issued under date of May 1, adverts to the intensification of ease caused by the large-scale buying of Government securities and furnishes some very striking figures to indicate how this scheme has worked and the results that have flowed from it. After observing that during April there was further continued easing of the banking situation, the "Monthly Review" goes on to say that "the principal influence in this direction was an increase in the rate of purchases of Government securities by the Federal Reserve banks. From the beginning of March through the first week of April purchases were made at the rate of $25,000,000 per week, but in the last three weeks of April the rate was increased to about $100,000,000 per week. These purchases resulted in the first material increase in several months in the total volume of Federal Reserve credit outstanding. In addition, there was a further return flow of currency from circulation, so that the combined gain of funds by member banks from these two sources during the past two months is now well over $600,000,000." The following table is inserted summarizing "the principal receipts of additional funds by member banks during the past two months and the disposition of these funds:

Funds Received by Member Banks Through:	Feb. 24 to Apr. 27.
Federal Reserve purchases of United States securities	$450,000,000
Return of currency from circulation	194,000,000
Net increase in gold stock	18,000,000
Total	$662,000,000
Disposition of Funds:
Repayment of indebtedness at Federal Reserve banks	$303,000,000
Reduction in Federal Reserve bill holdings and other F. R. credit	95,000,000
Transfer of funds to Federal Reserve banks by foreign central banks, &c.	28,000,000
Increase in member bank reserve balances	236,000,000
Total	$662,000,000

As this table indicates, we are told the indebtedness of member banks at the Reserve Banks was reduced by more than $300,000,000 during the two months covered. The statement proceeds on the assumption that these purchases of Government securities had supplied the member banks with the funds with which to reduce their indebtedness with the Reserve institutions, but in our analysis of the Reserve returns for the month of March, when $200,000,000 out of the $303,000,000 of the reduction in member banks' indebtedness occurred (the discount holdings of the 12 Reserve institutions having dropped from $835,243,000 Feb. 24 to $633,255,000 March 30, with a drop at the same time in the bill holdings of the 12 Reserve banks from $133,382,000 Feb. 24 to $66,362,000 March 30, making a combined reduction of $269,008,000), the paying off of member bank indebtedness preceded the purchase of U. S. Government securities and therefore could not have been due to such purchases, these purchases simply preventing a contraction in the total volume of Reserve credit outstanding to that extent. As a matter of fact, while, as just shown, the reduction in the bill and discount holdings in this period of 5 weeks was $269,008,000, the increase in the holdings of U. S. Government securities was only half that amount, or only $131,062,000 (the holdings having risen only from $740,556,000 Feb. 24 to $871,618,000 March 30). The truth is the total of the bill and security holdings (which item constitutes a measure of the volume of Reserve credit outstanding) actually diminished $145,716,000 in this period of five weeks, the amount for March 30 having been reported at only $1,578,146,000, against $1,723,862,000 Feb. 24.

With the beginning, however, of the large scale purchases of $100,000,000 a week, the situation changed and since then the augmentation in the holdings of Government securities has been running far in excess of the reduction in member bank indebtedness as measured by the discount holdings and the bill holdings of the Reserve banks. This becomes clearly apparent when we compare the Federal Reserve returns for April 27 with those for April 6. In this period of three weeks the holdings of U. S. Government securities increased from $885,014,000 to $1,191,232,000, an addition of $306,218,000. On the other hand, the discount holdings have been further reduced only from $635,274,000 to $531,824,000, a decrease of $103,450,000, and the bill holdings have further diminished only from $57,946,000 to $45,874,000, a decrease in this last item of $12,072,000, making the combined reduction $115,522,000 as against the $306,218,000 of addition to the holdings of U. S. Government obligations. This would seem to indicate very clearly that there is no relationship between the purchases of Government securities and the reduction in member bank indebtedness, and that Reserve Bank reasoning based on the supposition of such relationship is to that extent fallacious and beside the point. The validity of the other inferences of the N. Y. Reserve Bank, as indicated the Bank's "Monthly Review," is necessarily subject to the same qualifications. After noting that membership indebtedness at the Reserve Banks between Feb. 24 and April 27 was reduced in amount of $303,000,000, but that there was at the same time a decline of "nearly $100,000,000 in other forms of Federal Reserve credit, due principally to maturities in the acceptance holdings of the Reserve banks," and that this "absorbed somewhat more than half of the funds received by member banks," and that "there was an increase of $236,000,000 in their reserve balances" the "Monthly Review" continues its discussion of the subject as follows:

"Thus, the position of member banks as a whole has been changed within the past two months from one of heavy indebtedness, in which they were endeavoring to relieve their situation through credit liquidation, to a position in which many banks throughout the country have been able to retire, or greatly reduce, their indebtedness, and a considerable number of banks have surplus funds with which they can increase the amount of their credit employed in investments or extended directly to their customers. This change in the situation of member banks is similar to the change in the banking situation which occurred following crises on several occasions previous to the creation of the Federal Reserve System. At such times there was a tendency for funds to flow back into New York after a crisis, so that surplus funds accumulated in New York, and within a comparatively short time found their way to work in an expansion of credit. The business recoveries of 1915-16, 1908-09, 1904-05, 1896-97, 1893-95, and 1885-87, all were preceded by such a concentration of excess funds in New York.

"A similar accumulation of funds does not readily occur under present conditions, due to the fact that since the war-time expansion the commercial banking system has been continuously dependent upon the Federal Reserve banks for varying amounts of Federal Reserve credit. Any return flow of currency to the banks, and any release of member banks' reserves through credit liquidation, tends to be absorbed by the repayment of Federal Reserve credit. Consequently, positive action of the Reserve banks, through open market purchases of Government securities, has been necessary before excess reserves could be created.

"Following a diminished rate of decline in member bank credit during March, there was some evidence by the end of April of a tendeney toward expansion. This is reflected in the foregoing diagram [we omit the diagram Ed.], which shows the total net demand and time deposits of weekly reporting banks in New York City and elsewhere. As this indicates, the deposits of the New York banks, after declining at an extraordinary rate during the last quarter of 1931 and the first two months of the current year, showed somewhat greater stability in March and have turned upward recently to the highest level since January. This upturn in deposits reflects in part the direct effect of Reserve bank security purchases and of redeposits of currency in the banks, but near the close of the period it reflected also, in part, the expansion of bank credit.

"The easing of the credit situation has not been limited to New York. Although the bulk of Reserve bank purchases of Government securities have been made in New York, the proceeds have been widely distributed. As in March, the distribution of funds during April occurred mainly through Treasury operations, including the disbursements made by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. The greater part of the reduction in member bank borrowings at the Reserve banks has occurred outside of New York, and the decline in the deposits of reporting member banks in cities other than New York appears to have been checked during the past few weeks, as the second part of the diagram indicates."

The further easing of money conditions during April was reflected in all branches of the money market. Great benefits at the same time inured to the U. S. Treasury in its large new financing operations, both in providing for maturing Treasury bills and in taking care of the large needs of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the growing budget deficit of the U. S. Government, which deficit, already in excess of over $2,000,000,000 for the fiscal year to date, kept assuming larger and still larger dimensions week after week. The details of the financing by the U. S. Treasury are given further above, under its own head, and we will only say here that the U. S. Treasury was finally able to sell Treasury bills on a discount basis of only about 5/8 of 1% per annum (one block of 91-day bills for a total of $75,000,000 being sold on a discount basis of about 0.62% per annum and another block of 91-day bills for $50,000,000 selling at an average price equivalent to a discount basis of 0.63% per annum), while towards the end of the month the Government negotiated with great success an offering of $225,000,000 of one-year certificates of indebtedness bearing only 2% interest and the same amount of two-year Treasury notes bearing 3% interest, subscriptions for the two issues combined aggregating no less than $4,196,296,700, so that the allotments had to be scaled down with the result that the largest percentage of allotment of any subscription was only 50%.

Owing to the same condition of extreme ease, resumption of gold exports on a considerable scale was wholly without effect as far as the money market was concerned. The Federal Reserve week ends on Wednesday and for the week ending April 6 no exports of the metal occurred. In the week ending April 13, however, they aggregated $20,156,000, in the week ending April 20 $9,203,000, and in the week ending April 27 $18,817,000, the bulk of the shipments going to France and to Holland, but larger or smaller amounts going also to other European countries, the whole offset by some arrivals of gold from Canada, Mexico and South America. The Federal Reserve estimate of the gold movement to and from the United States for the whole month of April is given, as usual, in our foreign exchange market, at the end of our remarks concerning the Course of Sterling Exchange.

Another development during the month grew out of the same condition of extreme ease prevailing, and the inordinately low money rates to which it led—the open-market rates for 90-day acceptances dropping to only 1% per annum bid and 7/8 of 1% asked, as noted further below. The development to which we refer was the action of the N. Y. Clearing House banks in reducing the interest allowance on deposits. Under the new ruling, which became effective on Friday, April 22, a change was made in the method of calculating the return allowed on the deposits kept with the banks. The rates themselves were not changed, but under the new rule deduction is made of that portion of the deposits which the banks are required to hold as legal reserves. This reserve is 13% in the case of deposits subject to call and 3% in the case of time deposits. In other words, under the change depositors receive interest on only 87% of their demand deposits and on 97% of their time deposits, instead of the full 100% as heretofore. The rates of interest themselves were not changed, as already stated, and as put into effect on Oct. 16 1931 remained at 1% on demand deposits, except deposits of mutual savings banks, on which 1½% is allowed, and at 1½% on time deposits. Some further reductions in the rates themselves, however, were deemed not unlikely, inasmuch as rates on bankers' acceptances, as already noted, dropped to only 1% bid and 7/8 of 1% offered in the open market, and, as also already mentioned, several blocks of 91-day Treasury bills were sold on a discount basis of only 0.62% per annum, and it is of course a fact that a large part of the liquid assets of the member banks are in high grade investments of this character which net a return to the banks in some instances lower than the interest which they allow on deposits. At the same time the Federal Reserve policy of credit expansion was calculated to reduce still further the return available on investments of this character and to leave the interest rate paid on deposits still further above the market for short-term investments.
